SUU hosts Larry H. Miller Utah Summer Games Opening Ceremony

from David Bishop

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

CEDAR CITY — The 36th annual Larry H. Miller Utah Summer Games commenced with the Opening Ceremony on Friday, June 18 in the Eccles Coliseum at Southern Utah University.

Headlined by The Spazmatics and The Boogie Knights, the Opening Ceremony included the athlete's parade, lighting of the torch, family-friendly activities, and fireworks.

"We are so excited to once again welcome everyone to the Opening Ceremony and Utah Summer Games," said Pace Clarke, executive director of the Utah Summer Games. "Canceled due to COVID, the tradition of the games was greatly missed last year in the Cedar City community. We look forward to four fun-filled weeks of collaboration, competition and celebrating the participating athletes."

Opening the four week event of the Utah Summer Games, the Open Ceremony featured the parade of athletes, lighting of the cauldron, an SUU Aviation flyover as well as amazing stunts performed by Flippenout Extreme Trampoline. The Boogie Knights, known as the greatest disco revival show in the world, headlined the event.

Previous to the Open Ceremony, the Utah Summer Games Summer Block Party was held at SUU (800 West 200 South) and included food trucks, face painting, music, games and entertainment for those of all ages.

With more than 40 sporting events, the Utah Summer Games is one of the premier sporting events in Utah and attracts athletes of all ages and skill levels. The competition celebrates excellence in the human spirit and healthy lifestyles through extraordinary sporting events and competition. Since 1986, this event has been conducted at SUU with an average total of 9,600 participants, 50 thousand spectators, and 1,000 volunteers in attendance each year. The recent executive order regarding the fireworks ban on state property doesn't apply to professionally produced shows and the Utah Summer Games, along with SUU, took several precautionary measures to ensure a safe firework display during the current drought conditions.

The Utah State Fire Marshal, as well as city and local officials, approved the show and, as with any fireworks show, the Cedar City Fire Department was on location.

Find more information about the Utah Summer games along with scheduling details at utahsummergames.org.

After missing last year due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the flames, fans and hopeful athletes of the Utah Summer Games returned to Southern Utah.

SUU teams with community to provide summer lunches

from David Bishop

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Having a healthy lunch during the summer can be difficult for some local families, but thanks to Southern Utah University (SUU) and the Community Presbyterian Church (CPC) over 500 children in Iron County have access to nutritious lunches daily. The program began 14 years ago when a state-wide non-profit organization, Utahns Against Hunger, approached Iron County to find a capable entity to apply for the USDA grant and develop the program. The CPC applied for the USDA grant and solely ran the program for the first couple of years. As the program grew, a new partnership developed with SUU.

Nutrition students from SUU have found internships in this program particularly valuable, Sarah Teare, a senior nutrition major from West Jordan, UT. "This real-life experience is a fantastic way to put my academic knowledge to work. I am happy to be engaged in my community and use my education to help combat food insecurities." Sarah will pursue a registered dietitian nutritionist career after graduating.

Additionally, the Community Engagement Center provides SUU volunteers once a week to conduct recreational activities with the children. "With over 400 children at the park, it is great to keep them active and moving," says student Service Leader Beks Winward, a senior nutrition major from Orem, Utah. "We provide games and fun activities every Wednesday from noon to 1 pm."

Nancy Pearson, pastor at Community Presbyterian Church praises Southern Utah University for stepping up to the plate with support. "As our congregation ages, the support from SUU has been essential to continuing this very needed program.

We love having the SUU students help prepare and serve the lunches."

Lunch is served Mondays through Fridays at two locations in Iron County. At Cedar City's Main St. Park they are served from 11:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. and at Enoch Elementary School they are served from 12:00 p.m. to 1:00 p.m. Lunch is served on a first-come-first served basis to anyone under 18 years old. Adults can purchase lunch for $2.00.

Last year and continuing this year, the COVID pandemic allowed for a waiver that allows parents to pick up lunches for their children and take them home. "Typically, the lunches must be eaten at the park, but this is a great opportunity for those who may not be able to come in person", states Evelyn Gomez, SUU MPA student and coordinator of the program this year. Most of the SUU coordination of the program rests with the Utah Center for Rural Health.

Executive Director Rita Osborn commented that, "Iron County consistently ranks lower than many counties when it comes to food insecurity. This program is a win, win, win as children have access to nutritious food and SUU students can truly make a difference, plus learn about how to apply concepts they are learning at university."

In addition to SUU and the CPC, the Utah State University Extension program provides interns for the program while the Iron County bookmobile makes weekly visits to provide educational opportunities, making the program a true community partnership.

For more information, updated menus and more - refer to their social media at <https://www.facebook.com/CedarCitySummerLunchProgram> or contact Osborn at 435-865-8520.

Mayor Maile's Corner

As your Mayor, I am thrilled to have this opportunity and venue to provide our residents with even more transparent, accountable, and accessible information about what is taking place within Cedar City. Each column will be a little different, but I thought it would be important to start "Mayor Maile's Corner" by providing you an update on the current fireworks situation, at least as it stands right now.

It is that time of year when fireworks go on sale from June 25th until July 25th, which coincides with our driest and hottest time of the year. This year comes with a heightened concern because of the exceptional drought we are in. There has been much discussion about banning fireworks because of the dry conditions. The state law does not allow municipalities to create a conflicting ordinance prohibiting the sales or uses of fireworks as outlined in the "Utah Fireworks Act."

Because of this law, the Fire Department highly recommends that citizens use the designated sites in Cedar City which are the: South parking lot of Cedar High, the parking lot at the Bicentennial Softball Park, the South parking lot of Canyon View High School, the West parking lot at the Cedar City Aquatic Center, the parking lot at Iron Springs Elementary and new this year on Iron Mission Parkway by the soccer fields, to shoot legal fireworks purchased in the State of Utah. Fireworks are not allowed in the wildland urban interface zone, which you can find a map of on the Fire Department's web page or at your local fireworks retailer.

Fireworks can be legally discharged between the hours of 11 a.m. and 11 p.m., except that on July 4 and July 24, the hours are 11 a.m. to midnight: beginning on July 2 and ending on July 5; and beginning on July 22 and ending on July 25.

Here are some fireworks safety tips:

Promote and practice the FOUR BE's

BE Prepared:

- » Store fireworks out of children's reach.
- » Always read and follow label directions.
- » Always have water handy (a bucket of water).

BE Responsible:

- » Soak used fireworks thoroughly in a bucket of water.
- » Dispose of used fireworks in the provided dumpsters at the designated sites.
- » Never re-light a "Dud" fire work. Wait 15-20 minutes then soak in a bucket of water.

BE Safe:

- » An adult should always light fireworks
- » Keep matches & lighters away from children!
- » Use fireworks outdoors only.
- » Light only one firework at a time & move away quickly.
- » Always remember—do not throw or hold fireworks.

BE Aware:

- » Only use legal fireworks.
- » Use fireworks only in legal places.
- » Fireworks are prohibited on all state parks, state, or federal lands and in the wildland urban interface.

As always if you have any question, concerns or ideas don't hesitate to reach out to me. My office is in the City Office Building 10 North Main, I can be reached by phone 435-586-2953 or email mayorwilson@cedarcity.org.

Annual community water festival set for June 26

from Jessica Staheli

CENTRAL IRON COUNTY WATER CONSERVANCY DISTRICT

Southwest Plumbing Supply & Central Iron County Water Conservancy District invite the community to join them at the Main Street Park in Cedar City on Saturday, June 26 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. for the annual community Water Festival.

