Oshley sentenced to 15 years to life

by Kelsey KEENER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

John Weston Oshley appeared in court for sentencing last week for one account of attempted aggravated murder and was sentenced according to statute.

Judge Keith Barnes said he received the presentence investigation report and confirmed that all parties had a chance to review the document.

County Attorney Chad Dotson said the state recommended the sentence to conform to the state statute of 15 years to life, reporting that the victim was stabbed more than 30 times and police officers who responded to the scene in January referred to the incident as one of the most gruesome scenes they had witnessed. Dotson reported that the victim suffered a collapsed lung, lost multiple teeth and will live with many injuries and scars for the rest of his life. He also said that Oshley was not helpful during the investigation process and at times not truthful. In the presentence investigation report it was stated that he acted out of anger and hatred as he inflicted serious, life-threatening wounds.

It was also reported that the reason for Oshley's attack was that the victim was spending time with his ex-girlfriend.

The victim's aunt and older sister both addressed the judge to speak on the incident. The victim's aunt said she wanted to make sure the court knew that Oshley doesn't care about her nephew; the victim's sister said he will have to rebuild his entire life and that Oshley should serve the full sentence because he intended to kill the victim.

Oshley's court-appointed attorney Troy Sundquist stated that in his interactions with the defendant he has been cooperative and understanding and indicated regret.

Oshley stated that he takes full accountability for his actions and there is no excuse for what he did.

After hearing from all parties, Judge Barnes called the incident a "senseless, senseless crime" and said he hopes the victims and families are able to move forward before ordering Oshley to serve 15 years to life in the Utah State Prison.

Oshley was arrested January 27, by the Enoch Police Department when officers responded to a 911 call about a man needing help. As first-responders treated the victim, he identified his assailant as Oshley so a search warrant was obtained and executed for Oshley's home. Oshley was questioned but would not make any statements and evidence was found indicating that he had stabbed the victim multiple times in an assault.

Do you stutter? Do you know someone who does? Most people do. More than three million Americans and 70 million people across the globe stutter, but sadly it is still quite misunderstood. Help us change that.

May 13th-19th is National Stuttering Awareness Week. To support the stuttering community, the nonprofit Stuttering Foundation launched a new website with easy-to-find information like articles, brochures, magazines, videos, research reports and counselor referrals, with a new laptop and mobile-friendly interface.

The Stuttering Foundation has accurate, trusted information about stuttering and free help on its new website, www.StutteringHelp.org. Please take a look and tell a friend.

Dog owner warns of illegal tar pit, other potential hazards

by Kelsey KEENER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

A local resident and dog owner cautions others to be aware of an illegal tar pit her dogs became trapped in during a walk near Cross Hollow Hills, and other potential unmarked hazards that may exist due to illegal dumping.

Lynne Brown drove up a dirt road off Westview Drive that led behind the Discovery Clubhouse to hike in the Cross Hollow Hills to hike with her dogs. Shortly after starting her hike, she noticed that her dogs were not returning when they were called which was unusual behavior. After searching for them, Brown found her two dogs stuck in a pit of tar that had been dumped in the area illegally.

Brown called 911 as well as a friend who lived nearby for help. Responders from the Cedar City Police and Fire Departments, the Iron County Sheriff's Office and good Samaritans Diane Gil and Zachary Hatch were able to free the dogs from the tar with a large group effort.

Brown said it took responders

30-40 minutes to free the dogs by creating space around and under them with shovels and filling the space with dirt so the dogs could be pulled out.

"We couldn't have done it without 911," she said. "Those officers were on it, they knew what to do, they didn't hesitate. ... I didn't have the strength to do it; it took (their) strength and their willingness to get mucked up and messed up."

"To see them stuck in this tar and know I was completely helpless to do anything, it was just really traumatizing."

cautious.

"It's nothing I'd send anybody near because that tar is just a mess," Brown said. "It could have been some 12-year-old kid on a dirt bike who decided 'I'm going to go down here

The dogs were taken to Southern Utah Animal Hospital, where Dr. Esplin, Dr. Francisco and four veterinary technicians worked for four hours to remove the tar from the dogs by shaving them and provide other necessary treatment.

Brown added that responders were able to make sure the pit was filled in with dirt the next day, but still urges residents to be

Real Americans – fact or fiction?

The opinions stated in this article are solely those of the author and not of Iron County Today.

I frequently hear people referring to what “real Americans” believe. Conservatives say it, claiming that the media has a leftward tilt. Liberals say it too, often noting that Donald Trump’s “true believer” voter base hovers around the 28% range. Moderates join in as well, believing that “real Americans” want compromise and an end to partisan bickering.

Honestly, I’m not sure how to define a “real” American. There are certainly many trends, pursuits, and beliefs that my wife and I don’t follow – but does that make us “fake” Americans?

Here are a few... Decide if you fit in.

My wife and I have NEVER watched a single episode of “Game of Thrones,” the most popular non-network program in America. (My wife mentioned it, however. Goading me into visiting a barbershop, she accused me of looking as if I were auditioning for the program. The result was a quick drive to the nearest Great Clips.)

I have NEVER sat through an entire “Star Wars” movie. In fact, I have never watched any of the recent super hero movies. You mention “Marvel” and I think of a well-cooked filet mignon at Ruth’s Chris Steakhouse.

We still purchase books, those ancient things produced with ink and paper, and visit libraries. In a digital world, that approaches heresy.

At the most, I consume only one or two soft drinks a year, and it has to be a fountain Coke – not a can or bottle – during the dog days of summer.

My wife and I watch television in “real time.” No Netflix or streaming, which is a problem with the Utah Jazz broadcast on at the same time as

by Brycen GRAY

COLUMNIST

“Top Chef,” “This is Us,” or “Grey’s Anatomy.”

We believe that there is no single path to heaven – and we are not quite sure what heaven is anyway.

I still write checks; I have NEVER used a debit card or an ATM machine.

We travel to Europe at least once per year and visit New York City annually as well.

I have NEVER camped, either at a mountain location or a state or national park. To me, “roughing it” is staying at a hotel without a pool.

We tip restaurant servers 20% or more. If we made less than $3 per hour, we would hope you would be generous too.

We spend most of our money at locally owned stores. We NEVER shop at Walmart.

I have NEVER voted a “straight ticket” for either the Republican or Democrat parties.

I HATE sloppy joe sandwiches and I’m not fond of “funeral potatoes” or mac and cheese.

Okay, there you have it. Some of you will feel kinship with me, while others will have proof that my wife and I are simply weird.

