Pink Tea generates thousands for Kesem campers

by Donna Law

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Colorful hats, dramatic fascinators, and tasty treats, and a short but meaningful program led to the festive success of the 2022 Pink Tea on June 25 in the SUU Ballroom. The event generated more than $14,000 for Camp Kesem, a free week-long overnight summer camp experience for children ages 6-18 who are impacted by a parent's cancer.

"This is our best year yet," reported Cameron Stokes with SUU's Kesem chapter. "These funds will send all of them—76 kids to Camp Kesem in August, with no costs to their families. Thank you for making this possible."

Pink Tea Master of Ceremonies Matt Nickerson guided a rousing live auction which included tickets from the Utah Shakespeare Festival, a colorful quilt donated by Penny Brown, helicopter flights from SUU Aviation, and a two-hour cooking class with Chef Drew from Southwest Tech's notable culinary program. Liz Harris performed a vocal number and Brittany Fails danced for the crowd of more than 120.

A pinnacle moment in the program was when 11 year-old Houston

SUU presidential search narrowed to three finalists

PUBLIC MEETINGS WITH FINALISTS JULY 13; PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENT EXPECTED JULY 15

from David Bishop

SUU DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC RELATIONS

SALT LAKE CITY – After an extensive national search, the Southern Utah University Presidential Search Committee has recommended three finalists to the Utah Board of Higher Education for the position of Southern Utah University President: Mindy Benson; Mablene Krueger; and Alan Utter. Finalists will participate in public forums on the afternoon of Wednesday, July 13, 2022.

“The Southern Utah University Presidential Search Committee is pleased to recommend these three candidates to the Utah Board of Higher Education,” said Nina R. Barnes, search committee co-chair. “Each candidate will have the opportunity to be considered by the Utah Board of Higher Education as the next president of Southern Utah University. Our extensive national search has produced quality professionals, any of whom would be an outstanding choice to lead SUU.”

Rich Christiansen, search committee co-chair and chair of the Southern Utah University Board of Trustees, added, “We recognize it’s been a long year and are grateful to the faculty, staff, students and community for their patience. The Search Committee has done their due diligence, trusting and following the process making certain we had a broad, diverse candidate pool that represented all the various interest groups. Based on their experience and qualifications, we are highly confident in SUU’s future with any of these finalists.”

With the help of a national search firm, WittKieffer, the 21-member search committee spent several months soliciting input through public meetings and reviewing more than 40 applications. The committee invited 12 individuals to participate in in-person interviews and recommended three finalists to the Utah Board of Higher Education. Listed below in alphabetical order:

Mindy Benson

Mindy Benson is the current interim president of Southern Utah University where she prioritizes the needs of faculty, staff, and students, mental health resources, and campus culture. As interim president, Benson has also prioritized strengthening community and university partnerships and led one of the most successful legislative sessions in SUU’s recent history. Prior to her appointment as interim president, Benson served as vice president of Alumni and Community Relations at SUU for eight years. Along with her leadership responsibilities, Benson has taught courses on campus for 14 years.

Benson has played a pivotal role in many community outreach efforts, including expanding workforce development, job creation, economic opportunities, increasing community and alumni engagement, and overseeing major campus and community special events. In addition to her work at SUU, Benson is a professional event consultant and planner throughout the nation, with experience producing hundreds of high-level productions, including concerts, events, political conventions, and gubernatorial and U.S. presidential inaugurations.

Benson is a Cedar City native, with ties to southern Utah and SUU that go back generations. She holds a Bachelor of Science degree in zoology and a Master of Arts degree in professional communication from SUU.

Mablene Krueger

Mablene Krueger currently serves as the vice president of strategic planning and partnerships for Roosevelt University in Chicago, Illinois; she also serves as the chief operating officer for the Schaumburg Campus and is the former president of Robert Morris University Illinois (RMUI). She is a strategic academic leader with a distinguished career in higher education and is especially passionate about the strengths and challenges of first-generation students, having been the first in her family to earn a college degree.

During her time as RMUI’s president, Krueger spearheaded a plan to refocus the University on its core mission and student outcomes. These efforts led to growing programs and degree levels, strengthening services, more tightly aligning programs to career opportunities through experiential learning, and restructuring the institutional discount model to more closely align with the mission. Krueger worked with the Board of Trustees to build and implement multiple strategic plans, the last of which resulted in integrating with the larger neighboring Roosevelt University in March of 2020.

In addition to her associate degree from Robert Morris, Krueger holds a Bachelor of Arts in management and an MBA from the University of Illinois at Springfield, and a certificate in IT systems from the University of Chicago.

Alan Utter

Alan Utter

Alan Utter is currently the provost and executive vice chancellor for academic affairs and research for Arkansas State University. With research and professional associations in the sports medicine field, Utter has led National Institute of Health grant-funded research as well as being a patent holder and co-inventor of a body weight and nutrition monitoring system.

While at Arkansas State University, Utter led an institutional “Program Viability Task Force” to evaluate all 160 academic degree programs to prioritize, transform or grow high-impact academic programs to optimize recruitment, retention, resource allocation and demand. Utter also led a process to create and gain faculty approval of a university-wide holistic admission policy to support the diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives of the university. Utter also hired four college deans and reinstated both the Graduate School and the Office of Institutional Research. He was responsible for developing and overseeing academic planning for the university and its nine colleges. Utter previously served as provost and vice president for academic affairs at Texas Women’s University. He also served as a professor at Appalachian State University.

Utter holds both a doctorate in exercise physiology and a master’s degree in public health in epidemiology from the University of Pittsburgh.

Bryan Gray is a syndicated contributor and not an employee. His opinions are solely his own and not those of the Editor or Iron County Today.

One month before Utah's June Primary Election, an experienced and well-respected rural legislator gave me his description of the current Republican Party. He had just been forced into a costly primary election by a candidate with, as he put it, "no knowledge of how governing happens and no respect for the institutions that make government work."

"I will beat him in my Primary Election," he said, "when the normal, rational Republicans cast their ballot instead of the extremists who control the caucus meetings. In fact, this year could be the best demonstration of how the caucus system is a fraud."