The festival was designed to educate community members on water conservation and showcase water efficient products, irrigation and landscape equipment, consulting and professional services, and water software and technologies.

Kids can enjoy themselves with activities including bounce houses, inflatable slides & obstacle courses, a giant foamy slip n slide and other fun outdoor games during the event.

Paul Monroe, Central Iron County Water Conservancy District General Manager said the District has decided to help preserve water resources in this exceptional drought year by replacing the fire truck spray used in years past with a foam machine on the giant slip n slide.

“Due to the drought, we need to cut back on water usage at the Festival, and with high fire danger in the area we felt it was important to not use a fire truck either,” he said. “Instead there will be a large foam machine that uses minimal water on the slip n slide this year.”

FESTIVAL DESIGNED TO EDUCATE COMMUNITY ON WATER CONSERVATION

The water balloon fights will also be replaced with other fun outdoor games for the kids that don't require water use.

Ensign Engineering is the “Big Wave Lunch” sponsor, and will provide free hot dogs for lunch beginning at 11 a.m. and running as long as supplies last.

Those who attend can learn about the solutions the District is creating to solve the water problems in the Cedar Valley, including conservation, recharging and reusing water, and efforts to import water into the valley.

Booths will be set up with information on water efficient products, water-wise landscaping options such as Localscapes, water efficiency rebates, free water checks, the “Get to Know Your H2O” campaign and more. Food and merchandise vendors will also be offering their wares.

To add to the fun, there will be giveaways and all attendees can enter to win fun summer yard games. Community members can get extra giveaway entries on the District's Facebook page. Mikey and the Mrs. from the radio station B92.1 will be broadcasting live at the event.

The District would like to thank all its sponsors for making the Water Festival possible. Festival sponsors include: Southwest Plumbing Supply, Ensign Engineering, Carollo Engineers, Smith's Food and Drug Stores, Rainbow Sign & Design, Stewart Brother's Electric, Smart Termite & Pest Control, and Kwik Soft H2O.

For more information about the Water Festival visit <https://cicwcd.org/waterfestival/> or call (435) 865-9901.

The Central Iron County Water Conservancy District is charged with conserving, developing and stabilizing the Cedar Valley water supply for the benefit of all current and future water users and consumers in the region. The Water District educates residents about conservation, reuse and water import strategies as it strives to meet the challenges of declining water levels and community growth.

FROM THE EDITOR

In case of emergency...

COREY BAUMGARTNER
MANAGING EDITOR

Life is full of difficult decisions. It seems the more adept we become at making them, they adapt and become even tougher. In the case of newspapers, it seems the most difficult decisions are not only how to best present both information and inspiration to the community, but also how best to provide for and protect the resources of both people (employees) and profits so they can continue to serve their communities who rely on them to be worthy of the work entrusted to them.

Even without the luxury of our award-winning legacy, we know and recognize that our greatest legacy and assets are you, our writers, readers, advertisers and deliverers. How blessed our mini but mighty ICT team is to be an integral part of so many lives in our Iron County communities.

With that being said, in this ever-changing economy, some newspapers aren't going to make it; some have already stopped their presses for good. Some have sought to survive digitally, while others closed their doors. Not the Iron County Today!

Henri-Frederic Amiel wisely reminds us to, "Work while you have the light. You are responsible for the talent that has been entrusted to you." We at the Iron County Today shall continue to do just that. Nevertheless, it would be foolish to rest on our literary laurels. As Bernard M. Baruch said, "We can't cross a bridge until we come to it; but I always like to lay down a pontoon ahead of time."

Therefore, I propose three questions to every reader and advertiser in this community. First, what would your life and/or business be like without the Iron County Today Newspaper. Second, what would you miss the most about reading weekly wisdom from this newspaper? Finally, what "pontoons" of preparation do you think we could lay down to make our newspaper more sustainable in these trying times and avoid the void other newspapers are falling into?

Please let me know through email or mail, or stop by the office. Thank you and let's keep going!

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK

"Don't judge each day by the harvest you reap but by the seeds that you plant."

Robert Louis Stevenson

Weather for reading

The onset of summer brought to mind for me a thought-provoking moment with my daughter, America (who was maybe ten at the time?). She handed me a book she was reading, and asked me to read to her. After I read a chapter to her, she said, "Thanks, Dad. I could have read it myself, but I just love it when you read to me. I miss our winter read-alouds."

Meri walked away with her book, but it got me thinking: I've always promoted the idea that winter is a key time for family reading. But summer is perhaps the most important time for kids to see their parents reading.

Parents can do a LOT during summer to make a difference in the education of their kids; and one of the best is to set the example of reading. If your kids see you reading a lot, especially during summer leisure, the example can profoundly influence them and their attitudes about learning.

Show Them

This week I'll be reading in the evenings outside by the grill and the court where the kids play basketball, in the hot afternoons near the swamp cooler, and in the kitchen before meals and during cleanup after the family eats.

I'll take turns with several books, so I'll be a few chapters into each, and I'll have more than one discussion about them with the kids.

I'll look for opportunities to tell them: "I'm reading this awesome book. Actually, I've read it before but I'm re-reading it and I want to share something from it that really touched me."

I'll read them a passage that I've marked, and then we'll talk about our thoughts, and the ideas, memories or feelings it provokes.

Include Them

One of the best things about Summer Reading is the opportunity build and heal family relationships and establish an abundant culture of family learning. Some of our family's most significant shared memories came from reading aloud together.

Some of my favorite Family Readalouds with these goals in mind include:

» Little Britches, Moody (this whole series is fabulous)

» Understood Betsy (shows the journey of a child who has lost her sense of self and her love of learning, to becoming a loving, confident child with a deep love of learning)

» Little Men (the principles of family education culture are in full display)

» Little House in the Big Woods (chock-full of amazing content – especially on the topics of family culture, education and community. Oh—and it's not a "girl" book. Seriously. There are bears, whittlin', and all sorts of manly fare. · Farmer Boy, Wilder (again—the whole series has wonderful lessons to shape and heal families)

» Laddie, Stratton-Porter (starts a little slow for some readers, but the treasures in this book are sooooo worth it!)

» Cheaper by the Dozen, Gilbreth (energetic and parent-inspired excellence!)

Summer is a great time for building family, and promoting life-long learning. So just get out your books, start reading, and share!

BRYAN GRAY
COLUMNIST

At a grocery store last week, an elderly woman standing back of me in the check-out line placed an elaborately decorated pastry cake on the conveyor belt. “You must be having a party,” I said. “It’s my husband’s birthday,” she replied. Beaming she added, “He’s a husband and a father and a grandfather and a great-grandfather – and we’ve got a huge number of people coming over to celebrate.” “Well, I hope you have room,” I said. “Thank goodness they won’t all be coming at the same time,” she laughed. “We have six children, 34 grandchildren, and at least 28 great-grandchildren.”