Then again, there is that well-worn adage: “When everyone thinks (or acts) alike, no one is really thinking!” If that is the case, a “real American” believes in diversity, not marching orders or fitting into a mold.

Foster parenting discussed during awareness panel

by Kelsey KEENER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Employees from the Department of Child and Family Services, foster parents, a child in foster care and biological parents who had their children removed from their care at one point participated in a panel discussion last week to give insights into the world of foster parenting and raise awareness for National Foster Parent Month.

Amy Bates, Foster-Adoptive Consultant for Utah Foster Care, provided a brief explanation of the requirements for becoming a foster parent and then introduced the panel. Panel members had the opportunity to explain their involvement or interactions with children in foster care before taking questions.

Questions including how foster parents can make things easier for teenagers going into foster care and the relationships between foster parents and biological parents were discussed by the panel. Crystal Roberts, a mother of four and recovering addict, explained that although she

"I felt like DCFS just ripped my family apart, which I can see now that wasn't the case they were just worried about support ... If it wasn't for DCFS I could be dead, then my kids wouldn't have a parent. I'm just very grateful to be where I'm at today and to have the support that I have today and on the interactions between biological and foster parents.

Nelson explained that the idea of biological parents being scary or bad people is really a myth.

"I'm just trying to help, by helping your kids I'm helping you too," she said. "I just figure I'm in the same playing field as them, I'm not a perfect parent. They're a human being and all of us have made bad choices, some just weren't public."

Farnsworth added that open communication between foster and biological parents can be helpful for all involved.

"One of the things that I've seen work between my foster poster and my biological parents, is just being open and honest with each other," she said. "I love it when my foster parents are not afraid at all and reach out and be a support for that biological parent."

Congressman Stewart introduces bill to raise smoking age to 21

by Madison SHUPE

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Today, Congressman Chris Stewart (R-UT) joins Congresswoman Diana DeGette (D-CO) in introducing the Tobacco to 21 Act. This Legislation will establish 21 as the legal age for sale of tobacco products nationwide.

“Combating tobacco use by children has been a priority of mine since first taking office. I truly believe that it is an epidemic among our youth. I am confident that this bill will significantly reduce underage tobacco usage and ultimately save lives,” said Rep. Stewart.

“I am confident that this bill will significantly reduce underage tobacco usage and ultimately save lives.”

» Congressman Chris Stewart

More about Tobacco to 21 Act:

Each day in the United States, more than 2,000 youth under 18 years of age smoke their first cigarette. Studies show that an estimated 5,600,000 youth aged 17 and under are projected to die prematurely from a tobacco-related illness if prevalence rates do not change. This bill seeks to increase the minimum age to purchase tobacco to 21 years old. Increasing the minimum legal sale age will help prevent young people from starting down a path that often leads to addiction, disease, and premature death.

“The Tobacco to 21 Act takes bold and necessary action to reduce tobacco use among youth and young adults,” said Nancy Brown, CEO of the American Heart Association. “With 95 percent of tobacco users having started their life-threatening habit before age 21, raising the minimum sales age for all tobacco products to 21 nationwide will reduce tobacco use, nicotine addiction and tobacco-related disease and death. The American Heart Association is proud to support this important public health legislation, and we are grateful to Senator Brian Schatz (D-HI), Senator Dick Durbin (D-IL), Senator Todd Young (R-IN), Representative Diana DeGette (D-CO), and Representative Chris Stewart (R-UT) for their leadership on this issue. This bill is an essential step in reaching the tobacco endgame of eliminating tobacco use and nicotine addiction in our nation.”

“Altria strongly supports raising the legal age of purchase to 21 for all tobacco products and we’re pleased to see bipartisan Tobacco 21 legislation introduced. We believe moving on 21 is the most effective action to reverse underage e-vapor usage rates. Altria commends Congressman Stewart for his leadership on this important issue,” said Jennifer Hunter, Senior Vice President, Corporate Citizenship for Altria Client Services

This legislation is endorsed by: Campaign for Tobacco-Free Kids, American Lung Association, American Cancer Society, Cancer Action Network, and American Heart Association.

FOSTER PANEL

The teenager currently in foster care who participated in the panel expressed her goal of being a voice for other children in foster care; she explained that children in foster care often feel as though they cannot speak up about their concerns or their situation and feeling safe and supported by foster parents is important to those children. She also said some of the things that made her transition into foster care easier for her were having other kids in the home and a being allowed a gradual integration period to learn the workings of the home she was placed in.

Questions about the placement process of foster kids were also discussed, and Karen Canty, resource family consultant and kinship worker, explained that it is the goal of case workers and DCFS to disclose all the information they have about potential foster children and while the hope for kids to be placed as soon as possible, a lack of foster parents sometimes inhibits that.

To close the panel, Bates prompted participants to share what they feel are the hardest and best parts of their experiences with foster care.

Roberts said it was difficult for her to have her children taken out of her care.

“The hardest part for me was, of course, losing my children,” she said. “That was the worst day of my life. The best part was getting my life back and being the mom to my children that I knew I could be and being the person that I am today.”

Paige Pryor, Associate Region Director for the southwest region of DCFS, said it’s difficult to see the pain associated with her work.

“I see parents hurt when their children are removed from their care; I see children hurt when they’re removed from their parents’ care; I see foster parents hurt when kids go home and they have a bond and attachment to those children, they want the best for them,” she said. “Just looking at it from that angle that with change also can come pain and you have to be able to grow and have the hurt and know that’s part of the process of changing ... that I think is the hardest but also can be part of the best, because it can lead to change and that’s kind of what this is about, it’s about positive outcomes, it’s about seeing people change their lives and being able to provide for their children as they should be.”

For more information on becoming a foster parent or the needs of Iron County, visit <https://dcfs.utah.gov/> or call the southwest regional office at 435-865-5600.

and do this jump’ or something and got stuck. It really is a safety hazard and there’s no sign -- had there been a hazardous sign or a no trespassing sign, I wouldn’t have gone up the road.”

Brown said the experience was a nightmare for her.

“Because my kids are grown up and out of the house, my dogs are my kids right now,” she said. “And I feel responsible for them and I acknowledge there are dangers in hiking off-leash, but to see them stuck in this tar and know I was completely helpless to do anything, it was just really traumatizing.”

The calmness of the first responders helped ease a lot of Brown’s concerns during the situation.

“They were so calm and reassuring to me,” she said. “I just want this community to know when you have an emergency and you call 911 these guys are there to help you and they gave 100 percent.”

Brown’s dogs have recovered from the incident, but she still has concerns about other potential hazards.