Pretty strong language, but the results statewide gave credence to his views. By and large, "extremist" candidates who did well at the poorly-attended caucus meetings were drubbed at the polls by more mainstream GOP voters. It happened to Gov. Gary Herbert and Sen. Mitt Romney in 2016 and 2018 – and it happened again this year.

The cases are numerous: The well-funded "America First" right-wing candidate Andrew Badger beat Rep. Blake Moore in the caucuses, but easily lost in the Primary. Ditto for fellow-traveler Chris Herrod who received 54% of the caucus convention vote, but less than 30% in the Primary against Rep. John Curtis.

In my own Utah House district, a "Freedom First" candidate outspent a former city representative two-to-one, and yet lost by 22%...In a race between moderate conservative Rep. Ray Ward and ultra-conservative Dr. Lyle Mason – a race that many saw as a toss-up – Ward won 60% of the vote...In my county commission race, conservative upsets were doused. (In one case, a conservative opponent admitted the current commissioner he was running against had "done a great job!")...Despite spending some $100,000 of his own money, an ultra-conservative candidate in Weber County lost by 20% to moderate Utah Sen. Ann Millner...In southern Utah, a candidate who signaled his support for the Jan. 6 assault on the U.S. Capitol was easily beat with barely 30% of the vote...In Utah County, a far-right activist who almost beat an incumbent with caucus delegates despite a charge of forcible sexual abuse, got walloped by 40% in the Primary...In my State School Board race, an ultra-conservative anti-mask candidate outspent her more moderate opponent – and lost by more than 12%.

I-15 bridge slide in Cedar City begins tonight

The Utah Department of Transportation (UDOT) is in the process of rebuilding two bridges on I-15 in Cedar City, Utah. Crews have been working on these bridges since July of 2021.

On July 13, 2022, southbound I-15 will be closed at 9:00 p.m. from Exit 62 to Exit 60 while crews disconnect the center bridge deck, slide it into place as the new southbound bridge deck and reconnect it to the new structure. Southbound traffic will be placed on the newly constructed bridge deck about 6:00 a.m. on July 14.

Study finds intermittent fasting may bring less severe complications from COVID-19

Intermittent fasting has previously shown to have a host of health benefits, including lowering the risk of diabetes and heart disease. Now, researchers from Intermountain Healthcare have found that people who regularly fast are less likely to experience severe complications from COVID-19.

In a new study published this week in BMJ Nutrition, Prevention & Health, Intermountain researchers found that COVID-19 patients who practiced regular water-only intermittent fasting had lower risk of hospitalization or dying due to the virus than patients who did not.

"Intermittent fasting has already shown to lower inflammation and improve cardiovascular health. In this study, we're finding additional benefits when it comes to battling an infection of COVID-19 in patients who have been fasting for decades," said Benjamin Horne, PhD, director of cardiovascular and genetic epidemiology at Intermountain Healthcare.

In the Intermountain study, researchers identified patients enrolled in the INSPIRE registry, a voluntary health registry at Intermountain Healthcare, who had also tested positive for SARS-CoV-2 between March 2020 and February 2021 — before vaccines were widely available.

They identified 205 patients who had tested positive for the virus. Of those, 73 said they regularly fasted at least once a month. Researchers found that those who practiced regular fasting had a lower rate of hospitalization or death due to coronavirus.

"Intermittent fasting was not associated with whether or not someone tested positive COVID-19, but it was associated with lower severity once patients had tested positive for it," Dr. Horne said.

In the Intermountain study, participants who said they regularly fasted did so for an average of more than 40 years. Intermountain researchers had the opportunity to closely study this specific cohort of long-time intermittent fasters because a large portion of its patients fast regularly for religious reasons.

Nearly 62 percent of Utah's population belongs to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, whose members typically fast the first Sunday of the month by going without food or drink for two consecutive meals.

While Dr. Horne said that more research is needed to understand why intermittent fasting is associated with better COVID-19 outcomes, he said it's most likely due to a host of ways that it affects the body.

For example, fasting reduces inflammation, especially since hyperinflammation is associated with poor COVID-19 outcomes. In addition, after 12 to 14 hours of fasting, the body switches from using glucose in the blood to ketones, including linoleic acid.

"There's a pocket on the surface of SARS-CoV-2 that linoleic acid fits into — and can make the virus less able to attach to other cells," he said.

Another potential benefit is that intermittent fasting promotes autophagy, which is "the body's recycling system that helps your body destroy and recycle damaged and infected cells," Dr. Horne added.

Dr. Horne stressed that these results are from people who have been practicing intermittent fasting for decades — not weeks — and that anyone who wants to consider the practice should consult their doctors first, especially if they are elderly, pregnant, or have conditions like diabetes, heart, or kidney disease.

Researchers also stressed intermittent fasting shouldn't be seen as a substitute for COVID vaccination.

"It should be further evaluated for potential short and long-term preventative or therapeutic use as a complementary approach to vaccines and anti-viral therapies for reducing COVID-19 severity," Dr. Horne said.

This planning process is an opportunity to shape decisions regarding Utah's rural transportation system needs for the next 25 to 30 years. Throughout the development of this plan, a variety of rural state roads in need of transportation improvements have been identified, and the public is invited to share their ideas to solve these needs. Some ideas may include adding travel or passing lanes, improving inter-sections, adding bike lanes or sidewalks, providing transit service, increasing signage, extending paved trails and more.

"This rural Long Range Transportation Plan process is essential in developing projects and other solutions for 25 years or more into the future. UDOT is committed to providing meaningful public engagement opportunities to ensure the best outcome for all Utahns," said Jay Aguilar, UDOT long-range planning manager. "While comments on the goals, needs and ideas are most helpful by August 5, the public is encouraged to provide input at any time throughout the process."

The public is encouraged to visit the project website at publicinput.com/udotplanning to share comments in the following ways:

1. Provide ideas on the comment map. The map details state roads that are in need of transportation improvements and the planning team is interested in specific ideas of how to solve these needs.
2. Respond to a quick survey about the planning goals.
3. The public may also email the project team at planning@utah.gov or call the project hotline at 385-360-1900.

