Construction Begins on Gift, Concessions Shops and More

NEW FEATURES MEANT TO ENHANCE THE GUEST EXPERIENCE

by Denice PAGE

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

CEDAR CITY — The Utah Shakespeare Festival and the Southern Utah Museum of Art (SUMA) recently broke ground on a multi-part project meant to enhance the guest experience at the Beverley Taylor Sorenson Center for the Arts on the campus of Southern Utah University.

The project includes a new gift store, a concession stand, a clock tower, an outdoor gathering area, and landscaping and seating upgrades at SUMA.

“Festival guests are in for a wonderful surprise when they visit this summer,” said Frank Mack, executive producer. “We are adding a new gift shop in the Engelstad Theatre, a new concession stand and beautiful new lawns and gardens that will include a colonnade of trees with new outdoor seating to form a new gathering place for guests to visit, relax, sip refreshments and enjoy the serenity of the Beverly Center for the Arts.” “Generous donations from the Gardner and Adelman families have made these improvements possible, and I’m grateful for their support,” he concluded.

In addition to private donors, Iron County has been awarded a grant for the overall undertaking from the Iron County restaurant tax. Southern Utah University also contributed significantly to enable the construction of the new gift shop.

TO BUILD OR NOT TO BUILD? To Build! Be not afraid of greatness!

COURTESY UTAH SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL

The biggest four projects are meant to enhance the Festival experience by providing shopping, concessions, and gathering space to the area east of the Engelstad Shakespeare Theatre.

The new Festival Gift Shop will be built into the east lobby of the Engelstad Theatre. The 1,200 square foot shop will be filled with souvenirs, clothing, books, programs, and more and will be operated by the Southern Utah University Bookstore. It will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. during the days of plays. The current Randall Gift Shop will still be open, but its footprint will be slightly smaller.

The outdoor gathering space, or “outdoor living room,” is just to the east of the new gift shop and will provide an inviting and comfortable space for guests to meet and mingle, relax, have a snack or lunch, and enjoy their time at the Festival. Much of the concrete will be removed and replaced by lawn areas, Victorian gardens, a colonnade of shade trees, and seating and tables.

Between the Engelstad Theatre and the Ticket Office will be the new Ellen’s Sweet Shop and the Gardner Family Clock Tower. The sweet shop will be open from 8:30 a.m. until intermission of the evening play and will sell candy, ice cream, prepared food, snacks, and drinks. For guests attending morning discussions in the seminar grove, Ellen’s Sweet Shoppe will be serving coffee and light breakfast items. It is named for Ellen Adelman whose family and friends provided the funding. The new clock tower is named for Ella Gardner who generously provided the funding for it.

In addition, two projects will be completed around the SUMA building.

Pathways, landscaping, and seating will be added to the Stillman Sculpture Court on the east side of SUMA adjacent to the Ashton Family Greenshow Commons. This will enhance the ambiance and comfort of guests as they wander through this outdoor collection of sculpture. In addition, seating will be added to the Stewart Family Foundation Plaza which serves as SUMA’s front door.

Construction is scheduled to be finished by the first week of June, before the first Festival production on June 27. Concurrent with the Festival’s opening is a related exhibit in SUMA, Karl Momen, Homage to William Shakespeare, running through October 5.

The 2019 lineup of plays at the Festival include four by Shakespeare: Macbeth, Hamlet, Twelfth Night, and the Festival’s four and one half-hour finale of the King Henry VI plays dubbed The Conclusion of Henry VI: Parts Two and Three. In addition, the season will include The Book of Will by Lauren Gunderson, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat by Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber, The Price by Arthur Miller, and Every Brilliant Thing by Duncan MacMillan with Jonny Donahoe.

Tickets for the season are now on sale: visit the Festival website at bard.org, call 800-PLAYTIX, or visit the Ticket Office next to the Anes Studio Theatre.

City emergency plan approved

by Kelsey KEENER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

The Cedar City Council approved the updated city emergency operations plan during last week's April 3 meeting after Fire Marshal Mike Shurtz presented it during the April 3 meeting.

Cedar City Fire marshal Mike Shurtz presented the updated plan noting that the last revision to the plan was in 2005.

"We felt like it was time to take a look at the plan and update it," he said. "We made some assignments and various department heads were given what they would be in charge of for the updates."

Shurtz said city staff involved in updating the plan used guidance from the Federal Emergency Management Agency and used Iron County's plan as a template as well other regional and state plans.

"In essence, FEMA says that cities should have a plan in case something catastrophic happens that gives us some framework or guidance as to how to respond to and mitigate it," Shurtz said.

Having a current emergency plan for the city also makes the Cedar City Fire Department eligible for a state grant.

"It's a State Division of Emergency Management grant," Shurtz explain. "The state has stepped in and said they want to provide some funding that helps us become more prepared and they give us some guidance as well, as to what they want to see and they want us to interface with the county and function as a regional and state group."

Shurtz said the intent is use the plan as a guide of sorts.

"The intent is to create a printed plan that would be in the hands of department heads and those that have responsibilities within the plan and to make it a living document, something we can use, and use to guide us," he said.

Vicinity plan, plats approved

by Kelsey KEENER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Two final plats and a vicinity plan were approved by the Cedar City Council during last week's meeting.

The vicinity plan for the Sage Springs subdivision, phases 2 through 4, was approved by council. It is located in the area of 2150 north Northfield Road and is planned for medium density residential housing. There will be 25 twin home lots and 1 single family lot, with lot sizes ranging from 4,500 to 13,000 square feet. The project received a positive recommendation from the Planning Commission.

The Cedar Edge planned unit development phase 2 received final plat as well. The project is located in the area of Shurtz Canyon Drive and Quartz Drive, and phase 1 was completed in June of last year. The development will consist of townhomes and also received a positive recommendation from Planning Commission.

The final plat for Talon Point at South Mountain phase 3 was approved during the same meeting. The development is near the Eagle Ridge Subdivision and Planning Commission gave the council a positive recommendation for the project.

OPINION

Will Teach for Living Wage

The opinions stated in this article are solely those of the author and not of Iron County Today.

Envision Utah, a citizen planning group is focusing on a looming challenge for Utah families: the number of public-school teachers continues to decrease while the school-age population grows. According to the organization the number of teachers quitting their jobs in 2016 was twice as many as those entering.

Under the capitalistic economic model, this supply vs. demand equation would lead to higher salaries. The difficulty is that while the vast majority of Utahns claim they support higher teacher salaries, there is no unified idea of how to pay for them.

As a former teacher, I am not sure that increased teacher pay would solve the problem. The headaches facing teachers goes far beyond the Benjamins.

Yes, teachers deserve more money. The median Utah teacher salary of $54,000 is among the lowest for college graduates, but even a 20% increase home grading papers or designing lesson plans. One can also say that the median salary doesn't take into account the high number of women teachers who leave the profession to raise children, creating less years on the salary scale. These are discussions for another day.

In my experience, the teacher shortage has as much to do with the lack of respect shown to the profession as does the salary. Winston Churchill notably said that the powers of teachers were more than those of the Prime Minister, but I don't believe parents fully understand the long-term significance – both positive and negative – a teacher can make in a student's life.

Teachers in Utah also face larger class sizes than almost anywhere in the country. An effective education involves

From the Editor

I Pledge Allegiance

Working for the newspaper I get to attend a lot of meetings. Most often there is a prayer, or a spiritual thought before they begin. However, I was able to attend a meeting where the Pledge of Allegiance was also said.

It had been awhile since I had said it personally, but as I did, I was reminded how powerful and patriotic it is. Sure we sing, or hum along to the familiar Star-Spangled Banner, usually during sporting events, but when was the last time you heard or recited the Pledge of Allegiance? At the meeting, I also overheard someone remark that we don't say it enough. Why not?

I don't have that answer but I know that we should say it more often. Not compelled to say it but wanting to say it because we are proud and grateful for the things which it stands for. We should say the pledge patriotically not robotically. Because when we say the Pledge of Allegiance we're honoring everyone who has and who continues to give their lives for this country. If we said the pledge more often, perhaps we'd not only have a little more pride for our country, but value it and protect it more, also.

When we say the Pledge, we're not pledging our allegiance to the flag as much as we are to what it represents. We are pledging allegiance, acceptance and adherence to our land, leaders and laws that help provide and protect freedom and fairness throughout our country. We should also be more encouraged to do our part as individuals to help make our country great by making our hearts, homes, communities and states great. When we do this, our world becomes great too.

Community needs discussed during forum

by Kelsey KEENER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Community Action Planner for the Five County Association of Governments Toni Tuipulotu hosted a community forum last week to assess the needs of Iron County residents.

Participants were asked to indicate on a chart what they felt were the top three most pressing unmet needs in Iron County. Categories were economic development and jobs; housing and utilities; healthcare; community development and infrastructure; family support, caregiver respite and parenting classes; transportation; food and basic necessities; emergency services; and personal finance and income management.

Tuipulotu began by explaining that the goal for the forum was to discuss what the needs in the county are and find potential solutions within the realm of the Five County AOG's ability to help.

When housing and utilities were discussed, concerns raised included an inability to find affordable rent prices, as well as a lack of low-income housing, affordable senior housing and long-term housing options for the mentally ill. Tuipulotu also informed participants of programs available that help people put down deposits for housing as well as cover utility expenses.

Economic development was linked to other categories such as income management, infrastructure and housing, and problems like low-wages and a lack of diversity in available jobs, were also mentioned. Other points made were an increasing sense of laziness in employees, degree programs at Southern Utah University that require students to leave the area to find jobs, and a perceived lack of a distinct middle class in Iron County. Bringing companies that utilize the education SUU offers to the area to provide more jobs and addressing intergenerational poverty and its resulting perception of the way people live

MOU approved for ice rink renovations

by Kelsey KEENER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

The Cedar City Council approved a memorandum of understanding with the Staheli family to move forward with plans for improving Cedar's Glacier ice rink.