“If you’re hiking, a lot of people are dumping stuff out in the hills which is very unfortunate,” she said. “I would just ask: people please do not dump things that belong in the dump (illegally).”

ARCHAEOLOGY DAY

RETURNS TO FRONTIER HOMESTEAD

by Corey BAUMGARTNER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Last Saturday was a great day to create and learn about history at the Frontier Homestead State Park and Museum. Young archaeologists and their families enjoyed a day of adventures through time. They explored and learned about excavating historical sites, grinding corn, making rope, listening to beautiful Paiute storytelling, creating Fremont figurines, eating pioneer bread and learning to throw an atlatl. The Homestead is open year round and is located at 635 N Main St, Cedar City, UT 84721. For more information call 435-586-9290 or visit frontierhomestead.org

Dad's travel genes

by Mary Anne ANDERSEN

CEDAR CITY ARTS COUNCIL

If travel is an art form, I've got the genes to explain my love of it. I was raised by parents who were materially humble in every sense of the word. They raised five daughters in a small, two-bedroom home with one car on one income. Mom made our clothes, ironed for hours every week, and cooked and cleaned every day of her life. Dad worked at a job he didn't love because he had no choice. There weren't a lot of extras, to say the least, but astonishingly, now that I think about it, some of us traveled to Europe with high school groups. I realize now that they had their priorities in order: they knew that travel was worth extra sacrifice.

Mom would say, "I want to see how other people live." And Dad watched every travel show on television with eagerness and longing. Years passed, Dad acquired a small business so that he worked day and night, and when they were in their mid-sixties, they had enough money to set off on a three-month trip around the world. There was hardly a country in the northern hemisphere that they missed. Married and with children of my own by then, I had a copy of their itinerary, a world map taped on the wall, and little colored pins to follow their route from Ireland to Japan and most places in between.

My sisters and I were so happy for them. There was not a bit of resentment in the fact that they were "spending our inheritance." Dad was able to visit his ancestral Germany, they survived on Snickers bars in Russia, and ran into Mom's cousin in a hotel lobby in Japan. Best of all, Dad was able to visit his beloved "antiquities," as he referred to them—the treasures of ancient Egypt. For the rest of their lives, they again watched travel shows on television, only this time Dad would say, "We were right there!"

So, is it any wonder that on my birthday last month, I received an early morning text from my sister? Knowing she was traveling, I answered "Where are you?" The answer was "Istanbul." That middle daughter has the travel genes in spades and the means to nurture them. In fact, it seems like Istanbul is one of the few places she hasn't been.

(Actually, the Holy Land is still on her bucket list. That is on for next summer, and two other sisters will be along then, including ME.)

Kim is a master planner, and can organize a trip for herself and a friend, as now, or for her whole family. She has taken her family whenever she could, and they tell stories about nearly being trampled by an elephant in Africa and seeing exotic birds on the Galapagos Island.

I can't keep up with her, but my husband and I are headed for a paddlewheel boat trip down the Mississippi River in July. It is not India, but I think Dad would approve.

WORLD MIGRATORY BIRD DAY

by Pam GILBERT
FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Did you know that all across our globe there are “flyways” in the sky that migrating birds use to travel from north to south and then back again every year? Although birds migrate year-round, migration usually peaks in the spring and fall. The actual dates of when birds migrate depend on many factors, including bird species, overall migration distance, travel speed, route, climate, weather patterns, and more.

Instinctively, birds know where to migrate and how to navigate back home. They use the stars, the sun, and earth’s magnetism to help them find their way. They almost always return home to where they were born. This is why you could be right if you think you see the same bird each year in your backyard.

Some birds migrate during the night because the air is cooler and they do not need to stop to cool down. There are also fewer predators at night. Migrating birds face many threats along their journeys, including window collisions, confusing lights at night that disrupt navigation, hunting, and habitat loss. But not all birds migrate north to south. Some move from high to low elevations and family activity, and the state offers many locations to see a wide variety of bird manage to survive winter while staying right here in Utah.

Utah happens to be a very important “flyway” for migrating birds and world famous for birding locations. Utah is home to more than 450 bird species. Bird watching in Utah is a great species. World Migratory Bird Day, on Saturday, May 11, 2019, honors the spectacle and struggles of our feathered friends as they make their long and difficult journey from the tropics of Central American to the cities and forests of North America.

Please join us at Cedar City, West Canyon Park, 7:00am – 12:00pm, for this exciting event. Discover how you can help our migrating friends right at your own home. Stroll through our gallery of local bird booths, take a walk to learn about birds in our area, discover how birds are banded and tracked for scientific study, and learn some useful birding tips and tricks. We’ll also have a poster art contest, crafts and games like making a birdhouse and a rubber ducky race and more! For more information call Rhett Boswell at 435-691-2372. Or you can access the event schedule at: <https://www.worldmigratorybirdday.org/node/504496>

DENTAL EXAMS AND CLEANING ARE FREE FOR CHILDREN UNDER 3!

It's a jungle out there

Sitting in the petri dish of a playground at a nearby fast food chain, I watch my grandkids jump around like just-released-into-the-wild baboons. Like every other adult in the room, I hoped this stop would be a fun diversion, a place the kids could play while I read War and Peace.

Kids on playgrounds are fascinating the same way the Spanish Inquisition was fascinating: lots of violence, torture, crazy zealots and tattletales. Sitting with the book I won't be able to read, and eating cold French fries, I'm the Jane Goodall of the toddler kingdom, as I study their animal-like behavior.

There's a hierarchy to the madness, with the older kids sitting at the top of the pyramid. They push toddlers out of the way and block slides until little kids cry.

The next level down are kids between the ages of 4 and 8. Not quite ready to be the bullies on the playground, they tail after the leaders hoping to be included in any dastardly plan.

Toddlers make up the lowest level of the playground food chain. These cute little kids are a pain in the asset as they try to establish a presence without being trampled by oblivious 10-year-old boys. I've witnessed several toddler smack-downs, including my granddaughter who started a fistfight with a little boy over a pretend steering wheel.

The fast food playground smells like a mildewed diaper pail. It also has a fine layer of mucous coating every possible surface. Everything is sticky. Bacteria gleefully thrives.

There's a logjam of kids at the bottom of the slide, backing up traffic and causing overall mayhem. Older siblings shepherd brothers and sisters through the throng of screaming and thrashing little bodies, in search of fun and excitement, while being screamed at by their mothers.

I watch kids scramble through the maze of colorful gerbil tubes, listening for the sound of my granddaughter's screech as she fights her way to the slide, where she refuses to go down, triggering an uproar in the playground ecosystem. Her brother finally convinces her the slide is fun and they both tumble to the bottom. They run back up and do it again.