MAYOR'S MINUTE

As a Mayor in a smaller community in Utah, I am closely associated with many people from dynamically different places. I meet neighbors who are from all over the nation who left areas with many challenges. I also meet many who have been born and raised in our local communities and we discuss the problems with others moving here. One of the most common conversations is regarding the “way of life” and “rural feel” that all want to maintain. As I have thought about this desire that we all have, I wonder how to define those desires and expectations. My conclusion that everyone has their own vision of what “rural feel” means.

To someone moving from a place of high population, this is still a rural area. To someone who was born and raised in our communities, the increase of people takes away what they felt is “rural”. These viewpoints can create an environment of fear and conflict.

However, as I have worked with people on an individual basis, I have found that the “rural” in a community is not just influenced by population counts, density, or even the quantity of cars on the roads. I have discovered that a “rural” feel is mostly about how we treat our neighbors. For example, a neighbor helping clean a weedy yard, a well-attended fundraiser for an unfortunate family, or the group of teenagers beautifying a city park, and even a kind wave from passersby on the streets.

There are people coming to our area for many personal reasons and those who have built the foundation of our community have created an atmosphere of kindness and service. I believe the responsibility we share is to strive to be the kind of people who work together and continue that legacy.

We can stop for a few minutes in our busy schedules to pull a weed, share a smile, donate a dollar, and be grateful for what we do have here; peace, safety, and each other.

Thank you,

Geoffrey L. Chesnut, Enoch City Mayor

IRON COUNTY WATER STEWARDS

from Ashley Langston

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Get to Know Your H2O: Central Iron County Water Conservancy District appreciates questions submitted by community members about the Pine Valley Water Supply Project and other local water needs. For reliable information on the Pine Valley Water Supply Project specifically and the Cedar Valley's water situation in general, please visit www.cicwcd.org.

This week's question from the community is answered by the Central Iron County Water Conservancy District using information from Clemont Adams' book "A History of Water in Iron County."

Question: Does the Cedar Valley have any historical precedent for conservation during water shortages?

Ever since Cedar City was founded, ensuring area residents have been supplied with enough water has been a major challenge for city and county leaders.

A 1934 report by a Utah State University Extension Agent stated, "The most serious limiting factor in Iron County's progress and prosperity is water."

Cedar City was settled in 1851. The first city water system was agreed upon during a 1902 election, and was installed using only water from Coal Creek. Within six years, water was being piped from springs, and just 11 years after that, in 1919, a "lawn sprinkling" water restriction was adopted. In 1924 water meters were installed to create some accountability for those suspected of overuse.

By 1934, drought was affecting the community and the state's Drought Relief Committee drilled six large irrigation wells in the Cedar Valley. The Cedar Valley was no longer limited to surface water and spring water use, making life easier, but many were concerned about an already-declining underground aquifer.

In 1952 water rates were increased, with water use above 30,000 gallons costing more. The per-capita use that year was just more than 222 gallons per day. Per-capita use has fluctuated throughout the years, sometimes increasing above 240 gallons per person per day. However, the 2019 numbers were 223 gallons per person per day, earning Iron County a top-four ranking for low water use among the 29 counties in the state. Officials hope to reduce that further through education, tiered water rates, and other conservation programs.

A portion of the 1959 Cedar City Water Report read, "It is generally recognized that the lifeblood of a community is a good, safe and adequate water supply. For a growing city in a very dry region it becomes even more important. The year 1959 proved to be one of the driest years ever experienced in this area and the problem of supplying water became one of real concern to City officials."

The western U.S. is currently experiencing the worst drought in more than 1,200 years. From the 1950s to the present day securing and supplying water from new sources has been a high priority for area officials, and several possibilities have been examined. Currently the Central Iron County Water Conservancy District is working on a project to utilize water from the Pine Valley, northwest of the Cedar Valley. Those working on the project are acutely aware that the Pine Valley Water Supply Project is just part of Iron County's water solutions. Aquifer recharge projects and conservation are also crucial.

One county commissioner bluntly stated that the caucus system has increasingly been "hijacked by the far right." A similar statement came from long-time Republican strategist Stuart Stevens who explained his view in a New Yorker Magazine piece: As their reliable cadre of white voters shrank, Republicans realized they could either try to attract more minorities or more easily try to motivate white voters by tapping into their racial insecurities. The GOP, he said, "has become the white-grievance party."

But Republican voters in Utah halted that bandwagon last month, electing more moderate, traditionally conservative men and women. My rural friend was correct in his prediction. When it comes to what most Utahns believe, the caucus system is indeed broken. It represents the fringe and the bellicose; it doesn't represent Utah voters.

Festival
Education
Director
Michael Bahr
announces retirement

by Liz Armstrong

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

After more than twenty-three years with the Utah Shakespeare Festival, Education Director Michael Bahr has announced his retirement, effective July 31. Beginning July 1, Bahr started the next act in his life as the director/principal at Gateway Preparatory Academy in Enoch, Utah.

“I am so happy to see Michael step into this exciting new chapter of his life after his amazing and transformative years at the Festival,” said Executive Producer Frank Mack. “Michael has led the education department brilliantly. His innovative curricula and devoted teaching has changed the lives of countless students, while the insights he has shared with our audience members in the Seminar Grove has deepened their experience at the Festival.”

For the next few weeks, Bahr will stay tied to the Festival, continuing his work until July 31 as he assists the education department during this transitional period. He will also be visible at the Festival in the future conducting seminars and orientations, while his wife, Kris Bahr, assistant guest services manager and volunteer coordinator, continues as a full-time member of the Festival staff.

Called “Peter Pan, the Pied Piper and the Energizer Bunny, all rolled into one,” Bahr has served as the education director for over two decades.

In making the announcement, Bahr made it clear that, although he wasn’t looking for a new position, he is “excited for the challenge that waits at Gateway.”

“I am filled with a sentimental, melancholic sadness upon leaving this position,” Bahr said. “But I am also filled with joy because of what lies ahead for the Festival.”

Bahr was hired in December 1998 as the education director when he joked he was “dragged kicking and screaming out of the classroom.” He noted that “when Festival Founder Fred C. Adams first made the job offer to me back then, Adams said ‘I need someone who speaks the language of teachers, professional theatre and actors, and students.’”