Dallin Staheli approached the council during the April 3 meeting to propose an agreement with the city to improve the ice rink facilities. The proposal detailed a 20-year lease for the city property the ice rink is currently located on and asked the city to cover the cost of utilities, up to $85,000 per year while the Staheli family funds construction of the new facility. As concerns were raised about the future of possible city gymnasiums, the council asked to hear more from the Parks and Recreation department.

Sports and Recreation Program Manager Jennifer Weaver presented to the council during the April 9 meeting to provide information about the current programs offered by the city and the needs for city gymnasiums. Weaver discussed the gyms the city currently rents from the Iron County School District and the Southern Utah Sports Academy to operate community programs, along with the difficulties in scheduling and the cost of having to rent gyms to operate programs.

Weaver also mentioned additional considerations she felt were important to the discussion, such as including daycare when gymnasiums are built and developing a large, unused space that overlooks the pool at the Cedar City Aquatic Center. She said she feels recreation is an important thing for a community.

"Recreation, either way, is a wonderful thing," she said. "I think of what the hockey has done, I see the passion that they have brought forward, it reminds a lot of the passion that we had going forward for the gyms years ago and I felt like that was just a little defeated at the time...I don't want to see the same thing happen to them. I think a great judgment call on your behalf of trying to facilitate both avenues is the number one priority."

Following Weaver's presentation, Staheli addressed the council again to review the proposal and explain additional information from discussion between council meetings. Essentially, commitment to moving forward with an agreement was needed in order were ideas for growing economic development.

While on the topic of transportation, community members discussed the lack of transportation to and from Enoch, as well as transportation during evenings for events and the lack of bussing during the day for kindergartners, which limits parents' abilities to work during the day.

The discussion seemed to indicate housing and economic development as two of the top needs in the area, while the chart also indicated healthcare, family support and basic needs as top concerns. Tuipulotu created a poll in a local Facebook group as well, which ranked economic development as the number one unmet need, followed by housing and then healthcare.

teaching 35 individuals, not one grade period. Try doing that with students having special needs, different languages, and complex parenting.

Also, not every student is equally eager to learn. As one wit once wrote, "For every person trying to teach, there are 30 who don't want to be taught." Compare education to garbage collection. Everyone wants their garbage collected, not every student wants to learn biology or when to use a comma.

Toss in school district bureaucracy, complaining parents, ("My Johnny always got an 'A' before your class.") and the crushing pressure of end-of-year testing. Then throw in the politicization of fringe groups like the parents asking that their children never hear about climate change in science classes.

According to Envision Utah, some 36% of Utah college students considering pursuing teaching as a career cited low pay as a problem. I applaud the organization for forming a committee to address the issue, though I doubt our conservative legislature will do more than nibble at the salary gap. You don't get much applause at a Republican caucus meeting for suggesting a pay hike.

I look forward to hearing the finding of the committee members. However, the migration from teaching will not be slowed until the men and women in our communities start viewing educators as a "big deal," someone as valued and crucial as an accountant, physician, or attorney.

to move forward in securing a loan for funding the project and approaching community members who might be willing to provide discounted services or donations. Staheli discussed various options for moving forward after an agreement was made and noted that in the city's master plan the ice rink and gymnasiums are listed under the same importance.

Citing public domain as an indicator of public sentiment, Staheli said, "This has received, I would say, an overwhelming favorable reception from the community. I actually feel really good about the support that comes from the community. The community also wants a gym ... we want to support that effort -- in no way do we want to present this as an us versus them or a competitive thing. We really, genuinely do want to see these things grow ... we hope that this will be something that can spur good things in this community and not become a divisive thing."

Councilwoman Terri Hartley commended the Staheli family for the effort they have put in to the community, but also brought up several details that need worked out before an official agreement can be made in order to maintain transparency with residents. Potential risk to the city, naming right sponsorships, and construction costs were also areas of discussion during the meeting.

After input from all council members present, city staff and public comments, the council unanimously voted to approve a memorandum of understanding -- which essentially states the city's interest in moving forward with the project without committing to specific details of an agreement. This allows Staheli to pursue both a loan and alternative sources of funding, services and materials while discussion continues to determine a more in-depth agreement.

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

The Senior B.F.A. Capstone Exhibition opened on March 28th at The Southern Utah Museum of Art (SUMA). The exhibition is the conclusion of these students' art studio experience in the program and it is a beautiful representation of how capable they are of executing a professional exhibition. The exhibit features work from a variety of artistic emphases, including: ceramics, graphic design, photography, arts education, printmaking, drawing and painting. The exhibits vary based on the graduates focuses, there are displays concentrated on photography, apparel branding, 3D illustration, stationery design, painting, sculpture, and interactive artwork. Students focused on a wide range of personal interests and broad concepts in their displays.

Alana Tapaha, inspired by her culture, created an illustrated booklet of Navajo Sacred Animals. Emily Mitchell's beautiful fantasy themed illustrations concentrate on "identity, abuse of power, coming of age, balance in nature and real versus perceived heroism." Coexisting themes of complexity and minimalism in functional art was the center of Kaylee Prunty's Lords and Ladies playing cards. Kaylee Hoyt expressed the beauty of finding joy in the small things and employing sincere simplicity in her Motion Landscapes digital video. Kristian Evenson demonstrated the purposefulness of a simplistic branding design in the motorcycle industry with the Precision Graphics logo.

The benefit of identifying with characters and the importance this identification has in our lives is at the heart of Whitney Mitchell's uplifting character illustrations. Jeremy Ackley focuses on the vast influence of the arts in his Forsaken Threads clothing branding; art is in everything and all art forms need to be appreciated. Sierra Stein's character illustrations focus on understanding the human condition through art. Similar to Stein's purpose, Kyla Swain's photography explores our underlying identities. Michaela Johnson's gorgeous illustrations take us on a journey through this fantastical world we live in. Rawnie Bailey's invitations and stationery share the beauty of capturing memories. Hannah Sam's photography concentrates on overcoming our past in order to focus on the future. Morgan Barton's miniature scene creation and photography demonstrates the meticulous process of creating a world from scratch.

Lindsey Nelson focuses on the challenges associated with creating art and the growth that takes place in these challenges. Loving where you live, and the beauty of good and functional design is at the heart of Megan Jones's Wildflower baby swaddles. Kylie Nielsen discusses finding the beauty in everyday things and looking at design from an innovative perspective with her Travel Passport design. H. Ainsley Steed is focused on making the world more fun and relatable through exaggeration in art with the Up A Tree illustrations. Luke Wells discusses the artistic process and influence of everyday existence in his digital illustrations. Seeing what is unseen and creating imaginative art is portrayed in Aaron Lewis's digital illustrations. Themes regarding limitless possibilities and realizing your full potential are at the center of Jeremy Sorensen's Empyrean skateboard company branding. Stephanie Smith's beautiful artistic exploration of our commonalities is exhibited in her Bones collection.

Dustin Pullman created a much appreciated 'feel-good piece.' This is a fun interactive artistic exhibit exploring self-purpose. Hannelore Lamers examines the importance of story-telling and connection in comic illustrations and Tristin Lihme presents an intensive exploration of the similarities between human and animal in a multi layered anatomical sculpture. Kayla Gibbs's sculptures focus on examining a character from all angles with 3D illustration. Exploring the human form through sculpture, Laura Hall creates breathtaking Alabaster sculptures.

The Southern Utah University B.F.A. exhibit features many delightfully diverse displays, be sure to check out this fantastic exhibit at The Southern Utah Museum of Art (13 S. 300 W.) before it closes on May 3rd!

CHS Percussion & Jazz Ensembles

The Cedar High Redmen Band Council would like to extend a personal invitation to the final concert of the CHS Percussion and Jazz Ensembles. The concert will be held Monday, April 29, 2019, at 7:30 PM in the Cedar High Auditorium. (703 West Redmen Way)

Earlier this year, on March 23, the Redmen Jazz Ensemble performed at the State Jazz Festival at Murray High School. Brandon Brinkerhoff (trumpet), Emmie Gower (Tenor Sax), Natalie Moyle (Trombone) and Connor Childs (Drums) received awards as outstanding soloists. We will be performing our State Festival music so you will be able to hear each of them and several other soloists as well. The ensemble was one of 5 schools that received unanimous superior ratings, the only school outside of the Wasatch front, and only one of two in 4A. One adjudicator gave us a I+, which essentially gives us State Championship!

In addition to the three pieces performed at the State Jazz Festival, we will present a tribute to the legendary, and Mr. Shirts' favorite band, Chicago. Selections will include "Does Anybody Really Know What Time It Is," "Saturday In the Park," "Make Me Smile," "Free," and of course "25 or 6 to 4," plus several other hit songs. We will also feature two very special guest performers, Vane Satie and Sunni Jackson. Both are Cedar High graduates from 2011 and 2000 respectively. Vane is an amazing guitarist and played bass in the Redmen Jazz Ensemble. Sunni is an incredible flute player having played professionally in Italy as well as the U.S.

The Percussion Ensemble will also be performing two selections of classical music creatively arranged for percussion ensemble, the "Can-Can" from "Orpheus In the Underworld" by Jaques Offenbach and "Clintonian Sketch" by Jared Spears. Our third piece is "Viva Los Mazos" (Long Live the Mallets!).

Your support of the band is greatly appreciated, and we hope that you will be able to join us on April 29th for a wonderful evening of music.

SUU Percussion Ensemble Celebrates Moments of Sunshine

by Ashley H. POLLOCK

SUU COLLEGE OF PERFORMING & VISUAL ARTS

Southern Utah University, Cedar City, Utah SUU's Department of Music will host the SUU Percussion Festival including a concert titled, Moments of Sunshine, on Saturday, April 20, 2019, at 7:30 p.m. in the Thorley Recital Hall of the Music Building on SUU's campus. Guest artist Arthur Lipner will teach workshops and perform with the SUU Percussion Ensemble. This concert is free and open to the public.