I congratulated her, and I also know this history of large families is coming to an end. In order for a society to keep a stable population, families must have at least two children. The nation is now 20% under that “replacement” population rate and Utah is some 5% under that rate as well. Births have been falling for almost a decade. The number of babies born in Utah has dropped about 20% in the past ten years; the average family size for Utah members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has declined by 25% in some 30 years. As a demographer summed up in a Salt Lake Tribune article this month, young married couples used to say “we’ll figure it out” as to how many children they wanted and how to pay for them. Today, a typical couple wants to “get things in order” before having children. The reasons are varied and generally obvious. There are now more females in college than men, and women are seeking careers outside of being a homemaker. Couples are getting married at an older age; in urban areas it’s most common for a woman to marry when she is 26, meaning she’ll probably have fewer children than if she had married at 22. The teen pregnancy rate in Utah has dropped dramatically, down some 80% in less than 25 years. An at-times unstable economy also contributes; the federal government estimates the average cost of bringing up a child from birth to age 18 is more than $225,000 – and that doesn’t include college fees and tuition. Some people will claim a lower family size is simply a sign of selfishness; after all, they’ll say, their children “got by okay” through prudent spending. However, society today has more demands on children. When I was in elementary school, the only after-school or summer program was church arts and crafts and Little League

UTAH LEGISLATIVE UPDATE

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

Every ten years, the U.S. Constitution requires the U.S. Census Bureau to conduct a count of every person who lives in the United States. The results of the census are used for redistricting, which is the process of drawing new district boundaries for congressional, legislative and state school board districts based on the state's resident population.

In Utah, the Legislature is responsible for redrawing district boundaries. Once the state receives the data from the U.S. Census Bureau, members from the Utah Senate and House of Representatives will hold town hall meetings across the state. Members of the public are encouraged to attend these meetings and provide input and feedback. In addition to participating in town halls, all Utahns will be able to use a state-of-the-art map drawing tool to create their own maps for the legislative committee to review.

SEN. EVAN VICKERS

coordinator and Utah's Division of Natural Resources (DNR) convene the Drought Review and Reporting Committee. The committee recommended an executive order should be issued declaring a state of emergency due to the drought. Gov. Cox released the declaration on March 17. In May, the Legislature extended the drought declaration through October. On June 8, the state issued another drought declaration to further restrict water use at state facilities and prohibit fireworks on state lands.

Though we have no control over droughts in our desert state, we do have control over our water conservation efforts. Learn about your role in water conservation here, <https://water.utah.gov/water-data/drought>. Find a helpful lawn watering guide here, <https://conservewater.utah.gov/weekly-lawn-watering-guide>.

Fireworks

With Utah's current severe drought conditions, we all need to take extra measures to be safe and responsible with fireworks throughout the July holidays. Fireworks are banned on state and federal lands, and many local municipalities have placed bans for high-risk areas within the cities and counties. I urge all to follow restrictions and be extra cautious of their surroundings. I believe Utahns can take appropriate measures to prevent wildfires and still celebrate the founding of our great nation and state. I encourage everyone to practice and promote safe and responsible fireworks measures this summer. The Utah Department of Public Safety released an updated list of fireworks restrictions in areas around Utah. Read the list here, <https://firemarshal.utah.gov/department-services/fireworks-restricted-areas>.

Interim Highlights

This week, the Legislature met for interim committee meetings and appropriations subcommittee meetings. Our non-partisan staff create a newsletter each month reviewing all of the main discussions from interim meetings. You can find these newsletters here, <https://le.utah.gov/lrgc/interimHighlights.jsp>. The latest update is usually released one week after the meetings.

Here are just a few of the items discussed during our interim meetings this week:

The University of Utah presented a utilization plan and outlined the foundation for creating a system-wide approach to resolving Utah's mental health crisis.

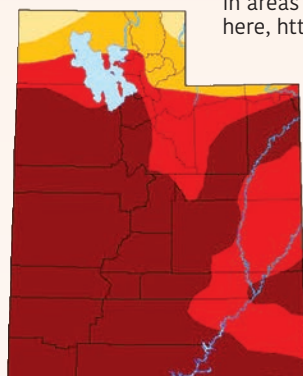

The Transportation Committee received an update on the voluntary, pilot Road User Charge.

The Health and Human Services Interim Committee discussed transgender health care for youth and transgender youth in school sports. This topic received significant feedback from constituents and parents from across the state during the general session earlier this year. As a result, we have supported ongoing conversations that would resolve any concerns and allow for further study of the topic. While no legislation was introduced during this meeting, legislators leading the efforts are involving parents, various stakeholders and community members to resume deliberation.

The State Board of Education (USBE) took action to address critical race theory in schools by approving administrative rules that address educational equality and how it is included in learning and instructional materials. This week USBE shared their next steps, which include a public comment period, a training checklist and a timeline for implementation and developing model training.

IRON COUNTY WATER STEWARDS

by Ashley Langston

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

USU EXTENSION AND THE SUU FARM

The Southern Utah University Farm is involved in an exciting and extensive research project to help determine the most water-efficient ways to use agricultural land in Utah.

Southern Utah University is partnering with the Utah State University Extension on the project, and the Cedar Valley location is one of three in the state. The project began locally this year, and is in its second year in Vernal and its third year in Logan.

Matt Yost, USU Assistant Professor and Sustainable Communities Extension Specialist, said they selected three parts of the state for the study, all with different climates, different soils and different water availability.

"Whenever we're doing agricultural research it's really important to replicate things over time and over environments," Yost said.

The major objective is to "identify which combinations of pivot irrigation and crop management practices result in optimized use of limited water supplies, reduced consumptive use, and the best yield and profit outcomes for producers," he said.

The trials will include research on more than 25 different water optimization practices, including pivot irrigation technologies such as mobile drip irrigation, low-elevation precision application, and low-elevation spray application. They will also evaluate how the best available drought-tolerant crop genetics, cover crops, tillage practices, and alternative crops influence water optimization.

Boyd Kitchen, USU Extension Agriculture and Natural Resources Director for Uintah County, said there are separate studies about optimizing water use, water management, crop management, and soil management, but this study is the first of its kind because it brings all those aspects together and is designed to be a long-term study.

The information gathered should be especially useful in guiding water conservation planning at the farm level, which would in turn have large impacts on planning efforts at watershed and basin levels.

SUU Farm Manager Morgan Christensen said they are glad to be partnering with USU on the project. "It's a really positive thing for the farm and for SUU," he said.

USU and SUU are partnering with the irrigation industry, water conservancy districts, soil and water conservation districts, Utah water agencies, and several other federal and state organizations on the project.

Central Iron County Water Conservancy District General Manager Paul Monroe serves on the state's Agricultural Water Optimization Task Force, which was created by the Utah Legislature in 2018. He said the group has been working to identify the critical issues facing the state's long-term water supply, particularly in regard to optimizing agricultural water supply, use, and future needs, in light of expected population growth.

The task force is looking forward to the results of this study and its potential to help agricultural water users and statewide water supplies.

The Iron County Water Stewards program recognizes community members for contributing to the effort to optimize every drop of water in Iron County. The Central Iron County Water Conservancy District (CICWCD) is actively engaged in education, conservation, reuse and import projects to meet the growing demands on local water supply. For every effort you make to conserve, we consider you a water steward, too. For more of the story and to Get to Know Your H2O, visit www.cicwcd.org.

D-Day 75th Anniversary: A long thin line of personal anguish (part 3)

The 75th anniversary of D-Day is an appropriate time for us to recall the sacrifices made by those serving and who had served in our Armed Forces. To mark this occasion, the Ernie Pyle World War II Museum in Dana, Indiana, and Scripps Howard Foundation offer this reprint of three columns written by Ernie Pyle immediately after the Normandy invasion. It's a reminder to all of the ultimate sacrifice made by so many Americans to maintain the freedoms we enjoy. Further columns can be found at: <https://sites.mediaschool.indiana.edu/erniepile/wartime-columns/#WartimeColumns>

by Ernie Pyle

WITH PERMISSION FROM
SCRIPPS HOWARD FOUNDATION

NORMANDY BEACHHEAD, June 17, 1944 — In the preceding column we told about the D-day wreckage among our machines of war that were expended in taking one of the Normandy beaches.