Bahr spoke those three languages and was hired, but his journey with the Festival began years before this.

“In 1982, I acted in the Shakespeare Competition and was awarded a scholarship to Southern Utah University, which was then Southern Utah State College,” Bahr said. During his time as an undergraduate, Bahr worked at the box office in the Festival. After graduating, he took a job as a teacher in Bakersfield, California, and brought his students back to Cedar City to participate in the Shakespeare Competition. He then moved to northern Utah for another teaching job and continued to bring his students to the competition.

As Education Director, Bahr was able to spend time teaching at Cedar City and Canyon View High Schools and as an adjunct professor for theater methods at SUU beginning in 2001.

He has built an incredible legacy in his time at the Festival, implementing monumental changes that have made theatre more accessible to students and teachers. During this time, he solidified summer programs and dramatically amplified the Shakespeare Competition which grew from 45 to over 120 schools.

Bahr collaboratively created Bard’s Birthday Bash, Playmakers, the Wooden O Symposium, and Shakespeare-in-the-Schools—which consists of an annual touring production for over 20,000 students across the Intermountain West.

“The play—that is central to everything we do. I hope to have left a legacy of access and engagement to plays,” Bahr said. “My legacy is the acknowledgment of the power of the dream and the power in the play to cultivate civil discourse and education.”

“I am filled with a sentimental, melancholic sadness upon leaving this position. But I am also filled with joy because of what lies ahead for the Festival.”

Reading, writing and giving away money!

by Mary Anne Andersen

CEDAR CITY ARTS COUNCIL

The other members of the Cedar City Arts Council Board often tease me about how happy I am with my board assignments. Well, not tease me, exactly, but comment on how much I enjoy the things I do. I am often quite outspoken—read “talkative”—about the fun I have on the Council. For example, I enjoy writing these columns. Once I have gotten over the hurdle of deciding on a topic, the words come tumbling out as I start typing, and I am a fast typist! I love it when people I meet tell me they enjoy and learn a lot from reading this space. And leading the Literary Group with other readers who have become good friends as we talk about some great books every other month—what’s not to love?!

Of course, my favorite assignment is heading up the Council’s Mini-Grant Program. When the applications for the grants start coming in every six months, I am always excited at the prospect of helping fellow Iron County artists of all kinds receive an award that will further their artistic dreams. And then the big pay-off comes when we present some of the grant recipients at our quarterly Arts Council Socials, giving all of you a chance to meet some of your artistic neighbors.

The next chance for such a meeting is on Wednesday, July 20th, at the Park Place Eatery on the important corner of Main and Center Street at 7:00 in the evening. Three presenters will display their art for all of us to see at that time. Rheana Gardner-Reeves is an associate professor of photography at SUU, specializing in and developing alternative photographic processes. In an innovative photographic process, images are developed on natural leaves through the action of photosynthesis and then preserved in resin to be available for future scientific studies. Her photographic art has been showcased in the Greater Taipei Biennial of Contemporary Art, the Borges Cultural Center in Buenos Aires, and in Budapest, Hungary, and Rome, Italy. When I mentioned her name to someone, the response was “She is a big deal.” Apparently, she will be displaying and describing her work for us that night.

Elynn Rock is an up-and-coming young violinist from Cedar City who has just finished a workshop in Salt Lake City where she rubbed shoulders with famous teachers and mentors. She was patient while COVID delayed her use of her mini-grant for two years but she was finally able to attend this prestigious workshop in June. She and her cellist mother will perform that night.

And Christy Johnson has organized a dance program for dads and daughters that will culminate in a family party at the end of the summer, I believe. She will bring some dancers and maybe some music so we can try some hoofing ourselves.

Roice Nelson will introduce us to the new Southwestern Heritage Center. (I don’t know, either. We’ll find out.)

The Social will serve refreshments and it is free, of course.

Popular actor returns to play Maria in Festival's 'Sound of Music'

by Liz Armstrong

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

The vibrant and talented Daria Pilar Redus has returned this season to the Utah Shakespeare Festival to take on the role of Maria in The Sound of Music. This is her third season at the Festival, having played Sarah in Ragtime and Kate in The Pirates of Penzance last season could be topped—and then they announced The Sound of Music.”

Redus received a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in acting from Otterbein University in 2018. Originally from Cleveland, Ohio, the actress now calls New York City home. Redus recently played Sandy Cheeks in the national tour of The SpongeBob Musical.

And now she has returned to the feels even more fitting for her because of the love she has for the character of Maria. Redus fondly recalls nights as a child, a bowl of popcorn in her lap on the floor, watching The Sound of Music with her family.

“It’s exciting to play a famous role . . . because [the audience already] knows and loves the show and character,” Redus said. “So now all I have to do is stay true to it and bring myself.”

Some might find playing such a famous role, one that most associate with Julie Andrews, as intimidating.

But for Redus, it’s simply inspiring.

“I’ve always loved the way [Julie Andrews] plays Maria, so I’m not going to fully abandon it,” Redus said. “But there are so many things about me that I think will make me interesting to watch.”

Redus pointed out that every great role had to be originated by someone. Andrews may have made the role of Maria famous, but there is a reason The Sound of Music continues to be performed. “It takes one person to make a role famous, but it takes so many different, dynamic actors to keep a show around,” Redus said. “Yes, we know and we love Julie Andrews, but that’s not the only way to play Maria.”

As an individual, Redus describes herself as goofy, funny, and silly, and although these are parts of her she sometimes feels the need to “tame,” Redus plans to bring these aspects of her into the role of Maria with full force.

“Something I love about Maria is that she is apologetic—because she’s human—but also unapologetically herself,” Redus said. “I feel like playing this role, I’ll be able to be unapologetically myself onstage, with humor, with personality, with sensitivity.”

Redus believes there is a reason people are drawn to Maria. She is “authentically human, and loving, and caring and flawed.”

“It’s beautiful how Maria is navigating through life. She is truly in the pursuit of happiness,” Redus said.

Last season, Redus’ goal was to bring humanity into Sarah in Ragtime. Although the roles of Sarah and Maria are extremely different, especially in how as well as performing in Big River in 2018.

For Redus, playing Maria is an opportunity to play “the most fun and classic role” she could imagine.