Emily Sexton, percussion student at SUU, shares, "We are working on several pieces this semester, all themed around happiness. Some of the pieces we're working on include Alex Stopa's 'Three Scenes from the Desert', a three movement piece inspired by the desert landscapes of Southern Nevada and California; Clif Walker's 'Shine', and Claude Debussy's 'Sarabande', arranged for three marimbas by SUU's own, Professor Joe Howe. I am also absolutely thrilled to have the opportunity to work and perform with Arthur Lipner on his piece, 'Lime Juice'! I'm excited to be a part of the upcoming percussion festival; it's going to be amazing!"

Lipner has been performing percussion professionally since the age of 14. He has performed on almost 50 albums, appeared in 25 countries, and has had almost 100 of his compositions released on recordings. His specialty is jazz marimba and vibes. He is a performer who focuses on fun and good times.

Jordan Nielsen, senior percussion student at SUU, explains, "Our program is based around the idea of sunshine and the energy that it creates. My favorite work on the program is Soar by Robert Oetomo – a marimba concerto with percussion ensemble accompaniment. The piece has an energetic and optimistic quality that reminds me of flying above the clouds. I am very excited to perform this marimba concerto in my last percussion ensemble concert at SUU!"

Nielsen goes on to say, "Arthur Lipner is a master in the percussion world. Through his hard work and love of his craft, he has made a career for himself as a gigging percussionist. This is no easy feat and I'm looking forward to being able to learn everything I can from him."

Ring in the Spring with this percussion ensemble concert focusing on sunshine and happiness. For more information about the Percussion section at SUU, please visit <https://www.suu.edu/pva/music/percussion/>.

Enjoy the Broadway Spectacle of 42nd Street at SUU

by Ashley H. POLLOCK

SUU COLLEGE OF PERFORMING & VISUAL ARTS

Southern Utah University, Cedar City, Utah

SUU's Department of Theatre Arts & Dance is presenting 42nd Street on April 19, 2019 at 7:30 p.m. and April 20 at 2 p.m. in the Randall L. Jones Theatre. Tickets are $15 for adults, $12 for alumni with card, and $7 for youth. SUU faculty, staff, and students can get in free with a valid ID card. Tickets can be purchased at the America First Event Center Box Office, at the door the night of the performance, or online at www.suu.edu/pva.

Gower Champion, and was originally produced on Broadway by David Merrick. SUU's production is directed by Lisa Quoresimo, with choreography by Kay Andersen, Brandon Grayson as music director, and New York based, Jeff Savers, as the guest music director.

Ian Allred, a senior musical theatre major from Scottsdale, Arizona, explains, "This is a show about community and how a single, seemingly unimportant person can have a lasting positive effect on the lives of those around them. It is also a celebration of musical theatre itself, so if you love theatre, tap dancing, comedies, or just overall being happy

42ND STREET COMES TO SHAKESPEARE LANE. Don't miss this exciting performance!

Lisa Quoresimo, director of 42nd Street, tells, "This is an ideal show for SUU's Department of Theatre Arts and Dance. We have so many great tap dancers and singers among our students. On faculty we have the marvelous, magical Kay Andersen, who is capable of creating the most exciting, challenging choreography, and also of bringing the students along to the point where they can master it. Mostly though, the sheer joy of musical theatre, which is a huge theme in the show, is something every single one of these students brings into the room with them, and that is making the show an absolute delight to work on and to watch!"

This American musical has music by Harry Warren, lyrics by Al Dubin, with the book by Michael Stewart and Mark Bramble. It is based on the novel by Bradford Ropes, with original direction and dances by and enjoying yourself, this is right up your alley. As Julian so aptly observes in Act 2, 'Musical comedy are the two most glorious words in the English language.'"

Kenna Fullmer, a sophomore musical theatre major from Salt Lake City, Utah, says, "My favorite part of the rehearsal process has been working with amazing mentors. I love them all and have learned so much from them in the short time that we've worked together."

Lena Conaster, a junior at SUU from Layton, Utah, shares, "This production has taught me that even in the depths of despair and when nothing is going right, we can find comfort in each other and help each other along to achieve all our goals. It's such a fun show. It is light hearted and triumphant and I guarantee you will leave the theatre feeling like 'a raw beginner can be a winner!'"

Jason Tyler Burton and Mountaintop Sound deliver during ICAMA concert.

by Shay BARUFFI

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

The soulful Mountaintop Sound opened for Jason Tyler Burton at the Iron County Acoustic Music Association's latest concert. The concert took place at the Community Presbyterian Church, 2279 N Wedgewood Ln, Cedar City, where ICAMA hosts all of their concerts for the community.

Mountaintop Sound includes Cedar City locals, Steven Swift and April McPherson. The group included Chuck Triplett on the upright bass for their performance at the Presbyterian Church on April 12th. The duo creates a folk rock, bluegrass hybrid musical style and their voices work in a pleasing harmony.

Jason Tyler Burton is originally from Kentucky. He now resides in Wyoming. He writes and performs his own distinctive form of folk and Americana music. Burton has a strong, eclectic voice and a delightfully comforting music style. Much of his current music discusses his journey from Kentucky to Wyoming. Jason Tyler Burton's lyrics are warm and relatable.

The Iron County Acoustic Music Association (ICAMA) consists of Jim Howells, Lisa Cretsinger, Nancy Graf and Claire Whipple. The association's next concert will be on May 10th and they will present Lacey Williams' Maybelle Series Songwriters in the Round at the Community Presbyterian Church.

“An Ode to My Newspapers —All Three”

I love newspapers. We subscribe to three. Yep, three! That means that we have nine papers delivered to our door each week, one is daily and two are weekly. My husband sometimes questions the need for this, but I assure him that each one is necessary to my keeping up with life around me.

And besides, this paper is free. Well, not free to all those advertisers who buy those beautiful colored ads so that it can free for you and me, but it appears on my doorstep every Wednesday and tells me what is going on in Iron County. If it weren't for this paper, I wouldn't know what is happening culturally every week. I learn of things to come that I want to see and lament over the things that I didn't see because I was tardy in reading about them.

I don't know how to find out about things if I don't read it in the paper. Is there technology for this? Is there some perky female voice that will answer if I ask, “Okay, Suzy, what is happening in Cedar City next Friday?” Now, I know that Sara Penny knows about everything that is happening in Iron County, but I can't very well email her each morning and ask her. She's busy. Really busy. So, she lets “Iron County Today” know and it informs me.

I also get a great monthly Arts Council newsletter in my inbox that also tells me what's up, but it doesn't have the sports, columns, and reviews that this paper does. And I even read the advertisements. This time of year, they are full of those lovely guilt-inducing ads from Ladybug Nursery, for instance, that reminds me that a beautiful yard will not magically appear without effort on my part.

The daily paper would leave me ignorant of all things cultural, but it is great for letting me know who has died. This is important, because I want to send condolence cards in a timely manner. And the paper also contains a weather forecast, the crypt-quote, and the sudoku puzzles. Solving a daily puzzle is good for your brain. And I really want to know what is happening in our corner of the state. There are also local matters that affect me more than national ones that I need to be aware of, so I read the other newspaper.

And then on Sunday we get a big, fat paper from up north. The “Tribune” has important statewide news and intelligent, witty columnists who comment on it. I see if there are any concerts or plays that we need to travel up there for. I also read lengthy coverage of issues that should matter to me as a human being—homelessness, health, and injustice. Often, it makes me glad that air pollution is not going to kill me here.

The “Los Angeles Times” crossword puzzle takes me about a week to complete and then I use the extra pages to line my birdcage. On Monday, I am ready to start all over again. Life is good.

“Just Above My Head” – Ella Wrangle’s Exhibit Enchants Audiences

by Shay BARUFFI

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Ella Wrangle, a 15-year-old Freshman at Cedar City High School, became interested in the arts at age 12. At age 13, Ella discovered her love of textile arts when she learned the discipline from her neighbor when her family lived in Toquerville, Utah.

Ella's exhibit is titled, ‘Just Above My Head’, and is a reference to a novel by James Baldwin who is one of the artist's favorite authors. Ella is a passionate crochet artist and she creates beautiful free-handed crochet pieces. “I begin crocheting and it becomes something,” the young artist stated when asked about the design process. “I never could have visualized these shapes, or the piece as a whole, because my hands had to create them for me first.” Each crocheted piece takes about two to three weeks to create and they are incredibly detailed pieces.

The opening reception for the exhibit was held on April 12th at Art Works Gallery (16 N 100 W in Cedar City) and the room was overflowing with her supportive peers and family. Go check out this exhibit while it is displayed throughout the months of April and May at Art Works Gallery!

Home and Garden Fair Celebrates Heroes and Home Improvements

by Corey BAUMGARTNER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Each year the Iron County Home Builders Association (ICHBA) holds their annual Spring Home and Garden Fair. The fair brings together local vendors in the Cross Hollow Arena to showcase their trades and talents to help people improve their homes and yards. From landscape inspiration to insulation; from plants to porches and from gardens to garages, it was all found at the fair.

Another yearly favorite at the fair is the Cedar's Got Talent competition. There were also talented performances from the Rubik's Cube Youth Square dancers, Sunshine dance Studios, the Color Country Cloggers and Diversity Marshall Arts.

The highlight of the two day event was the benefit breakfast held in honor of two heroes, Jonah Banks and Hector Cruz. Jonah was diagnosed with Hodgkin's Lymphoma, stage 3 cancer. Despite almost losing his life during treatment, Jonah continues to fight with his family alongside him and he is doing very well.

Hector Cruz knows the meaning of hardship and continues to heroically face and fight his challenges. After losing much of his eyesight, he was infected with a rare bacterium called Cellulitis. This would lead to kidney failure, heart failure, pneumonia and a stroke, which rendered him speechless. Eventually the bacteria spread and caused the amputation of his legs and many fingers. With all this, the love of his family continues to fuel his fight.