But there is another and more human litter. It extends in a thin little line, just like a high-water mark, for miles along the beach. This is the strewn personal gear, gear that will never be needed again, of those who fought and died to give us our entrance into Europe.

Here in a jumbled row for mile on mile are soldiers' packs. Here are socks and shoe polish, sewing kits, diaries, Bibles and hand grenades. Here are the latest letters from home, with the address on each one neatly razored out — one of the security precautions enforced before the boys embarked.

Here are tooth-brushes and razors, and snapshots of families back home staring up at you from the sand. Here are pocketbooks, metal mirrors, extra trousers, and bloody, abandoned shoes. Here are broken-handled shovels, and portable radios smashed almost beyond recognition, and mine detectors twisted and ruined.

Here are torn pistol belts and canvas water buckets, first-aid kits and jumbled heaps of lifebelts. I picked up a pocket Bible with a soldier's name in it, and put it in my jacket. I carried it half a mile or so and then put it back down on the beach. I don't know why I picked it up, or why I put it back down.

Soldiers carry strange things ashore with them. In every invasion you'll find at least one soldier hitting the beach at H-hour with a banjo slung over his shoulder. The most ironic piece of equipment marking our beach — this beach of first despair, then victory — is a tennis racket that some soldier had brought along. It lies lonesomely on the sand, clamped in its rack, not a string broken.

Two of the most dominant items in the beach refuse are cigarets and writing paper. Each soldier was issued a carton of cigarets just before he started. Today these cartons by the thousand, water-soaked and spilled out, mark the line of our first savage blow.

Writing paper and air-mail envelopes come second. The boys had intended to do a lot of writing in France. Letters that would have filled those blank, abandoned pages.

Always there are dogs in every invasion. There is a dog still on the beach today, still pitifully looking for his masters.

He stays at the water's edge, near a boat that lies twisted and half sunk at the water line. He barks appealingly to every soldier who approaches, trots eagerly along with him for a few feet, and then, sensing himself unwanted in all this haste, runs back to wait in vain for his own people at his own empty boat.

Over and around this long thin line of personal anguish, fresh men today are rushing vast supplies to keep our armies pushing on into France. Other squads of men pick amidst the wreckage to salvage ammunition and equipment that are still usable.

Men worked and slept on the beach for days before the last D-day victim was taken away for burial.

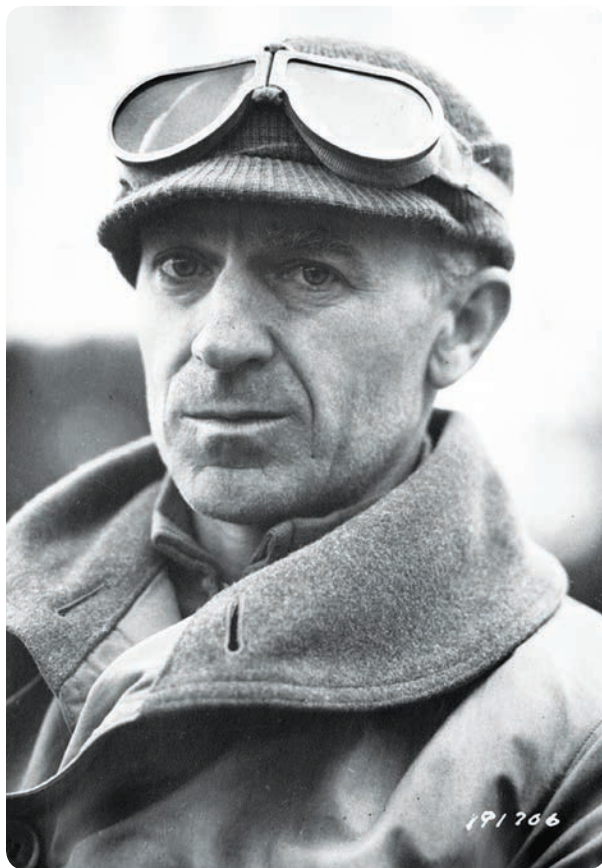

I stepped over the form of one youngster whom I thought dead. But when I looked down I saw he was only sleeping. He was very young, and very tired. He lay on one elbow, his hand suspended in the air about six inches from the ground. And in the palm of his hand he held a large, smooth rock.

I stood and looked at him a long time. He seemed in his sleep to hold that rock lovingly, as though it were his last link with a vanishing world. I have no idea at all why he went to sleep with the rock in his hand, or what kept him from dropping it once he was asleep. It was just one of those little things without explanation that a person remembers for a long time.

The strong, swirling tides of the Normandy coastline shift the contours of the sandy beach as they move in and out. They carry soldiers' bodies out to sea, and later they return them. They cover the corpses of heroes with sand, and then in their whims they uncover them.

As I plowed out over the wet sand of the beach on that first day ashore, I walked around what seemed to be a couple of pieces of driftwood sticking out of the sand. But they weren't driftwood.

They were a soldier's two feet. He was completely covered by the shifting sands except for his feet. The toes of his GI shoes pointed toward the land he had come so far to see, and which he saw so briefly.

It gets expensive. And it's hard to tell your son that he will be the only child on the block without an electric scooter or a visit to Disneyland.

Smaller family sizes will have consequences, some negative and some positive. It will mean an older workforce, more reliance on immigration to fill needed jobs, decreased education budgets, less impact on resources and climate change, significant differences in buying patterns, and diminished payments to the Social Security fund.

ARTS + ENTERTAINMENT IN IRON COUNTY

Master OF Music

CO-FOUNDER BECOMES PROGRAM DIRECTOR OF SUU MUSIC TECHNOLOGY GRADUATE DEGREE

by Ashley H. Palmer

SUU COLLEGE OF PERFORMING
& VISUAL ARTS

The Department of Music at Southern Utah University is honored and excited to welcome Dan Anderegg to their faculty as the new Program Director of the Master of Music in Music Technology. Anderegg teaches music technology with a focus on project based learning. He is a composer for film and television with music airing on major network television shows such as Grey's Anatomy (ABC), Franklin and Bash (CBS), Save Me (NBC), and Vampire Diaries (CW). After studying piano at the University of Utah, he decided to transition to composition for film and TV. Anderegg completed a Master of Fine Arts degree at the University of North Carolina School of the Arts. Upon graduation, he landed a prestigious internship with the Emmy's Foundation which took him to Los Angeles where he worked as a composer's assistant for Danny Lux.

Anderegg said, "I see a lot of opportunity with the formation of new degrees such as the BFA in Film and the BM in Commercial Music. I'm looking forward to contributing to the formation of an on-campus model entertainment industry that will mimic what students will work in upon graduation providing the most realistic experience possible to our learners. SUU is willing to innovate in ways that other schools shy away from because of the amount of effort. That's why I love SUU."

He helped found the Master of Music in Music Technology program at SUU with Dr. Steven Meredith and has played a leading role in the development of the curriculum as it evolves year after year. He started teaching because he loved the challenge of helping create a master's degree in music delivered entirely online. He still sees this as an exciting challenge and is humbled by the success the program has exhibited.

Dr. Lawrence Johnson, Chair of the Department of Music at SUU, shared, "The SUU Master of Music in Music Technology program will continue to thrive under the leadership of its director, Dan Anderegg. Dan has already done so much for the program as faculty and interim director, including the alignment of courses in order to join with Academic Partnerships to grow the program, and the creation of a 'carousel' class rotation for students to matriculate in any semester and still graduate in the normal amount of time. Now that Dan is officially the full-fledged director, the MMT program couldn't be in better hands and the music department looks forward to a prosperous future for the program."