“After last summer playing Sarah in Ragtime, I didn’t think anything could top that overall experience,” Redus said. “The character, how fulfilling it was as an actor, how much it meant to me, I didn’t think that that Festival! Redus is thrilled to be back in Cedar City, surrounded by the red rock and mountains she adores so much. “To be in a production where I am celebrating the magic of the mountains, and the freedom and beauty is so incredible—it feels so full circle,” Redus said. “Because I have been talking about these gosh-darn mountains since I got here!”

“emotionally demanding” they are, Redus still draws similarities between the two. “It’s similar with Maria. I don’t want anyone to leave that theatre thinking that there was anything wrong with her or that she was a problem that needed solving—or question the captain’s choice in choosing her,” Redus said. “It’s important to bring humanity and truth to these characters.”

The Sound of Music is a beloved and well-known musical, and Redus encourages audience members—even though they’ve probably already seen it—to come to this production and be refreshed.

“The power of music is so strong. It’s unifying, and life altering,” Redus points out. “It’s music that brings happiness and joy and childhood back into the von Trapp children and into the captain. It’s music that gives Maria the freedom to explore what she wants to do with her life.”

To Redus, the musical

Daria Pilar Redus as Maria Rainer in the Utah Shakespeare Festival’s 2022 production of The Sound of Music.

reminds us of the importance of family, love, friends, and of going after what you want, while acknowledging the beauty in our differences and ideas. “There’s this layer to the show of, ‘Why does Captain von Trapp want Maria? She’s a [governess],’”

Redus said. “And there’s also this layer in our production that I’m a black woman, and that’s something we don’t shy away from.”

Ultimately, the actress hopes audience members watch the show and take a step back to celebrate the fact that, “We are all individuals in the pursuit of happiness.”

“And if we find that happiness we should be given full permission to chase that, especially if it’s out of joy and love,” Redus said. “I hope people leave the show with compassion in their hearts.”

25TH JULY JAMBOREE CAR SHOW HELD IN CEDAR CITY

by Brooke Twitchell

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

On Saturday, July 9th, 2022, Cedar City's largest single summer event gathered nearly 15,000 residents, visitors, and tourists to the 25th Annual July Jamboree, organized by the Cedar City Rotary Club.

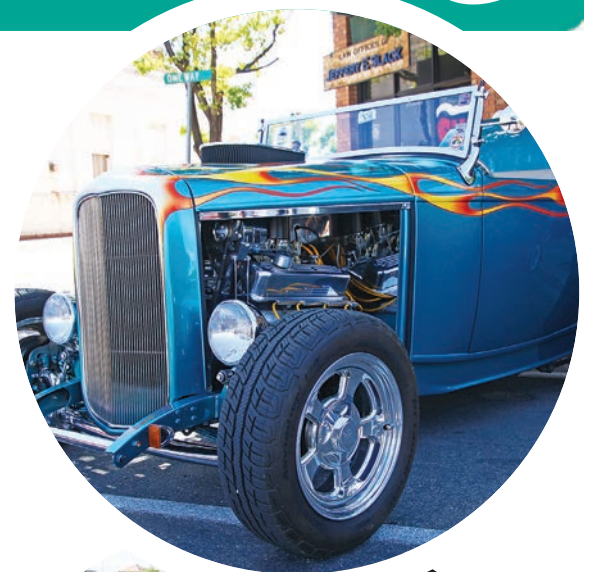

Downtown Cedar City was filled with classic cars, motorcycles and semi-trucks, vendor booths, live local bands, a food court, a beer and wine garden from 4:00 to 10:00 p.m. A fun night was had by all with a plethora of sights, smells, tastes, and sounds lining the streets. "We kicked off the festivities this year with a free registration party the evening before at Tink's, a signature sponsor for the July Jamboree," said David Westwood, Cedar City Rotarian and event chair. "Everything went up from there. All in all, this was the best Jamboree yet!"

Sue Longson, Cedar City Rotarian and planning committee member agreed with Westwood stating, "With this being the 25th year, it is our largest fundraiser and loved by all who attend! I look forward to this event every year and this year was one for the books."

The Jamboree is organized by the Cedar City Rotary Club with help from sponsors and volunteers from across the community. Signature sponsors include Tink's Auto Parts, Cherry Creek Media, Storage General, Cedar City Motor Company, Iron Springs Resort, Southern Utah University, and Iron County Today. It takes hundreds of volunteers and around 4,000 volunteer hours to make the event happen.

Funds raised from the Jamboree, as well as the Cedar City Rotary Club's other events, support projects and organizations that include the Veterans Memorial Park, Iron County Care and Share, Canyon Creek Services, Cedar City Music Arts, the Happy Factory, Little League Baseball, the Southwest Livestock Show, the SUU Childcare Center, and scholarships for both SUU and Southwest Tech students, to name a few.

Rotary brings together a global network of volunteer leaders dedicated to tackling the world's most pressing humanitarian challenges. They connect 1.4 million members from more than 35,000 Rotary clubs in almost every country in the world. Together, they work together to promote peace, fight disease, and to provide clean water, sanitation and hygiene. They also work to support education and grow local economies. For more information on becoming a member of the Cedar City Rotary Club, email Christy Hugh at cedarcityrotaryclub@gmail.com.

The only thing hotter than the hot rods at this year's July Jamboree was the weather. Thankfully, several vendors passed out free ice-cold water to weary walkers. With all makes and models of vehicles, this year's Jamboree was jam-packed and provided a great afternoon for a stroll down Cedar City's Main Street and through the history of the automobile. Add to that live music and plenty of food and fun at the Main Street Park and this year's Jamboree was a revved-up success!

BECOMING MY BEST SELF

“Holy cow did you see that (pause and gesture to listening kids) one scene last night where they used a 'you know what' to break 'that one thing' and then the cops showed up and caught them doing that crazy sh--stuff?”

We've all been there. Trying to have an adult conversation while the kids are milling around, subconsciously trying to catch you saying something that you have told them should never be said.

“You're not supposed to say 'stupid,’” is one of the most common phrases my husband and I hear from our kids. We have to get creative while talking in front of them, which is 98 percent of the time, and I'm not 100 percent perfect at keeping things G-rated!