If you missed any of the fair, visit <http://springhomeandgardenfair.com/> to get more information on vendors and ideas for your next home improvement project.

Reducing expenses using the “Step-Down” Principle

How much debt are you carrying right now? What percentage of your income is being used to pay off debt? How much debt is okay? How can you get out from under your current debt load? Am I always stressed about my finances? These are just some of the questions you might ask yourself to gauge your state of financial well-being.

Debt Numbers by Generation.

Northwestern Mutual, a well-known financial services company estimates:

- » Gen Z and younger Millennials (ages 18-24) are carrying an average debt of $22,000- with student loans being the major culprit;
- » Older Millennials (ages 25-34) have about $42,000 in debt- the largest being credit cards;
- » Gen X (35-49) are $39,000 in debt- the largest debt is their home mortgage;
- » Baby Boomers (50 years and older) average $36,000 in debt- the top three debts include mortgages, credit card bills and car loans. (<https://www.cnbc.com/2018/08/20/how-much-debt-americans-have-at-every-age.html>)

Debt continues to plague each generation due mainly to salary and wages not keeping pace with rising costs of health care, increased tuition at colleges and universities and prices of housing, which are all much higher than they were 20 years ago. Also, nearly all of us are living in a new reality that may not equate to what our parents or grandparents experienced, namely, that hard work, holding a steady job so you can retire with a pension and accessing social security benefits lead to a cushy retirement.

The Step-Down Principle.

So, is living with debt simply a given? Is that what it's going to take to get ahead and have a good life? Not necessarily. Rather than living life with a debt load that seems insurmountable, consider applying what is known as the “Step-Down” principle. This principle helps you look at different way to make a purchase that is acceptable but less expensive than perhaps your first choice or preference.

The next time you prepare to make a purchase, think about a staircase. Place the most expensive way to make that purchase on the top step, the next most expensive way on the second step, and so-on until the least expensive purchase method is on the bottom step.

Food Purchases- Take, for example, how many times you eat out each week. The top step might be “Restaurant”, followed by “Fast Food”, “Prepared Food” (like a frozen dinner purchased at the grocery store, “From Scratch” (meaning you combine the ingredients to create the meal) and then any other option you might have in between.

There's more than one way to step-down here. It doesn't have to be extreme. Perhaps you carry a sack lunch from home 1-2 days per week instead of going to a restaurant; or perhaps you order an appetizer at a restaurant instead of an entrée; or you prepare freezer meals on the weekend to heat up at work 2-3 times per week.

Transportation- Another area of expenses where the step-down approach is successful is transportation. If you insist on always owning a new car loaded with the latest options for technology and comfort every 2-3 years, you will spend a fortune on vehicles in your lifetime. In this case, “2019 Vehicle FL “(fully loaded) would be your top step followed by “Newer Used Car”, “Low Mileage Older Car”, ending with “Riding a Bike” to work, etc.

Especially in the first few years of being in the workforce fulltime, beginning salaries do not usually support living “the dream” so to speak. It's best to avoid living the proverbial “Champagne taste on a beer budget.” Give yourself a few years to settle in, living much like it was your college years and save, save, save. The longer you can live on less than you make, the more it will become a habit leading to better financial security. Good luck incorporating the step-down pathway. # Art contest raises awareness during child abuse prevention month

by Kelsey KEENER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

The Family Support Center invited third through fifth graders throughout Iron County to participate in an art contest following the theme of, 'what your family means to you', as part of the National Child Abuse Prevention Month.

The art contest is designed to help raise awareness for the problem of child abuse and all participants' artwork will be displayed in the children's section of the Cedar City community members of Iron County.

"This is a real-life thing, even though people might not think it is," he said. "We need to bring all that (awareness) and incorporate it into not only schools but the community as well as faculty and staff and whoever the caregivers, or childcare providers are around our county. The initiative is state-wide and the campaign is nation-wide so if we can start focusing it more throughout the country, I think it would make an even bigger impact for us here."

Library through the rest of this month. There is also a pinwheel garden in front of the library, in conjunction with the state-wide child abuse prevention campaign.

A reception was held last week on April 9, at the library so participants and their families could see their artwork on display. Students were asked to illustrate what their families mean to them, and 13 winners will have their art in the Family Support Center's 2019-2020 school year calendar.

Activities and Event Coordinator Joshua Seilaff said the FSC offers classes on child abuse prevention and has age-appropriate curriculums on the subject for all grade levels that can be taught in schools upon request. He said he hopes these awareness efforts will reach the Sowards added that the focus of the art contest is intended to be positive.

"The art contest isn't about child abuse, the art contest is about why kids love their families, what makes their families stronger and if you go look at what they have tried to illustrate, it's powerful," she said. "It just really shows how important families are to kids and if we can strengthen the family, help parents and make family units stronger then we ultimately will reduce and eliminate child abuse."

According to Prevent Child Abuse Utah, one in five children in Utah will be sexually abused before the age of 18. During the 2018 fiscal year, Utah Child Protective Services had more than 7,000 substantiated cases of child abuse or neglect.

Cedar High School Transition Team Update

by Cory HENWOOD

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

The Cedar High Transition team—made up of students, faculty, staff and alumni—has met several times over the course of the last six weeks. The conversations have been respectful and direct, and the overall participation has been very healthy.

In order to inform and guide their discussions, the transition team set forth two key guidelines:

- 1) To honor traditions while securing the future; and
- 2) To maintain the values of strength, honor, courage, excellence and unity.

Transition team members have taken ideas and concepts out to their respective constituent groups to seek input and return with feedback. That feedback has been considered and has helped inform the conversations.

On March 26, in a student assembly, the student leaders presented to the high school student body and the 8th grade students nine potential mascots: Reds, Titans, Aggies, Iron Wolves, Iron Miners, Tribe, Ranchers, Rockies, Royals.

The student voting resulted in Reds receiving the most votes, and Royals and Titans placing second and third. After reviewing the results and seeking further input, the transition team decided to move forward with Reds as the school's identity and has recommended to the high school administration and school district officials that a professional branding agency be retained to guide the students through the process of creating a new mascot for the school.

The transition team feels strongly that students should lead the creation of the mascot that will accompany the name Reds. The transition team also asked that school colors and other elements reflecting the school's traditions and heritage be preserved.

The transition team wishes the community to know that this was not an easy process. However, there is much good coming from this experience. The Cedar High community is well on its way to finding its own voice in this process, and the students feel empowered with opportunity to design a new mascot.

There is still work to be done as the new mascot is created. The process of creating a new design will address issues like cost benefit analysis for elements of the school that will need to be adapted. Those details will be forthcoming at a later date.

The transition team feels that it is time for everyone to move forward. Now that a decision has been made, it is time to let the Cedar High School community get about the business of educating students and graduating the senior class of 2019 in a positive and enthusiastic manner.

The team is grateful for those who, through their efforts, dedication and service, have made Cedar High great for over 70 years. They recognize that the true meaning of any symbol or brand is not the design element itself but the values behind that element, and for Cedar High those values will always be strength, courage, honor, excellence and unity.

IRON COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT

South Elementary

South Elementary stepped "back in time" as we took a few minutes to spotlight our "Dynamite" principal, Mr. Oldroyd. It was an assembly that involved kind thoughts, a fun 80's dance performed by several teachers and of course lots of laughter. South Elementary is a school with dynamite students, faculty and staff!

JERRY OLDROYD our Dynamite Principal.

Fiddler's Canyon Elementary

Congratulations to our three Fiddler's Canyon Elementary students going to the district Calculator Challenge: Kaden Adams, Ashton Holland, and Damien Jones! We are so proud of them and wish them all the best as they represent our school.

Enoch Elementary

Enoch Elementary congratulates Faith Riddle whose drawing for the yearbook cover contest won first place. Her art will be published on this year's yearbook. Sadie Lovell and Kyson Forbert were voted second and third place, and their drawings will also be in the yearbook.

Code Changers visited 3rd-5th graders on April 8-9. Students learned how to create their own virtual reality scenes and program robots. Thank you, Code Changers, for the amazing hands-on technology lessons!

School Resource Officer Isaac Askeroth taught bike and pedestrian safety this week. April 12 was bike and walk day. Students earned prizes and participated in a bike rodeo.

The Fun Run will be on April 24. Students will collect donations based on how many laps they can run. The donations will help with school improvements.

Escalante Valley School

Escalante Valley School would like to congratulate Giovanni, Oscar & Paislee, from 4th grade, for representing our school at the recent district math challenge.

We had a great turnout for our school's science fair, and would like to congratulate our overall top winners; Coy, Ada, Paislee, and Madeline.

The ICSD Kite Flight will be held at Cedar Middle School on Saturday, April 27th from 10-3. Please come support our school!

Three Peaks Elementary

The 5th grade students at Three Peaks Elementary had the opportunity to visit the Rosenbruch Wildlife Museum on April 9, 2019. This museum features over 35,000 square feet of space and houses a two-story mountain pathway that winds through the plains of Africa, the forests of North America, the mountains of Asia, and many other locations. Along the journey, students were able to see over 300 mounted species of wildlife and two live waterfalls. The Hoy insect exhibit was very informative and featured specimens from all over the world. We would like to thank the museum staff for making this event very informative and enjoyable for the students.

The 2nd grade classes performed Shakespeare plays for the school on April 11, 2019. Linda Reid's class did the first 1/2 of Much Ado About Nothing. Liz Jones' class did the second half of Much Ado About Nothing. Tonya Hunter's class and Susan Parker's class performed Midsummer Night's Dream. Thank you to the teachers for all of their hard work in preparing these students for their plays. They will perform again at the Bard's Birthday Bash on April 22 and for parents on April 25, beginning at 6:30 pm. ICSD Spring Break is April 15-19. School will resume on April 22, 2019.