The College of Performing and Visual Arts at SUU is excited for Dan Anderegg to serve as the Program Director for the Master of Music in Music Technology and to continue working with and engaging the graduate students. For more information about the Department of Music at SUU, please visit www.suu.edu/pva/music.

With a professionally-packed resume, which includes composing music for major network television shows, Dan Anderegg will help take SUU musicians to an even higher scale of excellence.

Not the Summer Solstice already?!

by Mary Anne Andersen

CEDAR CITY ARTS COUNCIL

I am very much a calendar person. I have a large sense of important dates, anniversaries, and such and carry them slipped into the appropriate file in my mind. With the phrase, "Remember what happened a year ago on this date?", I can have family and friends worried that they've forgotten something important. (I was referring to the day we planted our tomato plants. ("You don't remember?") I sometimes begin a class with, "Who knows what today is?" and my bleary-eyed college students are clueless. (That is not a broad, judgmental statement. Really.) They consider it a good day if they remembered that Tuesday means piano class.

That is why I am always a little sad this time of year. Last Monday was the day when the sun began its journey back to the southern hemisphere and I am always aware. It seems that the summer has just begun! I start to panic about the things that need to be done in these long daylight hours: find a Dark Sky park to visit; get out to Red Acre Farm for their burger night; drive over the mountain to Boulder, Utah, for our anniversary tradition. (...a calendar date we never forget.)

Then there are the Cedar City Arts Council Final Friday Art Walks that need the long days of summer. This coming Friday is the first one of the season, and I am anticipating that it will be a real street party since the Shakespeare Festival will have begun, meaning more people on the streets. There will be music at four places along the street: what we call The Green on the corner of University Boulevard and 100 West; in front of Stone Path; on the SUMA Plaza; IG Winery. The Washburn Family Band, Hey Clementine, Jon Yerby, Bill and Loretta Westbrook are a few among those that will be positioned at those sites. Our intent is to entertain walkers as they make their ways to the green show on the Utah Shakespeare Festival grounds. Our music will have to end to before theirs starts.

"Mother Nature will supply the sunshine; I hope she turns off the wind for a while. Rain is never a problem, unfortunately."

And of course, along the way there will be artists and vendors showing their work and hoping that you will see something that you must have. (That has happened to me, in which case my strategy of not taking my wallet didn't work. I simply walked back to my car to get it. Painters, jewelry makers, carvers—all go to the trouble of setting up to show their wares to those passing by. Mother Nature will supply the sunshine; I hope she turns off the wind for a while. Rain is never a problem, unfortunately.

Another attraction in Cedar that doesn't need long summer days is the latest show of the artwork of Brad Holt in the Cedar City Offices Building. These beautiful acrylic paintings of the landscape in southern Utah are really lovely, and the right size to hang in your home. I loved the ones of Kolob, the canyon, the Magic Shed in Kanarraville. If you want to get away from the sun, that venue is cool and uncrowded.

LESS TRAVELED

COREY BAUMGARTNER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

We live in a very beautiful area of southern Utah. The mountains bask in the glow of the setting sun and creative canyon formations are mere miles away. It doesn't take many steps or breaths to arrive at breathtaking scenes of natural art created and located somewhere nearby.

Even despite our current drought, there is no drought of art in our community, thankfully! While the term ART has many definitions, there is one definition that describes them all – Inspiring. Look that up in the Thesaurus and you'll see what I mean. Other words for inspiring include: Uplifting, Refreshing, Exciting, Encouraging. What better way to endure a pandemic than with inspiring Music, Artistry, Crafts and Writing (those whose muse is inspired by a blank page, more than a blank canvas). Even with the majestic mountains, we need our artists most of all.

As the Final Friday Art Walks return (this Friday) I am excited to see, hear and enjoy the local talents of our Iron County Communities. It is truly an asset to have so many local art stores, book stores, music stores and many dedicated teachers of music, painting, dancing, and all things artistic and creative, etc.

With Iron County's palette of famous Painters, Photographers, Musicians, Authors, etc. I wouldn't be surprised if the next Norman Rockwell, or Neal A. Maxwell, were already here, working towards and waiting for their moment to share their magnum opus with the world.

Speaking of this latest Rockwell illustration, it appears this young artist has unfortunately been caught in the rain. She's making a mad dash to her car, home, or some other shelter; not to protect her clothes from getting wet, but her latest masterpiece. I'm pretty sure rain and paintings don't go well together.

I've always admired how an artist can take several ordinary blobs of paint on a palette and blend them together into a beautiful painting. No doubt it's the same with musicians and notes, and writers and words, etc.

The image of God - Imago Dei

DIFFICULT QUESTIONS & TRUTH 101.24

by Edy Meredith

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

What does it mean to be made in the image of God? Kenneth Samples in ReasonstoBelieve.org states that, "Of all the major religions of the world only Judaism and Christianity affirm that human beings are made in the image of God." In Christian theology, the image of God present in Adam at creation was partially lost with the Fall of humans when Adam and Eve disobeyed God in the Garden of Eden, but can be regained when through the atoning sacrifice of Jesus on the cross. He redeemed humans from their sins by paying the price with His blood. The concept of humans being made in the image of God regardless of class, race, gender, or disability is a foundational doctrine of Christianity and Judaism throughout the Old and New Testaments.

The Bible states that of all of God's creatures (including angels and animals) only human beings were created in the express image of God. The Judeo-Christian Scriptures specially mention the Imago Dei (Latin for "divine image") in Genesis 1:26-27, 9:6; 1 Corinthians 11:7; Colossians 3:10; and in James 3:9. Indeed, it seems that the total Bible is written with the Imago Dei in mind.

"Indeed, it seems that the total Bible is written with the Imago Dei in mind."

There are three ways that this Imago Dei functions: 1) Resemblance View which asserts that humankind possesses a formal nature that resembles God with certain qualities, characteristics, and endowments (spiritual, rational, volitional, relational, powerful); 2) Relational View giving humans the ability to engage in complex interpersonal relationships; and 3) the Representational View which is more about what a person does than what a person is. All three views are intertwined to make the human-being and the human-doing.

So, in this case of resemblance, enabling, and doing, can we say that one human being is better than another and that one human being should be permitted to be enslaved to another? I do not think so, and neither does Biblical scripture. Slavery's history is captured in historical records from 6800 BCE and exists into present times. There are always some who want to oppress and justify the use of others, but abolition continues to spread as well. The Redeemer and Great Abolitionist says, "Come unto Me all you who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." (Matthew 11:28)

"Deliverer" (Matt Maher)

Spiritually speaking, the definition of a "deliverer" goes beyond someone dropping bills in our mailbox and the modern-day miracle of 2-day shipping of everything A to Z. If that is a miracle, we need to expand our deficient definition of what a true deliverer does.

Did you know that there is an actual oath that U.S. Postal service carriers (deliverers) take? Part of it says, "Neither Rain, Nor Sleet, Nor Dark Of Night Shall Stay These Couriers From The Swift Completion Of Their Appointed Rounds." That's pretty awesome. I hope every delivery person reading this knows how much you are needed and appreciated.