One of my worst fears when sending my oldest to grade school was that he would repeat something and say he learned it from his mom!

Now that they are getting a little older we are having to censor our music selection as well as our conversation. Our six and four-year-old are picking up on lyrics that have more words than just “We will, we will, rock you” and I'm not about to interpret the majority of phrases for them.

mom's CORNER(ED)

After putting the kids down for the night we enjoy watching something a little more stimulating than Paw Patrol. Depending on the amount of adult content in any given show, I find myself nervously watching the kids' bedroom door to make sure they don't walk out and hear or see what mom and dad are watching.

I consider my husband and I to be generally good people, but in comparison to the innocence we have brought into this world I find myself lacking. I have realized that while inexperienced and naive, my kids are teaching me what it means to be a better person.

In my efforts to censor my conversations and entertainment that are too mature for their little ears and eyes, I am learning that the same content isn't all that beneficial for me.

While doing my best to raise respectful and responsible individuals, I am becoming a more respectful and responsible person.

The bottom line is that being a mom has turned me into the best version of myself and I thank my kids for that!

So, next time you feel frustration over missing out on Law and Order, consider a family friendly alternative that can become a memory-making tradition.

Have you ever thought of life being like a crossword puzzle? We wake up each morning to a new puzzle consisting of clues and problems that we try our best to solve before bedtime. Every day we are given questions to answer and quests to accomplish. Somedays our life's puzzles and clues are easier to solve, but we've all experienced those days when the clues are much more difficult to decipher.

The first crossword was published on the 'Fun' page of The New York World on December 21, 1913. It was invented by British journalist Arthur Wynne. Crosswords became more popular when Simon and Schuster began printing their annual book of crossword puzzles in 1924. In today's word world, including your Iron County Today, almost 100% of newspapers have crossword puzzles with nearly 30% of people attempting to solve them. I wonder what percentage of people attempt to solve vs. escape their life problems each day?

I understand both scenarios. Some days are just tougher and we don't have the brain power, let alone will power to power through. And yet, the answers will come through experience and exploration. Yes, some may also require emotional excavation, but thankfully (and hopefully), we're not alone in our quests to answer life's questions. We can often get help from family, friends, even the Internet (on the rut

LESS TRAVELED

Corey Baumgartner

trusted websites of course). With all our combined experiences, surely someone has the answer and is willing to share with us.

So, whether you're a cruciverbalist, or think crosswords improve brain function and even improve vocabulary—though sometimes crosswords can lead to improving one's cross words! As for crossword puzzles being good for memory loss? I can't remember. Still, focusing the mind on something else can provide an escape from reality even for only a moment. But for those of us who have ever been stuck on a particular clue, relaxation is rarely realistic.

Nevertheless, some of us grin with delight each day with our new grids of life. Others grimace with grudges at a new set of problems that they're sure can't be solved in a day. These are the moments when you can throw the day away, or go with what you know; trusting that as you solve the DOWN words, you may reveal (at least partially) the answers to the missing ACROSS words and vice-versa.

This week, whatever quests and questions you are called upon to answer and solve, begin wherever you're at with whatever you know. Seek answers from trusted sources and whenever you get stuck in a rut, move confidently on to the next clue and come back later with a refreshed perspective. While you're filling in the blank spaces and answering life's quests and questions, don't forget to take a break from solving and start also enjoying the journey of your life.

Marilyn Arns Burgoyne

Our beloved mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother, Marilyn Arns Burgoyne, passed away Sunday morning, June 19, 2022, in Cedar City, Utah, surrounded by family and friends after a 20-month struggle with cancer.

Marilyn was born in Cedar City, Utah, on July 21, 1932 at the old Cedar City hospital to Howard Logan and Agnes Thompson Arns. She graduated from Cedar High School and earned an associate's degree from the Branch Agricultural College and a bachelor's degree from the Utah State Agricultural College. She taught 2nd grade for the Granite School District in Salt Lake City for several years.

A nature enthusiast, she worked at Grand Canyon National Park, Yellowstone National Park, and Zion National Park in the summers.

On June 12, 1956, Marilyn married Paul Christiansen Burgoyne in the St. George Temple. The young couple then moved to Fort Ord, California, where Paul was stationed with the United States Army. They were deployed to Germany for 16 months where Marilyn was busy with church work in a small branch of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and substitute taught at a school on the army base.

After returning from Germany, the couple settled in Salt Lake City, started a family, and would raise three children, Paula, Jim, and Christian. Later, the family moved to South Dakota where Paul completed his master's degree at the University of South Dakota. When Paul secured a teaching position at the College of Southern Utah, the couple made Cedar City their home, which was a real homecoming for Marilyn.

For Marilyn, family always came first. No matter the time, the event, or the location, she was there to support her husband, children, grandchildren, neighbors, and friends. It did not matter what it was: school, sports, or work. Church held a special place in her heart and life. She served in many capacities, including scout leader, primary teacher, counselor, Relief Society teacher and president. She was a very loyal, faithful, devoted wife and companion and a very loving, caring and responsible mother and friend.

Marilyn served two missions for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. From 1996-1997, she and Paul served in the Stockholm Sweden Temple. In April 2015, the couple was called to serve in the Nauvoo Illinois Temple, but Paul passed away before they could report to the mission. Later, Marilyn bravely opted to take up the call and served in Nauvoo from July 2016-July 2017. During this mission, she met many dear friends who stayed in contact with her until her passing.

Marilyn had a childlike curiosity, with an insatiable desire to learn. She was an avid reader, a consistent journaler, and a foodie. She and Paul traveled extensively in the United States and visited several countries, including Australia, Canada, New Zealand, Mexico, Denmark, Finland, France, Russia, Israel, and Iceland. They also lived in Germany, Norway, and Sweden.

We will miss our mother immensely, but we know she is having a grand reunion with our father and many other relatives and friends.

Marilyn is survived by a daughter Paula Burgoyne Jenson of Cedar City, Utah (Steve), son James Howard Burgoyne of Lake Wales, Florida (Rita), son Christian Burgoyne of Colorado, and adopted son Mvemba Phezo Dizolele of Washington, DC (Kunda), 13 grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren, and brother Alan Lee Arns of West Valley City, Utah (Shirlean), and many more family members and friends that she dearly loved. She was preceded in death by her husband Paul, brother-in-law John, brother-in-law Mark, nephew Dix, and her parents Howard and Agnes Arns.