Aton visits Historical Society meeting to discuss “Crimson Cowboys”

by Kelsey KEENER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Southern Utah University English professor James Aton spoke at last week’s Iron County Historical Society meeting to discuss his recently published book, Crimson Cowboys: The Remarkable Odyssey of the 1931 Claflin Emerson Expedition.

Aton began by explaining a little bit about the expedition. It was the longest horse-packed archeology trip in the history of American archeology at more than 400 miles traveled and resulted in hundreds of photos, notes and other artifacts. The goal of expedition was to research the Tavaputs Plateau, which was rugged terrain with few water sources and only one person in the team had experience in the saddle.

“It was the kind of expedition that young men take when they really don’t know any better,” he said. “And, experience notwithstanding, they were just fearless when it came to accessing cliff ledges and the kinds of places that people wouldn’t go today without climbing equipment.”

The expedition was funded by William H Claflin and Raymond Emerson at the request of American archeologist Alfred V Kidder. The trip was planned by Henry B Roberts and Donald Scott, guided by David D Rust and other team members included five Harvard University students.

Aton went over some of the details of their journey, including the routes they took, different canyons and places they explored and some of the sites they excavated. While many sites they came across had already been discovered and looted, they traveled to some areas of the Tavaputs Plateau archeologists had never been to, like Range Creek.

“No archeologist had ever been in the west Tavaputs Plateau, and it’s not clear why they went there,” Aton said. “It’s probably some local cowboys that told them about Range Creek. This was absolutely the most arduous, remarkable, difficult part of the expedition. It was the kind of thing that young men do when they just don’t know any better; yet, they did it without a scratch to life or limb and they ended up seeing things that no archeologist had ever seen before.”

When the group finished excavating in Nine Mile Canyon, there were still 17 days of the expedition to fill. On the last day of the expedition, two team members were sent to what is now known as Deluge Shelter but they only had two hours left to excavate it and to leave before they were able to make a discovery. Deluge Shelter turned out to be one of the most important sites in the American west, with 15 layers of human occupation uncovered in the 1960s covering a 10,000-year span of human history.

Aton also touched upon several reasons why the summary report of the expedition was never written, which was the reason the expedition was not recognized as the remarkable feat it was until decades later. After discussing what the student team-members did following the expedition, Aton offered what he considers the legacy of the expedition.

“It might be a little presumptuous to talk about the legacy of the Claflin Emerson Expedition, because as I said, the report never got written,” he said. “And yet, it really was a hallmark in the history of American archeology. It was the first exploration north and west of the Colorado River; it gave us a definition of the Fremont Complex, which largely holds true today; and it established the archeological importance of the Northern Colorado Plateau, something that successive generations of archeologists have built on. It still is largely a forgotten expedition, but it was the last of what we can call adventure archeology; that’s archeology for the sake of finding cool things.”

FAITH

It is Finished

by Insert NAME

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Imagine Mozart or Bach or Beethoven applying the final stroke to one of their musical masterpieces and someone who knows nothing about music coming up behind them and saying, "I think you need to add this..." Would they not be rightly offended?

Imagine a master carpenter driving the final nail into a finely crafted piece of furniture and someone who knows nothing about carpentry or furniture making coming along and saying, "I think it needs something more." Would not the master carpenter be rightly offended?

Imagine a New York Times best-selling author completing another book and just before sending it out for publication someone who knows nothing about grammar or plots or story lines comes with pad and pen in hand commenting, "It's good, but is lacking in these ways..." Would not the author be rightly offended?

On Friday, Christians celebrate what Jesus accomplished on the cross on their behalf. Good Friday commemorates the completion of the work that He came into the world to do. First Timothy 1.15 tells us that "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." When Jesus cried out from the cross, "It is finished!" (John 19.30) that is exactly what He accomplished. The debt for sin was paid; the justice of God was satisfied; the way for sinners to be justified before God was paved. The work necessary to save sinners was done.

Imagine someone now coming along and saying to Jesus, "I think something else still needs to be done. I think I need to do something in addition to what you did, Jesus." Shouldn't Jesus be rightly offended by such a statement? Whenever we believe that something needs added to what Jesus did in order to earn forgiveness and salvation from the wrath of God (see Romans 5.9), you and I offend Jesus. We are essentially telling Him, "I know you said, 'It is finished,' but I don't think it is."

The God who knows how to save a soul has done all the necessary work to save a soul. When we think that our good works are needed in addition to what Jesus has done, believing that the combination of the two unlock eternal life, we offend Jesus. He said, "It is finished!" As a result, He can now offer salvation to you and me, not as something still needing to be earned, but as a gift. Romans 6.23 describes eternal life in exactly that way - "The wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord."

When was the last time you needed to do something in order to receive a gift? If you did need to do something, then what you were receiving was not a gift. God offers eternal life as a gift. Therefore, simply believe that Jesus did all that was necessary to pay the debt you could not pay. By faith alone in Christ alone, simply receive His gift. Believe that when Jesus said, "It is finished!" that is what He meant and receive it, like you would any gift, His gift of eternal life. Look to Jesus, "the author and finisher of our faith." (Hebrews 12.2)

Sister Yvonne Hatt Woman of the Year Awarded

by Donna DISCHBEIN

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Since 1977 the women of Christ the King Catholic Church have nominated and voted for a woman in the community who makes a positive difference in the community.

Three years ago, this event was renamed the 'Sister Yvonne Hatt Woman of the Year'. She was a tremendous example of someone who dedicated her life to church and community.

This award is a great honor given to women who should be recognized for all their accomplishments to their church and their community.

This year the award was given to Charlotte Sommers.

Charlotte volunteers at the Iron County Sheriff's office working with their Volunteers in Police Service program. She is the group's secretary and dispatcher and her husband, Bill Sommers, is the groups Commander. When the sheriff needs personnel at a moment's notice, she will dispatch the volunteers to get the needed help for the sheriff.

Charlotte owns her own custom embroidery business that services several law enforcement agencies, university departments, as well as many businesses throughout Utah and Nevada.

She has embroidered convention bags for the DCCW convention on two different occasions by volunteering her time to do these. Through her sewing talents she has also made several banners to hang in the church. She helps to furnish shirts with embroidered logos to the CWC as well as shirts and jackets for the Knights.

Charlotte has two grown children, Jenny and Norman, one grandson and 7 step grandchildren. She is blessed to have her family nearby, enjoys sewing, crafting, and traveling.

Charlotte is always kind and helpful. She is ready to volunteer when help is needed. She is absolutely deserving of this honor.

Grateful for Gethsemane (Part 1)

Throughout the scriptures, God has often used gardens to punctuate principles. One of the first great miracles, besides the creation of the earth, happened in a place called the Garden of Eden; the mortal birthplace of mankind.

There is another garden wherein one of the most selfless and loving sacrifices was made. It is the Garden of Gethsemane. It is here where many believe that Jesus Christ took upon Himself the sufferings and sorrows of all mankind. It was

What was so important about this prayer? Surely Jesus had prayed thousands of times before without enduring such physical suffering. Perhaps even in the same garden. What then was so important about this prayer and unique about this night? Why and how did Jesus keep praying despite such anguish of heart, mind and body? Because He loves us! Because He wants to be there with us no matter what we're going through. Not as some cosmic observer, but our comforter and champion.

How comforting to know that He knows! He knows how it feels to be abandoned, abused, lost, tossed away, here that He experienced every individual pain, heartache and despair ever experienced, or will be experienced.

Surely no mortal could endure such pain and yet, even for the Son of God, it caused Him to cry out for God to take away the bitter cup; asking for another way. He knew there was no other way and His will, as it had always been, became the will of God.

To some, this mighty and miraculous prayer may be a mystery or thought of as simply a prayer of sorrow and anguish prior to His ultimate suffering on the cross. But this was no ordinary prayer. It was agonizing being under such emotional and spiritual pain that even as the Son of God, He sweat great drops of blood. The scriptures also say that an angel from Heaven was sent, not to rescue Him, but to strengthen Him so He could continue and complete the prayer.

broken, beaten and worthless. It is this very knowledge and intercessory experience, gained that sacred night in the Garden, that allows Him to not only be our Savior in the last days, but our Savior now, in these days. We can trust and rely on the Savior completely to not only stand by us in our trials but to understand them perfectly because he suffered each one of them for each of us.

With so many blessings and miracles to be grateful for during this Easter season, let us give God and our Savior greater gratitude for the gifts from the Garden. Not just the gift of hope for healing and rescue from our sins, but for the gift of knowing that we will never be alone in our trials. And having Christ as our compassionate companion, to strengthen us and encourage us as we endure our own Gethsemanes, how can we not rejoice and press forward!

Pres. Wyatt discusses new 3-year degree with community

by Kelsey KEENER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Southern Utah University President Scott L Wyatt led a community discussion last week to provide details and answer questions about the recently-approved three-year bachelor's degree program.

President Wyatt began by offering the available information about the community and explained that the goals are to create more opportunities for students as well as provide additional compensation for faculty if they choose to teach in the summer.

"Nobody will be forced to go to school in the summer and nobody will be required to teach in the summer," he explained. "It's purely another option for everyone if they choose."

Another reason for proposing the program is to utilize the school's campus, buildings and facilities more fully throughout the year, rather than sit mostly idle for four months.

"(The legislature) would love to see us them year-round," he said. "So, this is from the funding that's coming to SUU, 3.8 million dollars every year, to pay faculty salaries so they can teach in the summer and give additional opportunities to students."

President Wyatt said the school expects very gradual growth for participation in summer classes, but hopes to see roughly 4,000 students taking summer classes within three or four years. He also intends to build up student life over the summer the same way it has been in fall and spring semesters.

"This is the first time that I know that the legislature has given SUU a significant amount of money to some kind of a project like this," he said. "This is a huge honor for us to be trusted enough that we can try it."