Now, our True Deliverer, Jesus Christ, not only took an oath, He gave His life to seal that commitment and covenant to direct, protect, guide and guard our lives. Neither the floods of sorrow, the gutters of despair or the dark night of sin can stop Him from delivering His mercy, peace and love to wherever you are, right now (James 1:17). You may feel lost to the world, but you are not the world's. You are a child of God and He won't stop until He gets through every storm to your heart. He will find you (1 Peter 5:10).

When He does, He will not only deliver you from evil (Matthew 6:13) but deliver all good things to you (John 6:37). Yes, sometimes those "good things" and miracles take longer to deliver (Psalm 31:24), but have faith (Proverb's 3:5) because even though the Prince of Peace's package of peace may seem delayed/lost, He still loves you and knows your heart's address (Isaiah 49:16).

Maybe you think your heart's mailbox is so full of junk mail that you don't have a place for the grace He is sending just for you. He will still find a way to get it to you, if you want it (Psalm 46:10). I also know you know all about regrets and losses, but the greatest miracle of all is that if you're still alive and believe there is hope for restoration (Joel 2:25-27). You may be a lost sheep, but you are never a lost cause. You are still loved and no matter how many, "Sorry I missed you" notices the Lord puts on your door, He will never stop stopping by, knocking and hoping one day you'll answer.

Speaking of junk mail. There is another, more devilish deliverer out there. Each day we face two deliverers. One who wants to deliver us junk mail and chains and One who wants to break them apart and set us free. I know the clinking of your chains seems louder than the "I love you!" from God. I know their weight seems heavier than Heaven's help but don't give up (Psalm 46:1-3). Look up, lift up your heart and God will raise you up (Matthew 6:25-27).

Whatever storms, struggles, temptations and enemies you're facing this week, the Deliverer is bringing something that will help deliver you (Psalm 25:4-5, 118:5).

NEW BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

Cedar Melody Music

Sarah Bearnson and her employees at Cedar Melody Music strive to provide music lessons to people of all ages and helps to strengthen the rich arts community.

"I have been playing instruments since I was 2 and teaching since I was 12," shared Sarah. "I graduated with my ARCT in piano performance when I was 16 and wanted to teach others more about learning instruments. Since I am passionate about music, I wanted to help others find their passion for their instrument of choice.

CMM is unique in that it does not have a studio location. As Sarah explains, "We feel that comfort allows for the best teaching and learning. We drive to our students houses to provide lessons and we have teachers homes available if the student wishes to do lessons outside of their home."

On a final note, if you've ever wanted to begin or just brush up on your musical skills, contact Sarah to schedule your first or next music lesson.

WET PAINT

By taking individual parts of a palette, scale, or dictionary, one can transform the ordinary into the extraordinary.

Whether you consider yourself an artist or not, I hope you know that you are still a masterpiece. Yes, you. You have certain artistic skills, dreams, visions that already have and/or will make this world a more beautiful place. Sure, maybe you've been caught in some storms. Maybe you've misplaced a few blobs of paint, or let your paint dry out. Perhaps you've even ruined a few canvases/paintings, or even have a collection of empty canvases waiting for your attention. Regardless of your experiences in life, there are still beautiful things to create, so don't wait.

Make sure your personal palette is filled with motivation and determination. Perhaps the most powerful tools in your artistic arsenal are patience and perseverance. Southern Utah wasn't created in a day, but we can agree it was worth the wait. Start today on creating a more beautiful life with everything you are.

Barbara Ann Eastman Wilkinson Dee

Our loving mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, sister, and friend peacefully returned to our Heavenly Father on June 15, 2021, while surrounded by her loving family. Wilkinson on November 26, 1955. They were the parents of two daughters, Debra Lynn and Janice Kaye. After marriage, when her daughters were young, she worked as a teacher's aide at Scotch School Elementary in Michigan.

Robert's career as a creative art director moved them from Michigan to Chicago, at which time, Barbara worked as a travel agent in downtown Chicago. Barbara's husband's career took them from Chicago to Maryland to Los Angeles to Palm Desert, CA where they owned their own advertising business where Barbara worked alongside him in the business.

After the passing of her husband Robert in 1998, she married Donald Everett Dee in 1999.

She was also artistic and could play the piano by ear. Barbara's interests and hobbies included high fashion, gardening, reading, knitting, sewing and lake activities. One of her greatest loves was her shih tzu, Molly, who she adored.

Barbara is survived by her loving daughters: Debra Lynn Thom and Janice Kaye (Alan) Stewart; sister, Nancy (Malcom) York; sister-in-law, Mary Ellen Kieb; six grandchildren; and eleven great-grandchildren. Barbara is preceded in death by her parents, husbands, and sister, Kathleen Joy Buckner and Ford Buckner.

Mary Kathryn McIntyre

Mary Kathryn made her debut on her father's birthday June 25, 1942, in St George, Utah. She is the daughter of Mary (Andrus) and Reed Leigh. Kathy was an original Dixie Chick. She was the oldest of 3 daughters. After a terrible farming accident involving her grandfather and uncles, her family moved to Cedar to take on the Family Farm. On July 18, 1961, Kathy married the love of her life Gary (Mac) McClain McIntyre. After a couple of failed attempts to elope, the love birds were patient and were sealed in the St. George Temple for time and all eternity. Their first born was David McClain, a year went by and they welcomed Danna Lee. Kathy raised the children while Mac finished school. After 20 years, Megan Kate joined the bunch. By that time, Dave was engaged to marry his wife Jan Clark and Danna was dating her would-be husband, Kendall Webster. Kathy was the biggest cheerleader and supporter to her children as well as the many 'strays' we picked up along the way.

Kathy spent a lot of her time planning events. She was the playwright of the Utah Shakespearean Festival Renaissance Feast. Kathy brought a lot of unique things to Cedar City, including belly dancers and elephants. She has been an active member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, serving in both the Young Women and Relief Society. She considered herself the 'old bag' of the original Southern Utah University Bagpipe Band. Kathy was also the advisor of the SUU Rodeo Team. She was a member of the Daughters of the Utah Pioneers and the Quilters Guild. Kathy measured a good day by how much quilting she had accomplished. She was a huge history buff, and had done her family history with a line that led back to Adam. She loved her family and graciously hosted numerous cousin parties, with elaborate table settings and appropriate holiday decorations, especially for Christmas. Kathy was always on the search for a new recipe, which were usually tried out on her unsuspecting guests.

A grandmother to Heidi Lou (Stoney) Burningham, Kyle (Kenzee) Webster, Lindsay (Brennan) Rowley, Sam (Kelsey) McIntyre, Whitney Webster, Nick (Haley) Webster, Aspen Kate Gower, Stetson Don Gower and Hunter Reed Gower. And on Wednesday, June 23rd from 10-11:30 a.m. at the Cedar 13th Ward Building (725 S 1100 W Cedar City), the funeral followed at noon. She was interred at the Cedar City Cemetery under the direction of Southern Utah Mortuary. Online condolences can be sent at www.sumortuary.com.

The family would like to thank Mac for his unconditional love and care for her. Through the end he never left her side. Also, Dr Bunker and his staff as well as Ethan Bunker with Suntree Home Health and Hospice for the care and love he offered in her final moments with us.

Kenneth "Kennard" Pabo

Kenneth "Kennard" Pabo, so named by his co-pilot while in Vietnam, after the French word for duck (because he could land anywhere) at age 72, died at what he considered as 'Heaven', cutting firewood on Webster Flats on June 11, 2021.