I hear snippets of conversations. "That boy is taking off his clothes." "She put ketchup in my ear." "Look! I can fly!" But when the Lord of the Flies Preschool bus pulls up in front of the building, that's my signal to skedaddle.

Easier said than done.

As soon as I announce it's time to leave, my granddaughter scurries up the tunnel, refusing to come down and throwing poo at anyone who approaches. I send her brother up to get her and hear his bloodcurdling scream as she kicks him in the head, and climbs higher into the hamster maze. He finally drags her down, both of them crying, before she steals someone's shoes, and runs toward the rest room.

Security tackles her and wrangles her back to the playground. She's covered with either BBQ sauce or blood and tries to scuttle away as soon as I put her down. Chaos has erupted. We duck tranquilizer darts as we run serpentine to the exit.

I finally wrestle them into the car, wearing the wrong jackets and without socks. I spray them down with Lysol and have them take a big swig of hand sanitizer. I just survived a primate attack. Jane Goodall would be so proud.

Are you my mother?

Do you remember the classic children's story, "Are You My Mother?" (P.D. Eastman) It's the adventures of a baby bird that falls out of its nest and goes in search of its mother, who has left to find food. Along the way, it encounters several potential parents; a dog, a cow and even an airplane. The baby bird asks each of them, "Are you my mother?" Through a series of sincere and comical encounters, the baby bird realizes that not just anyone or anything can be its mother. With a slew of psychology packed within the pages, one message rings true for all of us blessed to have had and who still have our mothers. It's a message that goes beyond the question of "Are you my mother?" by seeking a more meaningful message and comforting confirmation, "Are you still there for me, mother?"

No matter where, or when you were born; whether you knew your mother, or not, you have been given life through her. If the only sacrifice she ever gave you was in choosing to have you, then that single decision is enough to make your life worth it. Don't label yourself with negative names. You are not a product of promiscuity, a mistake, regret or an accident. You are a miracle! Never forget that. And to any mother who has doubted if you were good enough, or perhaps had to give up a child because you weren't ready for those responsibilities; don't beat yourself up or give up on your own life. Motherhood is not about the perfection of your actions, but the directions of your heart. It's not what's in your bank account, the fridge, or the laundry room; it's what's in your heart that makes you a mother. Remember that you are a miracle, too!

Wherever your mother is today, love her for the gift she is and has given to you. Love doesn't have to have the same address, or same last name to be real and to be felt. I know there are so many different and difficult situations out there and I wish I could speak to each of you and remind you how precious you are. I have hope that these words will reach those of you who need to be reminded and uplifted in your motherly sacrifices. Whether you are a single mother, married mother, thinking about becoming a mother, or wish you could have a child, but cannot; my heart goes out to each of you.

And like the baby bird, each of us falls out of,

Local National Day of Prayer blesses families, community, country

by Corey BAUMGARTNER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Members of the community and local leaders gathered together to honor and bless our families, community and country during the local National Day of Prayer celebration. Southern Utah University's Great Hall was filled with melodies and majesty as songs of gratitude, words of wisdom and prayers of faith were expressed.

Gen Phelps, Community Presbyterian Church, President elect of the Cedar City Area Interfaith Alliance (CAIFA), offered an invocation for the courage to love and of gratitude for unity in diversity and using our voice and gifts to help one another.

Following a bountiful breakfast, and beautiful music, President Scott Wyatt introduced the guest speaker Brad Cook, SUU Provost. Cook emphasized the verse from the Bible, John 13:34, going along with the theme for the National Day of Prayer: Love one another. "One truth that I have learned to realize is that we cannot be happy or have a thriving existence in this life without others," he shared. He is worried that we're becoming more separated from each other and we are becoming more lonely and alienated because we are becoming divorced from community.

He also explained that there is an evolution of empathy, which is how Jesus loves us. "It's not empathy of imagining our pain, but our pains and sorrows actually become His pains and sorrows," he said. "We need to rely on each other, even more than ever before. My challenge to us all is to that we will allow our humanity to flourish; by being kind, being generous, by imagining the innerness of others' lives and loving others as Jesus did."

Following Cook, humble prayers were offered on behalf of our community nation and world.

Joseph Buckley, Christ the King Catholic Church, prayed that during our mortal tests we would seek help from God to help restore our faith and to make it stronger. That

THE NATIONAL DAY OF PRAYER weaves together faith, unity and community in the hopes of creating and enjoying a better world for and by each of us.

His unconditional love for us would help us keep and cherish our faith.

Kay Holman, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, gave thanks for the safe and wonderful community we live in, despite the family being under attack in this world. She prayed for parents and leaders to teach by example, with Jesus as the cornerstone. That parents would teach their children to pray and learn how to make right choices and work hard. She also prayed that we would teach our children to treat others with kindness and help others by standing up to bullies and have the courage to care for the less fortunate in our community.

Emma Van Iwaarden, Westview Christian Center, gave thanks that each of us here on earth has a purpose and prayed that we would live with a bigger vision of how great our community can be as we walk in love and unity despite differences and disagreements. As we also show kindness, cooperation and not be too busy to be good neighbors and take care of each other.

Eric Leavitt, Chairman, SUU Board of Trustees, offered a prayer of gratitude for the greatness of this country and the wonderful freedoms that we enjoy. That we must be hopeful and strengthen one another as we come together to remind our fellow man how important it is that we can express our faith and feelings and love for God. That we can be unified in our divisions without being divisive; to be patient and caring. He also prayed for all those who have and are protecting our country and those who gave their all for the freedoms we enjoy and that we may love one another and God more perfectly.

During a special moment, Dixie and Anne Leavitt were also honored for their generosity by Marguerite Smith, CAIFA President, and Gerald Van Iwaarden, Westview Christian Center.

"We believe that Dixie and Anne Leavitt are here not just because of their popularity or their finances, or anything else, but it is because of the largeness of their hearts, their love and their mercy," shared Iwaarden. He then presented them with a small token of expression of gratitude for all they've done to help make the people, community and state a better place. "These people are living symbols of what we need to do to be a living symbol of a community in unity."

Pastor Daniel Walter offered the benediction for blessings on each of our families, our community and our nation. For our President and all our leaders. That God's love would prosper and be reflected in our community and around the world. That America can truly be a refuge for all who seek God.

The miracles of mothers

LUKE 1:30

We often think of Mary, the mortal mother of Jesus Christ, mostly during Christmastime. It is one of the most beautiful chapters in the history of hope and healing. From her heroic heart and devotion would come the sacred and miraculous birth from which the miracles of forgiveness, compassion and peace were given to all the world; gifts of love that we can and need to celebrate every day of the year.