The family would like to thank Sun Tree Home Health and Hospice, especially Ethan Bunker, Janelle, and Hannah. We would also like to thank all of the East Bench Ward members and friends who have supported and helped us along this journey. We are most grateful to Charlet Cunningham who was Marilyn's companion (and earthly angel) through the ups and downs of her struggles from chemotherapy up to her last moment of life here on earth.

Funeral service will be held Saturday, June 25, at 11:00 am at the Cedar Stake Center, 155 East 400 South, Cedar City, Utah, with a viewing from 9:00-10:30 am prior to the service. Visitation will be held Friday, June 24, from 6-8 pm at the Cedar Stake Center. Funeral viewing and online condolences can be found at www.mortuary.org.

David Jay Boudreau

David Jay Boudreau, 67, passed away June 7, 2022, at his home in Cedar City, Utah. He was born on October 12, 1954, in La Jolla, California to Frances Louise Lingen and Duane Andrew Boudreau. He grew up in Lakewood, California and graduated from Lakewood High in 1972.

After high school, he went into his profession in the oil industry. His first employment was with Goetex/Gearhart. He met his wife Darlene and they were married in 1984, while employed at Production Logging Services until they both retired in 2014.

He is survived by his wife, Darlene, of Cedar City, UT and their three children: James (Michelle) Bean of La Mirada, CA. They were blessed with three children: James III, David, and Charles. Kessie (James) Jimenez of Cedar City, UT. They were blessed with three children: Isaac, Kaci and Reese. Anna (Steve) Dorneman of Murrieta, CA. They were blessed with three children: Steven, Owen and Andy Darlene. His mother, Fran Boudreau, of Long Beach, CA. His brother Doug (Dayna) Boudreau and his nephew, Andrew, of Whittier, CA. His sister's Vickie (David) Desler and his nieces, Taylor and Madison, of Lakewood, CA and Debbie Boudreau of Long Beach, CA.

He is preceded in death by his father, Duane Boudreau and his brother, Terry Boudreau.

A funeral service was held on Thursday, June 30, 2022, at 11:00 am at the Southern Utah Mortuary located at 190 North 300 West, Cedar City, Utah 84720. Arrangements are under the direction of Southern Utah Mortuary. Online Condolences can be sent to www.mortuary.org.

Juaneta Stapley Jones

Our loving wife, mother, grandmother, sister, aunt and friend, Juaneta Stapley Jones passed away on June 27, 2022, at her home in Cedar City, Utah. She was born on April 5, 1940, in Toquerville, Utah to Woodrow and Neta Smith Stapley. She was sealed to Ronald Jones on July 11, 1959, in the St. George Temple.

Juaneta worked at Cedar Middle School as a lunch lady. She enjoyed crafting, sewing, cooking, making candy and loved having her family around, especially her grandchildren! She was an avid sports fan, watching her kids and grandkids play ball. You could say that she was their greatest cheerleader.

Juaneta is survived by her husband Ronald of Cedar City, Utah. Her children Dallas (Bonnie) Jones of Cedar City, Utah, Craig (Carol) Jones of Centerville, Utah and Curtis (Nicole) Jones of Cedar City, Utah. Her brother Darwin (Joyce) Stapley of West Jordan, Utah and brother-in-law's Jim Kemple of St. George, Utah, Len Dziurman of St. George, Utah Along with 14 wonderful grandchildren and 4 great-great grandchildren.

She is preceded in death by her parents Woodrow and Neta Stapley, her son Michael and her sisters Carol and Ellen.

Graveside services were held on Friday, July 1, 2022, at 11:00 am at the Cedar City Cemetery. A viewing was held prior on Friday, July 1, 2022, from 9:30-10:30 am at the Mesa Hills Ward Church located on 1928 W. 320 S., Cedar City, UT. Arrangements are under the direction of Southern Utah Mortuary. Online condolences can be made at mortuary.org.

Jose Fancisco Mazun

Jose Fancisco Mazun, age 40, unexpectedly passed away on Tuesday July 5, 2022 at his home in Cedar City, Utah.

Francisco was born on October 6, 1981, in Cenotillo, Yucatan Mexico to Francisco Damaso and Marta Dzib Mazun. He was the youngest of 5 brothers. Francisco grew up in Mexico and later moved with his brothers to Denver, Colorado.

Francisco returned to Mexico on vacation to visit his parents and while there met and fell in love with Nancy Camara who was also there on vacation visiting her parents. Come to find out they grew up in the same town. They both returned to the United States, Nancy to Cedar City and Francisco to Colorado. After many conversations on the phone they have now been married for 18 years. Together they had 3 children, Kristopher, Stephanie and Kaden.

Francisco loved his family, they are the light of his life. He was a wonderful father and husband.

His passion was cooking. He had a great talent for it and provided many wonderful meals for his family and community. He will be missed immensely; he brought joy into our lives.

Francisco is survived by his wife Nancy, their 3 children, both parents and his 5 brothers.

Funeral Mass was held on Saturday July 9, 2022, at 2:00pm at Christ the King Catholic Church in Cedar City, Utah. A viewing was held at the same location at 1:00pm just prior to services.

Condolences can be sent to the family through affordablefuneralservices.com.

"HIS HAND IN MINE"

"These poems capture who I am. They are written with a prayerful hand, and are inspired from above. It is my hope that all who read them will be edified, find comfort, and feel God's love."

— L. Brent Jones

Common Sense

by L. Brent Jones

What is it that we've really lost,
When we lose our common sense?
We've lost the tool He gave to us,
To keep us off the fence.

For it's built into our characters,
And helps us recognize the truth.
It is fueled by our reasoning,
And we've had it since our youth.

With it things make sense to us,
Because logic is our key.
We cannot be swayed by popularity,
When deceit is what we see.

It will always lead us to the light,
And keep our heads on straight.
We'll then accomplish miracles,
If on it we will wait.

For it takes time for us to calculate
The course that we should go.
It will ratify our decisions,
With all the truths we know.