Born 9/10/49 and the eldest of 10, he grew up on Long Island, NY, and worked in many capacities in aviation. Ken was extremely generous with his time, talents, and skills. Whether, he was busy engineering gliders or planes, "grandpa do's", cutting wood, building projects for Fiddler's Canyon Elementary, friends and neighbors, he never stopped doing things for others.

Ken is survived by his wife, Regina, step-daughter and granddaughter Linda and Sammie, many siblings including Linda Burns, nieces and nephews.

by Kyle Birnbrauer

SUU ATHLETICS STRATEGIC COMMUNICATION

Soccer

The soccer team finished their 2021 spring season with an overall record of 5-3-1, giving them the highest winning percentage in program history (.611). They also finished 3-3 in Big Sky play for the highest winning percentage against conference opponents since 2014.

The Thunderbirds led the Big Sky in goals scored with 22 goals in nine games played, averaging 2.44 goals per game. They also led in assists with 16 and total points with 60.

Kate Schirmer was second in the conference in goals (8), points (18), and game-winning goals (2). Rachael Hunt and Kamryn Farro were tied at the top of the Big Sky in assists with three each and were third and fourth respectively in points.

Jennifer Kovisto finished third in the Big Sky in saves per game (5.38) and fourth in save percentage (.827).

The Thunderbirds missed out on making the smaller-than-normal field for the Big Sky Conference Championship Tournament, but ended the season on a four-game winning streak.

Football

The Thunderbird football team finished their shortened spring season with a 1-5 record. Their only win of the season came over Cal Poly when they beat the Mustangs in San Luis Obispo for the first time since 1986. It was also their first road win since the 2017 season.

The T-Birds led the Big Sky in sacks with 18 and in field goals, going 5-for-5 on the season. They also put nine players on the Big Sky All-Conference team with three on the First Team, three on the Second Team, and three Honorable Mentions.

La'akea Kaho'ohanohano-Davis, Francis Bemiy, and Braxton Jones were all named to the First Team on their respective sides of the ball. Kaho'ohanohano-Davis led the conference in sacks (7) and was also second in the conference in total tackles (57) tackles for loss (9). Bemiy was second in the conference in sacks, trailing only Kaho'ohanohano-Davis, with four total sacks and Jones was an essential part of an offensive line that led the Big Sky in fewest sacks allowed, only allowing five all season.

Landen Measom, Treyson Johnson, and Alonzo (L.J.) Davis were all named to the Second Team and Justin Miller, Judd Cockett, and Manny Berz were all named Honorable Mention.

Kaho'ohanohano-Davis earned multiple national postseason recognitions, earning All-American status from Stats Perform, the Associated Press, and Phil Steele while also being nominated for the 2021 Stats Perform Buck Buchanan Award, which is awarded annually to the country's top defensive player.

Jones was named to the Phil Steele FCS First Team All-America and Miller earned the first national honor of his career when he was named to the FCS Sophomore All-America Team by HERO Sports.

The Thunderbirds will open their 2021 Fall Season on August 28th against San Jose State.

Men's Golf

The men's golf team combined for four top-three finishes as a team this season and finished runners-up at the Big Sky Conference Championship. Three Thunderbirds earned All-Conference honors with Jake Vincent being named to the First Team, Ali Hameed being named to the Second Team, and Tyler Jones being named Honorable Mention.

Vincent was also named Big Sky Player of the Year for the second consecutive season and became the only Thunderbird to ever qualify for the NCAA Regional Championship twice when he received an at-large bid to compete as an individual.

Vincent was the top player in the conference all season long, winning three Big Sky Player of the Week awards and was consistently the top-ranked Big Sky player in the national rankings. He also won his fourth career tournament this season, posting a 201 (67, 67, 67) at the Jackrabbit Invitational hosted by South Dakota State at Boulder Creek Golf Club.

The senior wrapped up his career with a 51st place finish at the 2021 Cle Elum Regional.

Women's Golf

The women's golf team had two top-six finishes throughout the season and finished seventh at the Big Sky Conference Championship.

Chanikan (Pluem) Yongyuan earned All-Conference First Team honors for the third consecutive season in her career and at one point in the season was the top ranked golfer in the NCAA. She finished the regular season with the third-lowest

Ladd, Bradford, run past competition at USG 10K

by Tom Zulewski

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Alex Ladd didn't have a senior season for the Canyon View track team in 2020 due to the COVID pandemic. Hoping to be a future walk-on for Southern Utah University, Ladd made a quality impression as the 10K race returned to the Utah Summer Games.

Running on a cool, comfortable morning June 18, Ladd cruised to the finish line first to claim the overall gold medal, covering the 6.2-mile distance through Cedar Canyon to Main Street Park in 33 minutes, 24.6 seconds, more than two and a half minutes ahead of runner-up Tyler LeBaron of Enoch.

Jared Platt finished third, and Kirsten Bradford was only 12 seconds behind in fourth place as the women's overall winner in 38:57.2

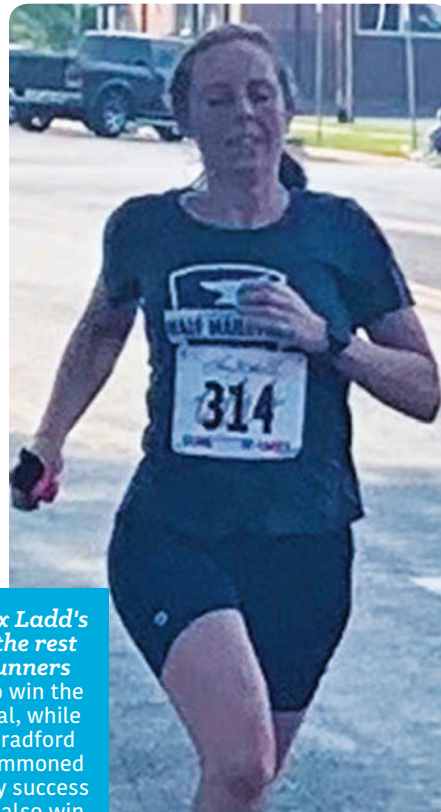

"(The race) went really well, but the downhill is brutal on your quads," Ladd said of the run. "With the sharp downhill, you can't really pick up the pace until the flat."

Ladd started cross country running in sixth grade and came to Cedar City as a student at Canyon View. He had knee surgery before arriving on campus and had to rehab the injury for much of his senior season. His fast cross country time at CV was 16:24, and the pandemic shut down his chance to qualify for state track in his senior season.

"Running on your own can be a little tough. You can push yourself better when you run with others," Ladd said. "I just tried to keep my mileage up and worked on speed about a month before the race."

Bradford, who ran cross country at SUU from 2008-2013, was part of the first Big Sky team for the T-Birds that just missed reaching the NCAA Nationals in her senior season.

"It's good that they started early, and it's a gorgeous trail to run on," Bradford said. "The downhill helped me go faster. I would have reeled in the third-place guy if I had one more mile."

Bradford has raised four boys since graduation, and they had a simple message for her before the race.

"Run fast, Mom," said Bradford, who prepped in high school at Spanish Fork before enrolling at SUU. "I'm still competitive and can run fast."

Bradford's friends at the Cedar City Running Club gave her additional encouragement before the race, but none of it was shareable, as she confirmed with a chuckle.

Kirstin Williams was second overall for the women, and Sara Fish finished third.

single-season stroke average in program history and will head into her senior season at the top of the career leaderboard.

Softball

The Thunderbird softball team finished Big Sky play as the second-best team in the conference with a 10-8 record, the most conference wins since 2017. They entered the Big Sky Conference Championship Tournament as the No. 2 seed and made it all the way to the championship game, where they finished runners-up.