This Mother's Day, may we celebrate the miracles of mothers and motherhood. Not just their ability to help create or be committed to the responsibility of raising the next generation, but their courage to teach virtues and values in a world seemingly devoid of divinity.

There is great power in being a mother. To bring a child into this world can be scary and provide unsure and unsettling moments and decisions. That's why it takes not only courage but love. There are all kinds of mothers, but the common thread that weaves the miracles into our lives, from their hearts to ours, is love.

What does a mother's love look like? All the ink and paper in the world couldn't describe all the

“ There are all kinds of mothers, but the common thread that weaves the miracles into our lives, from their hearts to ours, is love. ” ways a mother loves her children. (Isaiah 66:13) From skinned knees to broken hearts, she provides comfort in times of sorrow, counsel in times of doubt, support in times of need and protection in times of danger. Mothers seem to have been designed with extra divinity and ability to comfort and protect even when it is not her own child. It is beyond our comprehension to realize the miracles of being a mother. So often we see the smiles but cannot see the silent prayers or secret tears for the welfare of her children.

If Jesus needed a mother, then how much greater do each of us need a mother. And how much more grateful do we need to be for the one who gave us birth, no matter the circumstances. No matter who or where are mothers are. Whether we know them personally, or another has compassionately and courageously stepped in to fill that role and empty place in our hearts, let us each honor more and be more grateful for every woman in our lives.

As God chose Mary to carry His Beloved Son, our Savior, I encourage all women to be encouraged and not discouraged by Mary's story. Every woman has a special gift and ability to love others. Their love goes far beyond biological designation and marriage certificates. And to every mother, or mother to be, know that God has found favor in you. (Luke 1:30) and you don't need to be afraid. God will help you be a great mother. You don't have to be perfect, just be present and love yourself and your family with all you've got. Treasure every moment you can (Luke 2:19) and trust that God will show you and help you be the best mother you can be.

How soon should parents teach their children about money?

T rue story: Three siblings ages 9, 6, and 4 offered to do some yard work for a neighbor. At the end of the project, the neighbor decided to award the two older workers 50 cents each and the 4-year-old 35 cents based on the perceived amount of work done. When the 4-year-old was given a quarter and a dime, he handed the dime back to the neighbor saying, "I don't want this, I want another quarter." Evidently, this youngest sibling knew he was being short-changed.

So, at what age should parents begin teaching their children the value of money - earned or gifted? University of Illinois Extension specialists have compiled a list of the top 10 things children should know about money by the time they reach middle school- starting with basics at pre-school age up through age 10. They incorporate concepts from www.moneyasyougrow.org as follows.

CONCEPTS FOR AGE 3-5 YEARS

You need money to buy things

Identify coins and their value; Discuss how you may value something that is free, such as playing with a friend; Identify items that cost money, such as ice cream, gas for the car, or clothes.

You earn money by working

Describe your job or that of your spouse to your child; Walk through your neighborhood or town and point out people working, like the bus driver or the police officer; Encourage your child to think about how he or she could earn money by setting up a lemonade/cookie stand or selling a service.

You may have to wait to buy something you want

When your child is looking forward to a favorite holiday, point out that sometimes we have to wait for things we want; Find three jars (or cans) and label one for saving, one for spending, and one for sharing; Suggest your child put some of the money she gets into the saving jar, so she can buy a toy or treat when she has saved enough.

There's a difference between things you want and things you need

When you are out shopping, point out essentials such as food and clothing, and ask your child to describe items that he may want but are optional; Talk about how your family decides what to buy and what to pass up. Which is more important, buying cookies or fresh fruit? Soda or milk? Draw a circle and divide it into sections to show how money earned is a finite amount and must cover expenses.

CONCEPTS FOR AGE 6-10

You need to make choices about how to spend your money

Include your child in some of your small decisions. For example, at the grocery store, explain why you pick one item or another; Give your child two dollars and let her choose which fruit to buy; When shopping with your child, ask yourself aloud: Do I need this item? Can I borrow it? Would it cost less somewhere else?

It's good to shop around and compare prices before you buy

With your child, compare prices for a particular toy at various online or brick-and-mortar stores; Use coupons and discount cards and show your child how much you are saving;

It can be costly and dangerous to share information online

Know the websites your child visits; Know how to use parental control software to block inappropriate sites; Whether playing a game or shopping for toys, make it a rule that your child never gives out any personal information, like birthdate, address, phone number, etc.; Make it a policy that nothing can be purchased online without permission.

Putting money in a savings account will protect it and pay you interest.

Discuss with your child how money in a savings account is protected by federal insurance so if the bank goes out of business, you will still get your money back; take your child to a bank or credit union to open an account in their name.

You should save at least a dime for every dollar you receive

Encourage your child to always save 10% of the money he gets; Some parents may also encourage donating to a charitable organization; Have your child set a goal to buy something he wants, and have him work toward that amount.

Entering personal information, like a bank or credit card number, online is risky because someone could steal it.

Explain that cyber thieves can use Social Security numbers or other personal information to open credit card accounts or create fake ID's; Train your child to look for the closed padlock used on secure sites.

Teaching your children key concepts about earning, saving and spending money is a smart move to save your child from developing poor habits to be carried into adulthood.

or must leave, our 'nests' in life to go out into the world and discover who we are. Often, we learn who we are by learning who our parents are. We not only try to follow in their footsteps but learn to say what they say and go where they go. When we make mistakes, we can usually return to the nest for advice...and a snack.

I know some of us may not have those types of nests, but I hope you can find other people willing to share theirs with you when you feel lost and discouraged. Some of us also have many other 'mothers' out there watching over us. And the best part about having a mother is not the nest, or the fresh worms, but rather her listening ears, her encouraging words, her hugs and a heart that will always answer the question: "Are you my mother," or "Are you still there for me, Mother?" with a resounding and open armed, "Yes!"