One of the yet-to-be-determined factors of the program is the schedule. To accommodate for a summer semester, spring semester may be shortened by one to two weeks. President Wyatt said students will still have breaks and holidays, and hopes to have at least a month between semesters as well. If semesters are shortened, classes will be extended from 50 minutes to 60 minutes.

Assistant to the President Steve Meredith spoke to address concerns that some courses may not be teachable in a short semester, and said Brigham Young University Idaho has actually seen test grades increase, even in courses like organic chemistry, since instituting a full summer semester.

"They attribute a lot of that to the fact that when they went from a 50-minute class to a 60-minute class on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, teachers didn't just add 10 minutes of lecture they rethought how they were delivering their courses," Meredith said.

President Wyatt also hopes the program will help mitigate the school's growth and make it more manageable.

"I think that one of the advantages is that it will have a nicer impact on parking lots, roads, the community and housing," he explained. "We're hoping that part-time jobs will better year-round as well. If approximately half the freshman class opts in, that's half of freshman class that will leave one year early. If that first class leaves then you've got, in essence, one-eighth of the whole student body that isn't there for the fourth fall. So as the university continues to grow, the growth will be moderated."

The program could also be beneficial to the university's budget regarding faculty members. If two faculty members choose to teach for two summers, that saves the university from hiring an additional full-time faculty member. Additionally, each current faculty member that chooses to teach in the summer represents one less additional office space that will be needed.

"There's a lot of really positive pieces to this for our budget, such as keeping costs low for students and moderating our growth," President Wyatt said.

Community members asked several questions, particularly about housing. President Wyatt recognized that there may be some difficulties during the transition, but ultimately thinks it will benefit local housing landlords.

"I do see that there's some entanglements on this first go through that's going to happen," he said. "But hopefully it's not going to be a serious challenge. One of the secondary goals is to support landlords in the community because we think that overall this is going to be a very positive thing for all landlords."

the community and who continue to support it with their time, energy and money. Many of those who contribute have not been back to Cedar City for years but still remember the community that embraced them and made them feel welcome while attending school here.

Hidden Treasures

The Rut LESS TRAVELED

by Corey BAUMGARTNER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

One of my favorite parts of Easter is hiding and hunting for eggs. It's a true test of creativity and ingenuity for both the hider and seeker. Whether you're an eggs-perienced hider, hunter, or both, you know the fun of finding the perfect hiding spot and the egg-citement of finding that final elusive egg. Hiding and finding all of them requires thinking outside the basket. Depending on who is hiding them, some eggs may be tougher to locate. You don't want to leave any unfound for very long, or your nose will get a hidden surprise as well. Therefore, here are some helpful hints for your hiding and hunting.

There are great places outside like mailboxes, tree branches, flower pots, car tires, and anyplace with lots of grass, weeds or shrubs. Remember, camouflage is your friend. In other words, don't hide pink eggs in green grass. Hiding eggs inside can also be tricky. Some favorite hiding spots include picture frames, houseplants, bookshelves, upside-down cups, and under the couch—not under the couch cushions—trust me! If you're really feeling creative, or vindictive, you can even hide eggs inside shoes or cereal boxes. (You did not hear these ideas from me.) The point is to have fun. You want the searchers to successfully fill their baskets not become basket-cases. Also, hiding needs to account for age, experience and height of the seekers!

What's the point I'm dye-ing for you to discover? Just like finding Easter eggs, life is full of hidden treasures and miracles for you to find. Some are trickier and take more time. Some will make you reach a little higher, while others are in plain sight and within easy reach. Regardless, I've learned that hidden treasures and miracles are as specific and special as the person who finds them. They are never too far out of reach or hidden so well that you never find them; if you're willing to keep looking.

Even if you haven't found a treasure in a while, don't stop believing or searching. Your heart's basket may feel empty now, but it will be filled. Sometimes there's a miracle in the mailbox, or you can wipe away the treasured tears of a friend. Making someone smile, offering a helping hand, a healing hug, and a sure shoulder to lean on are the true treasures in life. We don't even have to hide them. Just as Easter eggs are beautifully and creatively colored, we each have our own special beauty and color to share with the world.

At this time of renewal and rebirth, let your heart and soul discover new life. Don't stop searching until you find those hidden treasures waiting just for you; even if you do find a rotten egg now and again. While you're searching, share the treasures in your basket with those who need to be uplifted, supported, encouraged, comforted and reminded that life itself is a miracle to be treasured every day. Happy Easter!

OBITUARIES

Marie Smith

Marie Smith passed away on Wednesday, April 10, 2019, in Cedar City, Utah. She was born May 20, 1931 in Arriba, Colorado, to parents Perry Richard Bradley and Ella Mae Bradley. ### Allen Dwayne Conn

Allen Dwayne Conn, age 87, passed away peacefully on April 8, 2019, at his home in Enoch, Utah. He was born on April 22, 1931, in Beloit, Kansas to Clarence Adolphus and Margaret Lucille (Burnham) Conn. He had one brother.

He graduated from Beloit High School in 1949. He then served in the Navy during the Korean War on the ship Norton Sound. He met his loving wife Irene at a USO dance and was married on April 24, 1954 in San Fernando, California. They were later sealed for time and eternity in the Logan Utah Temple.

He graduated from the Ventura Jr. College with a degree in Agriculture. He worked for the Experimental Station at the University of Nevada in Reno and in Wadsworth, Nevada. He was active in the Boy Scouts of America and received many awards. He later took the opportunity to work as a butcher at the county store in Fernley, Nevada. During his time in Fernley, he was the Branch President and Bishop of the local Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He then moved with his family to Winnemucca, Nevada. He managed a ranch and later worked in the mining industry for several years. He continued his love of ranching and worked on several local farms before retiring to Utah. He also worked for Walmart as a greeter.

He was active in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and served in many callings. He enjoyed his time serving as a temple worker in the Reno Nevada Temple.

He retired to St. George, Utah, and recently moved to Enoch, Utah, to be closer to his family. He is preceded in death by his parents, brother, Jack, and son David, son-in-law James and great-grandson Brendan. He is survived by his wife, Irene of 64 years and children Linda (James), DeeDee (Jay), Bill (Lisa), and Susan. He has 13 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Our family wishes to thank the Intermountain Home Health & Hospice team for their kindness and support.

Funeral Services will be held on Friday April 12, 2019, at the Enoch Utah West Stake Center at 11:00 a.m. with a viewing from 10:00-10:45 a.m., just prior to services. Interment will be in the Cedar City Cemetery under the direction of Affordable Funeral Services in Cedar City, Utah, 435-586-3456. In Lieu of flowers contributions may be made to Nevada State Bank for Dwayne and Irene Conn.

OBITUARIES

Lynda Mitchell Green

Lynda Mitchell Green, Age 78, passed away on April 5, 2019, at home in La Verkin, Utah with her son by her side after battling health problems for several years. She was born on July 9, 1940, in Cedar City, Utah, to Carlyle B. and Kathleen Stones Mitchell. She was the oldest of five children.

She grew up living in Paragonah, Parowan, and Cedar City, Utah, spending her time with her many close cousins and learning from and helping her grandparents and parents. She was raised on and around the farm during her childhood and learned the value of hard work and how to do the many tasks that go along with farm life. Like bottling fruit, making jam, butchering meat, sewing, quilting, cooking, gardening, caring for the animals and for kids.

During high school she met and married W. R. "Bud" Green. Together they had four children. During their years together, they owned and operated Bud's Sports Sales, selling motorcycles and snowmobiles. Most of the time away from work revolved around these activities, where they met many life-long friends. Together with the help of family and friends they built a real log cabin at Navajo Lake, that still stands today after almost 60 years.

Following their divorce, she spent the next twenty years working in the medical field. The first ten years she worked at Valley View Medical Center as a CNA, medical assistant, in the business office, admissions, ward clerk, and in the Emergency Room. During this time, she made many close friends and still remains very close to several of them. Also, during this time and the remainder of her life she dedicated and sacrificed much of her life and time to caring for her youngest son with his many health challenges and surgeries.

In 1989 she decided to follow one of her dreams to live by the ocean – so she and her son, along with a friend and her two kids, moved to Southern California for a couple of months, then on to live in Rosarito Beach, Baja Mexico, where she lived 100 yards from the beach. During this time, she also worked in Chula Vista, CA, at Scripps Hospital Emergency Room.

After a couple of years in Mexico she moved back closer to home, first to Overton, NV – working at the medical clinic there for a year. Then she moved to Washington City, UT, where she managed a chiropractic clinic for her "best boss" Dr. Michael Hobson. She then decided to give the medical field a rest and followed another dream to own and run her own gift shop – selling handcrafted gifts. So, in 1999, in Springdale, UT, she opened her gift shop – Dreams Do Come True. After her lease ran out – two years later – she was forced to close. She then worked at a motel in Springdale for a year. She and Bret build their home in La Verkin and due to her health, she had to stop working.

Lynda's life has been dedicated to her family, which has always been most important, she especially cherished her time as a grandmother spending and enjoying time with her grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She always found ways to serve those around her. She loved the mountains, the beach, visiting with friends, traveling, crafting, sewing, crocheting, reading, puzzles, canning, winning at Yahtzee at the cabin, and she holds the family title for the Easter Egg Fighting Champion. She is a faithful member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. She has served in many callings during her life and has a strong testimony of the Gospel.

She is survived by her four children, Mark of Cedar Mountain, Todd (Marilyn) of Cedar City, Debby (Lief) Condie of Cedar City, Bret of La Verkin. Her seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren (with two more on the way). Her three siblings, Blair (Carla) Mitchell of Washington City, Susan (Jay) Adams of Cedar City, and Carla Fullerton of Cedar City. She was preceded in death by her parents Carlyle and Kathleen Mitchell, her grandparents Daniel Amasa "D.A." and Leona Stones, Frank and Phebe Jane Mitchell, and many aunts and uncles.

A graveside service will be held prior to interment on Thursday, April 11, 2019, at 1:00 PM at the Paragonah Utah Cemetery.