They won 20 games overall for the first time since 2015 while also leading the Big Sky in home runs (60) and runs scored (259). The T-Birds also set a new program record for single-season slugging percentage, slugging .484 as a team.

Brooke Brown was named Big Sky Top Newcomer of the Year and earned All-Conference First Team honors. Brown broke the single-season home run record at Southern Utah by hitting 17 home runs in 2021.

She led the Big Sky in home runs and RBI (53) and was second in slugging percentage (.767).

Josey White and Tyler Denhart also earned All-Conference honors with White being named to the Second Team and Denhart being named Honorable Mention. Denhart was named Big Sky Pitcher of the Week twice throughout the season, becoming the first Thunderbird to ever win the award multiple times in one season.

Kalena Shepherd set two new Southern Utah single-season records herself in both batting average (.433) and slugging percentage (.788).

Denhart, Shepherd, and Reilly Williams all earned Big Sky All-Tournament honors at the conclusion of the tournament.

Women's Track & Field

The women's track and field team finished in sixth place at the Big Sky Conference Outdoor Championship and sent two athletes to the NCAA West Regional Prelims in Alison Pray and Alexis McAllister.

They also captured an Individual Big Sky Championship in the long jump as Elizabeth White won the event at the outdoor championship with a jump of 19' 3.5". White broke the program record in the long jump earlier in the season with a jump of 19' 7" at the UVU Collegiate Invitational.

McAllister took home the silver medal in the women's javelin throw at the championship meet, earning All-Conference honors with a throw of 164' 6". She shattered the program record earlier in the season with a throw of 170' 2" at the UNLV Spring Opener. The senior finished in 13th place at the West Regional, narrowly missing out on a spot at the National Championship.

Pray finished second and earned All-Conference honors in the 1,500m with a time of 4:22.00, the second-fastest in program history. She also set the second-fastest time in program history in the 5,000m at the OSU High Performance Meet with a time of 15:59.63. She qualified for the regional meet in both the 1,500m and the 5,000m, finishing in 29th in the 1,500m and 22nd in the 5K.

Sinclair Watson earned All-Conference honors in both the 100m and the 200m, finishing in third place in both events. She set the second-fastest time in program history in both events, running an 11.81 in the 100m at the BYU Robison Invitational and a 24.19 at the Big Sky Outdoor Championship.

Amy Pouliot earned All-Conference honors in the discus throw, finishing second at the championship with a throw of 160' 10". She set the fourth-best mark in program history with a throw of 161' 4" at the Aggie Invitational.

Haley Tanne set the third-fastest time in program history in the steeplechase at the UNLV Spring Invitational with a time of 10:39.80.

Defense matters at playoff time

RANDOM thoughts

TOM ZULEWSKI
IRON COUNTY TODAY

The Utah Jazz weren't exactly being touted as the next big thing in NBA circles. Sure, they had the league's best record in this shortened 72-game season, but it was a fight to the finish to hold off the Phoenix Suns.

Rudy Gobert was named the Defensive Player of the Year for the third straight time, and the Jazz drew the Memphis Grizzlies first in a year that featured a new playoff format. Instead of the standard 1 vs. 8 in the opening round, the Grizzlies, who were seeded ninth, earned their place at the party by beating San Antonio and Golden State in a play-in mini-tournament.

Memphis won the opener over the Jazz at Vivint, but Utah was able to rebound and win the next four to advance.

But then came the Los Angeles Clippers, a team who will always be in smaller type on any marquee to the Lakers. The Jazz had some challenges in the first two games at home, but left for the Staples Center with a 2-0 series lead.

The Clippers had never been past the second round of the playoffs in its 51-year history. That includes its time in L.A. (37 seasons), San Diego (6) and Buffalo, when it was known as the Braves for its first eight seasons.

Well, there's a first time for everything, and thanks to a fairly epic Game 6 collapse by the Jazz, the Clippers aren't second banana at least for this year in Southern California.

Facing elimination, Utah looked like they were in full survival mode as they enjoyed a 22-point halftime lead. When Donovan Mitchell hit a 3-pointer on the Jazz' first possession of the second half, the lead was 25, 75-50.

By the time the third quarter ended, the Utah lead was just three. When Reggie Jackson hit a layup early in the fourth, the Jazz lead had fully evaporated.

Remember Rudy Gobert? The defensive beast was tamed in Game 6 with 12 points, 10 rebounds and no blocked shots. Gobert had the biggest blocked shot of Game 1 that secured a three-point victory and added 20 rebounds to go with three more blocked shots in a Game 2 win.

But the Clippers are starting to make comebacks a thing. Not only did they rally from two games down to beat the Jazz, they did the same to the Dallas Mavericks after losing the first two at home. For good measure as of this writing, the Clippers are down again after a 120-114 loss to the Phoenix Suns in Game 1 of the Western Conference Final.

Game 2 was set for Tuesday in Phoenix, which is past our press deadline.

As for the Jazz, we're up to 14 years since the team got as far as the third playoff round. You can live by the 3-pointer, but you can also die by it if the defense isn't there to back it up. In Game 6, the Clippers shot 71 percent from the floor in the second half, 74 percent (14-of-19) from 3-point range. They scored 81 total points and won by 12.

And once again, with defense lacking, this generation of Jazz fans will continue to wonder if championship dreams really do come true.

Men's Track & Field

The men's track and field team finished in seventh place at the Big Sky Conference Outdoor Championship and sent eight athletes to the NCAA West Regional Preliminary Round.

Aidan Reed captured the bronze medal in both the 5000m and 10,000m at the Big Sky Outdoor Championship to earn All-Conference honors on both events. He set the third-fastest time in program history in the 10K at the Hayward Premiere with a time of 28:44.68. The senior qualified for regionals in both the 5,000m and the 10,000m where he finished 23rd and 18th respectively.

Chase Clement finished in third place in the javelin throw at the championship to earn All-Conference honors on the event. He set the fifth-highest mark in program history with his throw of 213' 1" and qualified for the regional meet. He finished in 19th place at regionals, narrowly missing a spot at the National Championship.

Jeff Rowley also qualified for the regional prelims in the javelin throw and threw a season best of 209' 0" to finish in 16th place.

Nate Osterstock set a new record in the outdoor mile at the BYU Robison Invitational with an altitude converted time of 3:57.35. This was only the third sub-four minute mile in school history and was also a new record in the 1,500m with a converted time of 3:39.79. He qualified for regionals in both the 1,500m and the 5,000m where he finished in 36th and 26th respectively.

Dallin Snyder took second in the high jump at the Big Sky Championship to earn All-Conference honors on the event. His mark of 6' 10.75" is tied for third-highest in program history and was good enough to send him to regionals where he finished in a tie for 31st place.

Max Spence, Travis Feeny, and Christian Ricketts all also competed at the NCAA Regional Preliminary Round as Spence and Feeny finished in 38th and 43rd respectively in the 1,500m and Ricketts finished in 23rd place in the 10,000m.

As the Thunderbirds gear up for the 2021-22 season, there is a lot to look forward to: titles to defend, goals to achieve, and new heights to reach. It will also be the final season in the Big Sky for Southern Utah as they will transition into the Western Athletic Conference at the start of the 2022-23 season. Once the Thunderbirds transition, the WAC will become a 13-team conference and will look to bring football back with the addition of five teams from the Southland Conference and Southern Utah.

For now however, the Thunderbirds will ride the momentum from a successful 2020-21 season and look to #StormTheSky one last time.