Marilyn Jackson Bowman

Marilyn Jackson Bowman our beloved Matriarch passed away peacefully May 1st, 2019, two weeks after her 88th birthday. She was born April 13th, 1931 in Cedar City, UT. to Franklin and Marcella Jackson. Marilyn was the last surviving of 6 children. Growing up she was a little bit of a tomboy and liked to be outside playing with her sisters, climbing trees and always looked forward to her big brother coming home with candy treats. She lived her entire life within a two-block radius. She met and was courted by her husband Bud and they were married in 1950. Their marriage was later solemnized in the St. George temple. they had 5 children- Diane, Spence, Jim, Louise and Jeanne. Mom and Dad had many fun adventures raising their kids in the great outdoors. Camping at Navajo, hunting for pine nuts, getting fire wood, and traveling around with the brood and camper in tow. She was the original Kool-Aid Mom and kids came from all over town to hang out at the Bowman's on 800 W. Marilyn was Buds biggest supporter throughout his career and all his endeavors. They were able to travel a lot in their later years with an annual trip to Mazatlán which she thoroughly enjoyed. She had a very keen mind and a knack for words and numbers, she never needed speed dial. She was an accomplished seamstress and cook and masterfully knitted and crocheted. Everyone who came within distance received a purse, scarf, beanie or booties she made. She passed her knack for cooking down to all her children. She loved playing the piano and did so for many years through all her kids' years in primary. She had a beautiful voice and enjoyed singing with the choir. Some of Mom's favorite things were reading, chocolate, fine dining, Chanel #5 and shopping at Dillard's, she always looked so stylish. Her greatest joy in life along with her children were her 15 grandchildren, 32 great grandchildren and 1 great great grandchild with 2 on the way. All of whom affectionately call her "Granny". Granny was an exceptionally kind and loving woman and knowing her made us all better people.

She is preceded in death by her eternal husband Demar "Bud" Bowman, son James Bruce Bowman, Daughter Louise Bowman Allred, Granddaughter Aimie Allred, son in law Kelly Bennett, and siblings Wayne, Douglas, Deanna, Lucille, and Howard.

Darleen Wright

Darleen was born April 3, 1932, in Stirling, Alberta, Canada, to Carl Weston Lybbert and Mae Ulilla Ogden. Growing up on a ranch, and as the oldest of seven children, Darleen not only accepted her many responsibilities but also excelled at them. She understood the value of hard work, which remained with her throughout her life. Darleen met Ordell Zeldon Wright at a dance in Rosemary, Alberta when she was only fourteen-years-old. The two of them would see each other at church functions but never officially dated. When Ordell received a two-year mission call for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints to Samoa, Darleen waited faithfully for him and got to know him better through the letters they sent to one another. On November 18, 1953, following his return, they were married in the Cardston, Alberta Temple. Darleen and Ordell immigrated to the United States where they raised five children and shared many happy times together as a family. Living in Shelby, Montana, they enjoyed many wholesome family activities including exploring the Sweetgrass Hills, bike trips, swimming, camping, singing together, and working together.

Darleen was a faithful member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, holding numerous leadership positions throughout her lifetime (often more than one at a time). She was diligent and dependable in all she did. She loved music, had a beautiful singing voice, and often directed or sang in choirs and small groups as well.

Darleen also had an amazing green thumb and could grow anything. Her gardens were both productive and beautiful. However, the Lord and her family were always most important to her. She was an excellent and devoted mother and homemaker. Her children and grandchildren have fond memories of her wonderful meals and the best fresh-baked bread ever. She would often time her baking to correspond with the arrival of grandchildren, who delighted in the smell and taste of several slices of bread right out of the oven. No one could eat just one slice.

Later in life, Darleen served with her 'dear husband,' as she liked to call him, in the Vienna, Austria mission for 18 months. They felt greatly blessed during this time and enjoyed speaking of their experiences while serving there.

Darleen's eternal companion passed away in their home in Las Vegas on February 17, 2014. Following Ordell's death, Darleen spent a lot of time with family and enjoyed visiting them and participating in special events and holiday celebrations.

On April 29, 2019, Darleen took an unexpected trip to the hospital. With little indication or symptoms, she passed away peacefully within two and a half hours of being admitted. Darleen passed exactly as she wanted to—quickly and in the presence of several family members. She had been returning home after an eleven-day trip to Texas to see her youngest granddaughter get married, but instead of returning to her apartment as planned, Darleen returned to her Heavenly home. She is survived by her children: Gary Ordell (Jan), Teresa Mae Hirschi (Neil), Myra Ann Christensen (Reed), Karen Darleen De La Paz (Alberto), Grant Edward (Martha); 24 grandchildren; 50 great-grandchildren; brothers Jerry Lybbert (Carol Ann), Dan Lybbert (Ruth), John Lybbert (Kathy), and sister Ladene Campbell (Dick).

She is preceded in death by her husband, Ordell; parents Carl and Mae Lybbert; brother Robert Lybbert (Billie); and sister Jeannette Sand (Ralph). She lived a full and productive life and will sorely be missed by her family and friends.

Funeral services were held on Saturday, May 4, 2019 at 1:00 pm at the Paragonah Ward Chapel. A viewing was also held prior to the service on Saturday, May 4, from 11:30-12:30 pm at the Church. Lady Reds complete undefeated region softball season

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

With one more win standing between the Cedar Lady Reds and a third straight undefeated softball season in Region 9 play, the team didn't get off to the best of starts. A second-inning run was holding up on the scoreboard, but it would only be a matter of time before the offense came to life.

Once it did, the Lady Reds were able to close the deal and finish the job.

Japrix Weaver hit a two-run homer as part of a four-run fifth inning, while Becca Boyer and Kenzie Waters added solo shots in the sixth as Cedar rolled to a 7-2 win over Hurricane on May 3 to finish 12-0 in Region 9 for the second year in a row and stretch its region winning streak to 34 straight over three years.

"The score was 1-0 and Hurricane was still putting it on a dime," Cedar head coach Chris Weaver said. "We were swinging at bad pitches. I tried being grumpy, I tried being stern, and I tried being funny, but I said 'it's up to you guys. I don't know what to do for you.'"

The Lady Reds had no trouble figuring everything out. Waters not only homered, but she struck out six with one walk in another complete-game effort as Cedar won its 18th straight and finished the regular season with a 20-2 record.

"I had been sick all week, but I knew we wanted to go undefeated again," Waters said. "This is as good as it gets."

Falcons play spoiler, Redmen reach baseball playoffs

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

For all of its struggles during the Region 9 baseball season, the opportunity was out there for the Canyon View Falcons to do its part to shape the foursome who would advance to the 4A state playoffs.

After a pair of lengthy weather delays, the Falcons found their offensive legs and came through with one of the more important wins of the season.

Colton Shumway hit a two-run triple that highlighted a four-run seventh inning, and Canyon View held on for an 8-5 victory over the Hurricane Tigers on April 30. The game ended after nearly five hours, but the Falcons put the big inning together late to eliminate Hurricane from playoff contention and put Cedar in as the No. 4 seed.