The family will be holding a Celebration of Life for Lynda at a later date.

Ruth Kay Barrow

Ruth Kay Barrow returned to her heavenly home on April 5, 2019. She was born on January 13, 1957, in Fort Knox, Kentucky, to Marie Ruth and John William Barrow and was raised in Ironton, Ohio. She grew up a sweet, kind, happy child who enjoyed playing with her younger sister Linda.

Ruth was preceded in death by her parents and is survived by her daughter Tricia, her sister Linda (Greg) Bookhardt, her niece Melissa (Rob) Allen, and great nephew Joshua Delk. Ruth's greatest pride was being a mother to her beloved daughter Tricia. She was most grateful for her daughter's support and unconditional love.

Ruth was devoted to God and was faithful in the gospel of Jesus Christ. She was endowed in the Columbus Ohio Temple, and enjoyed attending the temple throughout her life. Ruth devoted much of her adult life to her family history and served many years as a family history specialist, helping to connect people to their ancestors. Ruth loved missionaries and referred to herself as a "missionary mom" to the many elders and sisters with whom she served in Ohio and Florida. Ruth held a special appreciation for her ward Bishops and deeply valued their love, concern and counsel. She also enjoyed many friendships in the Hillcrest Ward and was grateful for their countless acts of love, kindness and service.

Ruth had a sincere interest in people and was thrilled when friends called or visited. She had a wonderful sense of humor, a joyful smile, and a mischievous gleam in her eyes. Ruth could also be firm and plain spoken, especially when advocating for the disabled, the homeless, or the downtrodden. Ruth looked forward to playing Santa Claus at Christmas time, participating in parades, attending concerts, and traveling to the national parks and other beautiful sites in vans she nicknamed "Angel" and "Baby." Blessed with a beautiful voice, Ruth could often be found listening to and singing along with gospel music and primary songs. She especially enjoyed the Osmonds and the Oak Ridge Boys and proudly displayed photographs of her meeting both groups.

Ruth suffered for many years with Multiple Sclerosis, and fought the disease courageously as her body continued to suffer the effects of the disease. Ruth raised awareness and funds to help find a cure for MS, and her fundraising team, "Sunshine's Pals," was consistently a leading team in the state. In tribute to her many years volunteering for the MS Society, Cedar City proudly named September 29th as "Ruth Barrow Day."

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, April 10, 2019, at Southern Utah Mortuary at 190 North 300 West in Cedar City, UT. A visitation will be held at Southern Utah Mortuary from 10:00-11:00 a.m. Interment will be in the Cedar City Cemetery under the direction of Southern Utah Mortuary. Online condolences can be made at www.sumortuary.com.

Special thanks to St. George Rehab and Cedar Health and Rehabilitation. In lieu of flowers please make donations to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints missionary fund and the National MS Society.

Terry Lawrence

A Celebration of Life Service for Terry Lawrence, who died on January 9th, 2019, will be held on Saturday, April 27, 2019, at 2:00 p.m. at the Community Presbyterian Church, 2279 Wedgewood Lane in Cedar City.

Maye Dean Petty

Maye Dean Rosenberg Petty returned to her Heavenly Father on April 7, 2019. She was born March 5, 1945, to DeLos and ElRita Rosenberg. She was raised in Cedar City on the banks of Coal Creek and the shadow of the red hill. She was the self-proclaimed Cedar High Redmen gone Homecoming Queen of the class of 63. She got married to Nate Petty Jr. and eventually raised her family in the same house. She spent many years working as an Iron County Justice Court Clerk. Her hobbies included feeding anyone that entered her house. Treating all our friends and cousins as her own kids. She also freelanced as a travel agent for Guilt Trips, a family owned and sister ran agency. She was living proof that the heart has the capacity to love to no end.

She is survived by her daughter Natalie Petty (Darren) Brown from Bountiful, Utah. Her son Ryan (Laurie) Petty of Cedar City, Utah, and her daughter-in-law Tonya Tom (Brandon) Petty. Numerous grandchildren, great grandchildren, nieces and nephews too numerous to mention as she is known as Grandma Maye, Aunt Maye and even Mom by those that are blood relatives and those that were adopted by her.

She is preceded in death by her husband Nate Petty Jr. and her son Brandon (Buzz) Petty. Numerous siblings and her parents.

Funeral services will be held at the Rock Church on Friday, April 12, 2019, at 11:00 a.m. where Maye Dean was a lifetime member of the 1st Ward. Viewings will be held at Southern Utah Mortuary on Thursday, April 11, 2019, from 5:00-7:00 p.m. and on Friday, April 12, 2019, from 9:30-10:30 a.m. Interment will be in the Cedar City Cemetery under the direction of Southern Utah Mortuary. Online condolences can be made at www.sumortuary.com.

Fredrick Clark

Fredrick Clark passed away peacefully on April 4, 2019, in South Salt Lake City at the age of 90. Fredrick was born April 2, 1929, to Garfield and Thelma Evans Clark. Fredrick married his childhood friend, Alice Theon Sherratt. They were sealed on May 24, 1962, in the St. George Temple.

Fredrick was an active member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He attended Cedar City schools, graduating from BAC, which is now the modern-day Southern Utah University, and was an Army veteran of the Korean War.

Fredrick is survived by his brothers Conrad (Rayma) and Gilbert (Shannon); his sister-in-law Sherlene (Jerry) Conger, and his many nieces and nephews. He is preceded in death by his parents Garfield and Thelma Clark; his wife Alice, brother Gary, and sisters Helen, Muriel and Shirley.

We thank Canyon Home Hospice and Rosewood Assisted Care for their friendship, love, and care for him.

Services were held in Fredrick's honor on Wednesday, April 10, 2019, at the Cedar City 4th Ward, 500 West 400 North, Cedar City, Utah, at 12 p.m. A viewing was held prior to services at the same location beginning at 11 a.m. Interment was at the Cedar City Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, please consider donating to Primary Children's Hospital or The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints missionary fund.

5K RACE

HELD TO FIGHT CHILD ABUSE

by Corey BAUMGARTNER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

On Saturday, April 13th, runners and bikers teamed up to help fight child abuse during the 2nd annual Live Life Again 5K. The event was sponsored by the Southwest Spine & Pain Center in Cedar City and helps to honor the month of April, designated as Child Abuse Prevention month.

After the race, besides improved health, there were great prizes given away from Kindle Fires, to sport watches and a HD

Television. However, the true prize was that the race raised over $600 for B.A.C.A. – Bikers Against Child Abuse. Their commitment to protecting and healing the kids affected by child abuse has been an inspiring and effective force for many years in this community and beyond.

Thank you to each of the racers who gave of their heart, time and money to this great cause! To learn more about you can help prevent child abuse, visit: www.childwelfare.gov/topics/preventing/preventionmonth/

Come ride with the Iron Giants

by Susie GNUDSEN

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Cedar City, UT (April 1, 2019) – The Iron Giants Mountain Bike Team, a composite team of middle and high school students in Iron County, will hold “Meet the Giants” bike rides at Three Peaks Recreation Area on April 22nd and April 25th from 6–7 pm. Prospective team members and their parents are invited to ride with the team with a functioning mountain bike, helmet, and signed waiver.

“If you’ve ever wondered if the mountain bike team is a good fit for your student, this is a great opportunity to meet the coaches and get familiar with the trails the team regularly rides,” said Susie Knudsen, coach and team parent of two Iron Giants. “I love that my girls are learning a lifelong skill and an appreciation of the outdoors.”

All skill levels are welcome, there are no tryouts, and everybody rides.

Danny Hall is the Iron Giants’ head coach and has over nine years of experience coaching teams in Utah and Texas. Originally from Texas, Hall moved to Cedar City in 2014 to enjoy all the outdoor opportunities the area offers.

“Although racing is an important aspect of the league and team, it’s so much more than that,” said Hall. “We are about creating and fueling a lifelong passion for cycling. I love riding my bike, it makes me smile!”

During the 2019 season, team members will have the opportunity to race in cities across Utah, including Eagle Mountain, Richfield, Price, and Cedar City.

The team is looking for financial support from local businesses. Team sponsorships are available and help student athletes with the support they need to thrive during the race season.

*The Iron Giants are part of the Utah High School Cycling League and the National Interscholastic Cycling Association (NICA) league. # Baseball playing field is uneven in Region 9

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

When the Canyon View Falcons were part of Region 12 for two seasons, all seemed to be right in the sports world. Baseball, boys basketball, and both soccer teams won titles in both years as Region 12 members.

But as the UHSAA does on an every-other-year basis, realignment always happens. Canyon View returned to Region 9 and got bumped up to the 4A classification, and the competitive success has done close to a 180-degree turn the other way.

Nowhere was this more evident when the Falcons baseball team had to face Desert Hills on a windy day April 9. From the opening pitch, the hits just kept on coming.

By the time the merry-go-round on the bases stopped – after two hours and 45 minutes – the Thunder left CV's home field with a 39-3 victory, which was just four runs short of the all-time Utah state record that was set by Tooele over Grantsville in 1950.

Desert Hills had a 16-run second inning and led 22-0, but they weren't close to done. Eight runs scored in the third and nine more crossed the plate in the fourth. And other than home runs from Brock Andrus and Blake Milne, the bulk of the hitting was just advancing a base at a time.

Shockingly, Desert Hills proved to be somewhat human when they stranded two runners in the top of the fifth and failed to score. The Falcons were able to break out with two runs in the fourth and Colton Shumway capped the scoring with a leadoff home run in the fifth. It was clearly much too little and two hours too late.

Ever since Josh McInnis shut out Pine View on March 22, Canyon View has lost six straight and given up 90 runs, including a 12-0 five-inning loss to the Thunder last Friday.

It's not just the Falcons who are getting humbled on the field, either. Hurricane gave up 20 runs to Dixie last Friday as well and is 2-4 at its halfway point in Region 9 play.