After the first weather delay, Canyon View had a 3-1 lead in the top of the sixth. When play resumed, they added a run and stretched the lead to three, but Hurricane got two runs in the bottom of the inning.

Following the second delay, the Tigers were able to get two runs in the bottom of the seventh and had the tying run at the plate, but reliever Josh MacInnis got the final out on a strikeout and secured the victory.

CV completed the sweep at home May 3 on Senior Day with an 8-2 win over Hurricane and finished the year with a 3-9 record in Region 9, tying with the Tigers and Pine View for fifth place. The team honored former coach Jacob Ziegler, who passed away that morning after a long fight with cancer, before the game.

The Falcons struck early with three runs in the first inning, then added five more in the fifth to put the win away. Hurricane avoided the shutout by scoring both of its runs in the top of the seventh.

MacInnis drove in three runs for CV and McCray Webster added two RBI.

Cedar finished play in Region 9 last week and came away with a 2-1 record in three non-region games to finish the regular season with a 13-12 record overall. Behind the shutout pitching of Tanner Eyre, the Redmen closed the home portion of the schedule with a 6-0 victory over Gunnison on April 30 and rallied with a run in the top of the seventh inning to beat Uintah, 6-5, in a game played at Westlake High on May 4.

In the opening game of the weekend trip, Cedar dropped a 12-1 decision to Westlake on May 3. The Thunder put the win away early by scoring eight runs in the bottom of the fifth inning.

The Redmen will open the 4A playoffs against Region 11 champion Juan Diego on the road Saturday at 10 a.m.

Despite finishing fifth in 2A South, the Parowan Rams nearly came away with a pair of victories as the 2A playoffs got under way May 4 as they traveled to Gunnison. They opened with a 12-0 shutout over North Summit but dropped a 2-1 decision to the host Bulldogs in eight innings.

Parowan forced the extra frame when pitcher Beau Millet tied the game with a solo home run in the top of the seventh inning.

The Rams will face North Sevier at Pine View High in the one-loss bracket Thursday at 11 a.m. A win would advance them to a 4:30 p.m. game at Dixie State against either Milford or Kanab.

Region 11, with first pitch set for Noon. A second game follows after at 2 or 4 p.m.

The Lady Reds opened the week with another comeback win when Japrix Weaver's sacrifice fly broke a tie in the sixth inning and keyed a 5-3 victory over Desert Hills. The Thunder had struck first with two runs in the second to take an early lead, but Cedar responded with two in the top of the third to tie the score on RBI singles from Kylie Oldroyd and Makenzie Whitehair.

Desert Hills would answer on the first pitch from Waters in the bottom of the inning when Addi Betts belted the game's only home run over the fence in left field. Cedar added an insurance run in the seventh when catcher Brittnie Simcox reached on an error as Kelsi Oldroyd scored.

Waters would retire the Thunder in order on just eight pitches in the bottom of the seventh to finish off the victory.

Canyon View finished its week with a pair of wins that put them in a three-way share of second place in Region 9. The Falcons started the week with a 7-3 win over Dixie, then closed it out with a 6-3 victory over Snow Canyon. The tie was completed when Desert Hills shut out Pine View, 9-0.

On Monday morning, the Falcons won the three-way flip and earned the No. 2 seed for the 4A playoffs. CV will travel to Bear River on Saturday and face the No. 3 seed from Region 11 in a 10 a.m. start.

CV (16-5 overall) managed just four hits, but took advantage of four walks between Warriors starter Payten Jensen (three) and Jenna Thorkelson (one). The Falcons built a 5-0 lead with three runs in the fourth inning, but Snow Canyon broke the shutout bid of senior pitcher Jordan Nielson with all of its runs in the top of the sixth.

Erin Robinson had a two-run triple in the Falcons' big inning and Camry Higgins added a solo home run.

"We are peaking at the right time, and our bench was phenomenal,"

Canyon View coach J.R. Robinson said. "It's easy to keep the momentum when the bench is involved in the game. They were the 10th man, and the girls responded in a game that was our season."

Nielson allowed two home runs, but recorded the final out herself on a ground ball to secure the victory.

"We all have fun together and believe in each other," Nielson said. "We have 100 percent confidence in each other and just have fun. We were a little nervous, but we believed we could do it."

Special birthday for Torgerson

Cedar High junior Mayci Torgerson celebrated her 17th birthday Sunday morning with a tweet from basketball teammate Samantha Johnston. Her performances at the BYU Invitational track and field meet only added to the good vibes.

Torgerson grabbed a second-place finish in the high jump at 5 feet, 4.25 inches and added a third-place leap of 17 feet, 7.5 inches in the long jump to highlight Cedar's run to a second-place effort for the weekend in the competition that had teams competing from 4A through 6A head-to-head.

The Lady Reds finished with 57 points, 11 in front of third-place

Orem, but well behind winner Lone Peak, who scored 90.5 points to stand at the top of the medal podium. As they prepare to defend their 4A state title from a year ago, Cedar had other strong performances that added to the team total.

Senior Jasie York, a Utah commit, grabbed second-place medals in both the 200 meters (25.22 seconds) and 400 (56.29). Sophomore Logann Laws was second in the javelin throw (123-6) and Denim Henkel completed a busy weekend by winning the shot put with a toss of 37-7.25.

Cedar's 4x400 relay team finished fourth in 4:04.58, and Canyon View's lone top-5 finisher was Jaylie Roden, who was fourth in the discus throw at 113-6.25.

The Region 9 track meet will be held at Snow Canyon today and tomorrow, and the state championship meet will be held

May 16 through 18 at BYU.

» A post-mortem on Cedar softball: The Lady Reds continue to amaze as they ruled Region 9 for a third straight year and polished off another perfect record in one of the more difficult regions in the state. The streak is at 34 wins, and the workload will only get harder in 2020 when new St. George school Crimson Cliffs makes its varsity debut. That makes a 14-game region schedule going forward.

Cedar has won 18 straight games but faces a likely quarterfinal matchup in the 4A playoff bracket against Tooele. The Lady Buffaloes, led by pitcher Attlyn Johnston, handed the Lady Reds one of their two losses on the year in a 4-0 shutout at the March Warm-Up on March 8.

Tooele has allowed exactly one run in Region 11 play and is averaging one run allowed per game while compiling an 18-2 record through May 5.

We thought the same things about Spanish Fork last year – big bats, strong pitching – but Cedar found a way to beat them a year ago. With the attitude they have in the dugout and on the field, the Lady Reds will be up for the challenge when the time comes to go to work.