I was able to speak with the mom of one of the CV players, and there's a very real case of confidence that's hurting in the dugout at the moment. It doesn't seem to matter what they do on the field or at the plate because the opposition does the job that much better.

There's one more year coming in this round of realignment. While there's probably a lot more to the story on why CV has struggled in some sports as a Region 9 member, there are solutions that can and should be found.

–On the positive side of the competition spectrum, the Columbus Blue Jackets are no joke, dear readers. In a land where Ohio State football is king, the experience of being in the National Hockey League since the 2000-01 season hasn't been all that fruitful. It's time to crawl out from the man caves and rejoice. With only four prior Stanley Cup playoff appearances under its belt, Columbus has made the most of its fifth postseason appearance after a 3-1 victory over the Tampa Bay Lightning on Sunday night gave them a 3-0 lead in the best-of-7 opening-round series.

This may not be a big deal on the surface, but one major fact makes the series a newsworthy story. Tampa Bay won 62 games in the regular season, matching the 1995-96 Detroit Red Wings for most in league history.

And it's all about to mean absolutely nothing because a team that hadn't won any sort of a playoff series in two decades put its competitive stamp down from the start.

Game 4 was set for Tuesday night, which was past our press deadline, but Columbus' effort in possibly pulling off one of the greater playoff upsets in NHL history should show anyone involved with any sport that anything can happen at any time.

Trust the process, focus on the best result with consistent effort, and good things will always find a way.

Falcon soccer splits week, stays in playoff hunt

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

They were in a similar position a season ago, but the Canyon View Falcons knew a home game against the Hurricane Tigers on April 9 provided a big target for their aspirations to reach the 4A state playoffs.

Facing a two-goal deficit with time winding down,

Canyon View rallied and kept its playoff hopes alive.

Kellen Bowden and Hunter Talbot scored in the final 15 minutes to tie the score, and Chase Hunter netted the game-winner with less than two minutes left in overtime as Canyon View beat Hurricane 3-2 on April 9 to move ahead of Pine View by a point in the race for the fourth playoff spot from Region 9.

Two days later, region co-leader Dixie delivered all of its offense in the first half and let the defense do the rest in a 2-0 shutout over CV in St. George on April 11. The Falcons fell to 3-5-1, but stayed in fourth place after Pine View was shut out by Desert Hills, 4-0.

Canyon View faced the Thunder at home Tuesday in a game that was too late for press deadline. They will travel to play at Cedar on Friday.

The Redmen had only one game last week and fell to 1-7-0 in Region 9 play after a 6-0 loss to Dixie on April 9. The Flyers got two goals from Noah Wilkinson and scored three times in each half to secure the victory.

High School Roundups

Redmen, Falcons swept on diamond

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

With the games winding down and playoff positions hanging by the proverbial thread, the Cedar Redmen had their chances to gain ground on the frontrunners in Region 9.

The Snow Canyon Warriors had other ideas as they came out on top twice last week.

Cedar opened the series by taking a three-run lead after two innings, but the Warriors rallied behind pitcher James Beck and beat the Redmen 5-3 on April 9 in a game switched to CHS due to weather issues anticipated for later in the week.

Snow Canyon tied the game with three runs in the bottom of the third and added single runs in the fourth and fifth to finish off the victory.

The scene switched to Snow Canyon for a Friday night game April 12 that saw the start delayed by over an hour to deal with field issues caused by a downpour that happened earlier in the day. Brock Secrist went the distance on the mound and got home-run help from Travis Davenport on the way to a 5-1 victory that completed the two-game sweep. After leaving the bases loaded in the top of the first, the Warriors (5-3 Region 9) got an RBI single from Davenport to start the scoring in the first inning, and Mason Strong added another RBI single in the second for a 2-0 advantage off Cedar starter Andre Castaneda.

The Redmen (3-5) got their lone run in the top of the fifth when No. 9 hitter Tanner Esplin led off with a single, stole second, and scored on a Castaneda double that came with two outs in the inning.

The momentum wouldn't last as the Warriors countered in the bottom half when Tim Shakespeare – who had struck out in his two prior at-bats – lined a single to center with one out before Davenport launched a two-run homer over the fence in center field. Snow Canyon added its final run in the bottom of the sixth on an RBI single from Secrist.

“We talked about having the desire to compete and making adjustments,” Cedar head coach Eric Fieldsted said. “That was our biggest problem today. Secrist threw his off-speed stuff and we chased it. If it’s a strike, hit it. If it’s a ball, don’t swing.”

Secrist struck out 11 in six innings of work.

The Redmen enter the most important series of the season with two games against Pine View this week. They hosted the Panthers on Tuesday, weather permitting, and will travel to St. George on Friday.

“The game can turn on one pitch. That’s why we love the game so much,” Fieldsted said. “That’s the beauty of it and that’s the heartache of it.”

The Canyon View Falcons also lost twice in its region games against co-leader Desert Hills last week. The Thunder opened with a 36-hit assault on six Canyon View pitchers in a 39-3 rout. Brock Andrus and Blake Milne homered in the victory for the Thunder, who left no doubt on the outcome after a 16-run second inning stretched the margin to 22-0.

CV broke up the shutout with two runs in the fourth and a solo home run from Colton Shumway in the fifth.

Desert Hills completed the sweep April 12 in similar fashion with a 12-0 shutout win in five innings over the Falcons, who started a two-game series against region co-leader Dixie on the road and will host the Flyers on Thursday at 3 p.m.

Lady Reds keep winning, opponents off board

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

For a team normally known for its power hitting, the Cedar Lady Reds didn't mind facing windy conditions in its Region 9 matchup at Hurricane on April 9. With Kenzie Waters trading zeroes in a pitching duel with Chantel Pearson, it took one mistake to push someone toward the win column.

An infield error led to three sixth-inning runs, and Cedar went on to add two more in the seventh to post a 5-0 victory over Hurricane behind the pitching of Waters, who allowed just three hits and struck out nine as the Lady Reds improved to 6-0 in region play.

Becca Boyer drove in two runs to lead Cedar, while Denim Henkel and Kelsi Oldroyd added RBI singles for insurance in the seventh inning as the Lady Reds won their 28th straight in Region 9 play.

On April 12, the skies opened up with rain, but Cedar broke a scoreless tie with three runs in the third inning and posted a 4-0 win over Dixie that was called after the top of the fifth. Boyer belted a three-run homer to lead the Lady Reds and Waters struck out six while holding the Flyers to three hits.

The game was moved from Cedar because of the weather, but it didn't distract the Lady Reds, who lead Desert Hills (5-1) by a game and a half in the region race. Cedar was idle Tuesday, but will host Snow Canyon in a 4 p.m. start Thursday afternoon due to Easter weekend.

Across town, Canyon View split its games last week and kept pace in the race for the 4A state playoffs. The week began with a tough 4-2 loss at Snow Canyon on April 9 as the Warriors scored three runs in the bottom of the fourth to wipe out an early 1-0 deficit.

The Falcons managed only four hits off Warriors ace Payten Jensen, who struck out 14 in 6 2/3 innings.

CV rebounded with a 2-0 shutout at Hurricane on Friday to improve to 4-3 in region play. Pitcher Jordan Nielson scattered five hits and struck out six, while a two-run home run by Camry Higgins in the second inning was the game's only scoring.

Easter Bunny Basket Puzzle

Dear Buzz and Beeper, Before you eat the sweets in these baskets, you must find and color the eggs whose sum is the same as the number on the bow. The numbers you add must be next to, above or below each other.

Here's an example:

|   |   |   |   |   |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 7 | 2 | 3 | 1 | 6 |
| 4 | 3 | 4 | 2 | 5 |
| 5 | 6 | 1 | 0 | 5 |
| 7 | 3 | 4 | 1 | 4 |

Enjoy!

Spiral Ham with Red Wine and Citrus Glaze

Prep time: 15 minutes

Cook time: 10-12 minutes per pound of ham

HAM:

- 1 Appleton Farms Spiral Cut Double Glazed Brown Sugar Ham (about 4 pounds), reserving liquid

GLAZE:

- 1/2 cup Intermingle Red Blend wine
- 1/4 cup Nature's Nectar orange juice
- 1/4 cup Specially Selected 100% Pure Maple Syrup
- 1/2 cup Simply Nature Organic Light Brown Sugar
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh rosemary
- 1 dash salt
- 2 tablespoons Burman's Dijon Mustard

To make ham: Heat oven to 325 F. Place ham in roasting pan on rack. Pour reserved liquid over ham and cover tightly with foil. Bake 10-12 minutes per pound.

To make glaze: In small pan, combine wine, orange juice, syrup, brown sugar, rosemary and salt. Heat to boil then lower to rapid simmer until mixture begins to thicken and reduce, about 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and whisk in mustard.

When ham is 10 minutes from being done, remove from oven and increase temperature to 400 F. Remove foil and brush ham thoroughly with glaze.

Place ham back in oven, uncovered, about 10 minutes, or until ham reaches internal temperature of 140 F.

Remove ham from oven and let sit 10 minutes. Slice and serve.

Mini Blueberry Chocolate Tart

Prep time: 10 minutes

Cook time: 17 minutes

Servings: 12

- 1 Bake House Creations Pie Crust
- 1 1/2 tablespoons Sweet Additions Stevia No Calorie Sweetener
- 1 cup fresh blueberries
- 1 Choceur Dark Chocolate Bar (2.64 ounces), chopped

Heat oven to 400 F. Cut 1-2 sheets of parchment paper into 5-by-5-inch squares. Line each cup of 12-cup muffin pan with one square of parchment paper.

Roll out pie crust and cut 12 circles, 2 inches each, with cookie cutter. Press each circle into lined muffin cup.

In medium bowl, combine sweetener, blueberries and chocolate. Divide mixture among pie crusts.

Bake 17 minutes until chocolate melts. Allow to cool and serve.