SUU's Jake Vincent named Zions Bank Champion of the Month

by Bryson LESTER

SUU ATHLETICS STRATEGIC COMMUNICATION

CEDAR CITY — Thunderbird junior Jake Vincent has been named Zions Bank Champion of the Month for April by the Utah Golf Association following his Big Sky Championship victory.

Vincent will be representing the Thunderbirds at NCAA Regionals at Stanford Golf Course from May 13-15. He is the fourth T-Bird in the history of the program to qualify for the NCAA postseason, and the first to claim an automatic berth to golf's big dance.

He claimed the Big Sky Individual Championship by shooting a nine-under 207 (70, 68, 69). Vincent joins Kenny Eballo, Nate Page and Fidel Concepcion as Thunderbirds to qualify for NCAA Regionals as an individual on the Division I level. This is his second career victory, as he won SUU's Pat Hicks-Pizza Hut Thunderbird Invitational earlier this season.

Vincent started hot with birdies on two of his first five holes, but the front nine quickly turned as he had a double bogey at both No. 6 and No. 9. However, if you looked at the second nine you would have never known it. Vincent had five birdies on the back nine, including a clutch one on the 18th hole, to set the mark to reach for the tournament.

Vincent is the second Thunderbird to earn Champion of the Month status, as women's team representative Chanikan (Pluem) Yongyuan earned the title for March.

Wild and Crazy Moms!

Which animal would you like to be your mom?

Motherhood means different things to different animals. Read about how these animal mothers care, or don't care for their young. Which animal mother would you like to have?

Silly Sheep

It is not uncommon for a sheep to simply abandon its lamb. Farmers often have to bottle-feed lambs.

Help the little lost sheep find the farmer with the bottle.

Donkey Devotion

A donkey's mother may be the most devoted of all. They will not let any other animal come between them and their babies. Even if a curious, little kitten comes close, a donkey mom will chase it away.

Strange Reflection

Find the differences between the mother donkey and its foal and their reflection in the pond.

EGGS-tra Fun

Use the numbers 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.

Make the top row of eggs equal 6.

Make the sum of the middle row of eggs equal 16.

Make the sum of the bottom row equal 17.

Standards Link: Math: Find the sum of whole numbers to 20; students use strategies, skills and concepts in finding solutions.

Animal Adoptions

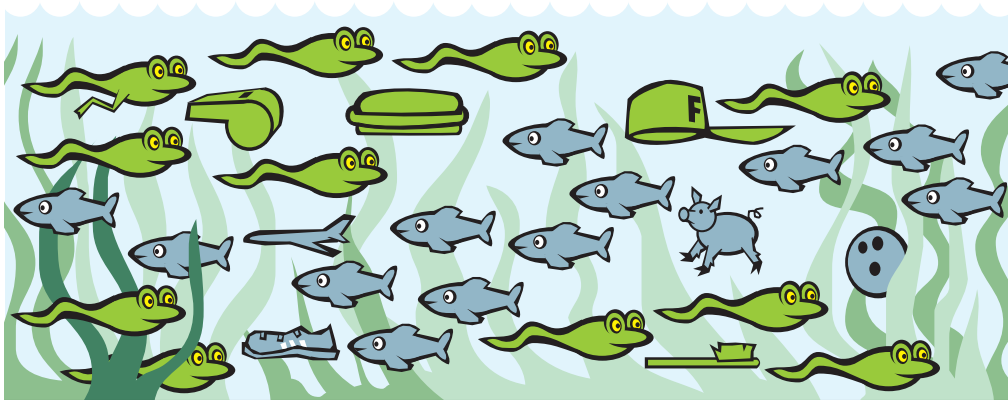

Sometimes a goat will abandon its kid. Usually a farmer does not have to bottle-feed the little critter because another nanny goat will step in and adopt it.

Adoptions can also be seen in the chicken coop. Some hens will sit on any eggs that happen to be around.

Standards Link: Life Science: Different animals inhabit the earth, reproduce and adapt in different ways to survive.

Underwater Moms

Frogs and fish moms generally lay their eggs and forget about them. Fortunately, once the eggs hatch, the tiny tadpoles and baby fish can survive on their own. In fact, one of the predators they have to watch out for is their own mom! Find 8 things in the pond that don't belong.

Kid Scoop Puzzler

The mother Surinam toad cares for her eggs in one of the strangest ways. As the mother toad lays eggs, the male toad presses them one by one into the soft skin on the mother's back. After a while, each egg sinks into a little pocket that forms on the mother's back. Then a covering of skin grows over the pocket. The baby toads hatch and develop in these little pockets. A few weeks later, the mother rubs her back and the little toads swim free.

What did the mother Surinam toad say to her kids? Unscramble the answer:

"ETG FOF YM AKBC!"

How to Create Fresh Spring Flavors

Grilled Bacon-Wrapped Asparagus

Prep time: 5 minutes. Cook time: 8 minutes
Servings: 6-8

- 1 pound Michigan Asparagus
- olive oil
- 1 package uncooked bacon, thin sliced
- balsamic glaze (optional)
- salt, to taste
- pepper, to taste

Wash asparagus and trim ends.

Place asparagus on tray and drizzle with olive oil. Toss to coat.

Wrap 2-3 spears with one slice bacon. Repeat with remaining asparagus and bacon.

Heat grill to medium heat and clean grates.

Place asparagus bundles on grill and cook 3-4 minutes per side, or until bacon is crispy.

During last minute of grilling, brush asparagus bunches with balsamic glaze, if desired. Avoid adding glaze too soon or it may burn.

Add salt and pepper, to taste.

When it comes to healthy eating, looking for nutrient-rich foods to include in your diet is one of the more important goals. However, when warmer weather is in full swing, it may be tricky to incorporate nourishing foods that are versatile enough for grilling season.

For a keto- and paleo-friendly option ideal for grilling, consider using asparagus to please your crowd. With its peak season typically running through May and June, this vegetable can provide a much-needed flare to your seasonal feasts and be eaten warm or cold in appetizers, salads, side dishes and more.

Keep in mind this multiuse food aligns with a variety of cooking methods, according to the Michigan Asparagus Advisory Board: saute 3 minutes, grill 5 minutes, steam 5 minutes or roast 15 minutes.

In addition to quick and easy preparation, asparagus also allows for loads of wholesome health benefits with its low-calorie qualities and sources of fiber, folate and vitamins. To get the most nutritional value out of your asparagus, consider buying the veggie when it's in-season from your local area instead of purchasing imported asparagus. Grown by over 100 family farmers in the United States, Michigan asparagus can be used in a tasty, savory dish like Grilled Bacon-Wrapped Asparagus for a fresh family meal.