We measure it with our feelings,
And our clarity of mind.
Along with the fusion of His spirit,
The right way we will find.

I fear it is going by the wayside,
As we follow ever trend.
When the opinions of the masses
Seem like they will never end.

As generations come and go,
They forget what made us great.
Those lessons we learned from the past,
They discard and antiqueate.

We cannot let it slip away.
With common sense we must stand tall,
And fight for truth and the right way,
No matter what the call.

For right ignites our reasoning,
And by common sense is fueled.
Then the fire of His Spirit
Allows our actions to be rueled.

"Yes He Does" (Stars Go Dim)

In today's world it can be easy to become distracted by all the difficulties and detours, to lose track of time and get off track. Spiritually speaking, if we're not careful and prayerful those distractions not only lead to destructions, but distance us from God. As the distance increases—one step, thought, decision at a time—so too does our dissonance and disbelief increase.

The journey of life isn't over because we find ourselves off course. The key is that like a vigilant sailor battling the winds and the waves, who realizes they are off course, makes the necessary corrections as quickly as possible and keeps sailing forward.

As sailors, we all have thoughts that go astray, take wrong turns, and get turned around by missteps and mistakes. And when we lose sight of the guiding and guarding Lighthouse and the safety of the shore, we're sure that God has lost sight of us. We're certain that because the challenges of life have changed us, that they must have also changed God's love and mercy (Romans 8:31-39).

When we are deceived into believing that we've drifted too far off course to find our way back, or deliberately defied God so many times that we're certain He wouldn't want us back anyway, we not only lose our way, but forget and/or forsake that there is always a Way back (John 14:6).

and does care more than we know (Ephesians 3:19-21).

And when He's not on board, He is going before us, preparing the way and daring our hearts to follow Him. Even in the midst of our storms He is reaching out to us and reminding us to be still and still believe that He will get us through the storms if we focus more faithfully on Him, not the wind and the waves (Matthew 14:22-33).

Still, being still can seem difficult when all around us is in chaos with the devil roaming like a lion searching for prey (1 Peter 5:8). That is why it's crucial that in every crucible we focus on Jesus (Hebrews 12:2). Not only with our eyes, but our hearts—our desires. Whether during doldrums, calm seas or storms, it's imperative, not impossible, to stay close to the Savior (Luke 10:27). He will help us stay focused and pressing forward. He will help us stay on the straight and narrow and not be deceived by the world's wide gates (Matthew 7:13-14).

This week, when you're feeling weak, when the storms are raging, look to God and live. He is with you, not through with you. He still believes in and loves you. Yes He does!

"He is reaching out to us and reminding us to be still and still believe that He will get us through the storms if we focus more faithfully on Him, not the wind and the waves."

Nevertheless, when we focus more on our fears than on our faith, it's easier to believe that the wind and the waves of wickedness in this world will sink our ships, even though Jesus is on board (Matthew 8:23-27). We may believe that He is sleeping and doesn't care that we perish, but He is there

Washington junior All-Stars rout Cedar National, win title

by Tom Zulewski

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Heading into the Junior All-Stars championship baseball final July 9, Washington head coach Wayne Evans was a bit concerned about how his young players would respond to heat that reached the mid-90s by game time. A nine-run first inning eased Evans' fears and the team did quick work to clinch the title as early as possible.

Washington built on the big opening and put away Cedar National in a convincing 15-2 victory in four innings at Veterans Park to earn a trip to the Junior League West Regional in Bend, Ore., that begins Aug. 3.

"It came down to the kids and their desire," Evans said. "They really wanted this, came out and played their hearts out. This team has been great from the beginning."

Coming off a big 11-run rally that eliminated Dixie in a 16-6 win less than 24 hours earlier, Cedar National scored once in the second inning, but Washington responded with four runs in the third and added two more in the fourth. Genevieve Evans had an RBI double, drew two walks, scored two runs and pitched a scoreless fourth inning on the mound, including a double-play ground ball for the final outs that started the celebration. And her father was certainly proud.

"She fits in just fine with these

SHINING STARS

The Cedar American majors beat Washington, 4-3, on July 7. Both Little league softball divisions Majors and Minors went undefeated in the Allstar tournament to win the championship. Major division is moving on to regions to compete in California at the end of the month.

Cedar American hangs on, wins majors All-Star title

by Tom Zulewski

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Speed can be a good thing for a team looking to manufacture runs, and Cedar American's major softball All-Star team threw in an added dose of clutch pitching to help deliver a state title and a continuation of its season.

A throwing error allowed two runs to score in a three-run fourth inning, and Kacey Adams got a key strikeout for the final out as Cedar American edged the Washington All-Stars, 4-3, on July 7. The win gave CA its first trip to the West Regional in San Bernardino, Calif., since 2015 and denied Washington in its bid to repeat as champion.

Washington had trailed 4-2, but a groundout allowed the third run to score in the bottom of the sixth. For head coach Neisha Hawkins, it was the kind of play that made a big difference in the finish.

"It's nicer for the pitcher to have the bases empty there," Hawkins said. "These girls are excited to go play in San Bernardino."

With Cedar American only needing one win to win the title, they played Washington on even terms throughout. Both teams scored a run in the second inning, but Washington added a run in the bottom of the third and took a short-lived 2-1 lead. CA produced the winning rally after the first two batters were retired in the fourth.

Cedar American will open the 2022 West Regional against a team from Hawaii on July 23 in a 10 a.m. start. All games from the six-team, double-elimination regional through the July 29 final are available for viewing on ESPN Plus.

Snow Canyon overcomes '21 loss, wins majors All-Star title

by Tom Zulewski

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Mark Ence was sitting in the stands one year ago as he watched the Snow Canyon Majors All-Stars fall in a sixth-inning rally that gave Washington the state title. As the head coach for this season, he guided Snow Canyon through the winner's bracket to a championship crown.

SC scored all of its runs in the first inning and got the big plays that stopped a late rally as it beat Dixie, 8-4 to win the Utah All-Star state title for the major division July 9. Dixie had a run in and the tying run in the on-deck circle, but Brex Whitney came on and got the final strikeout that secured the win.

"We felt well coming in through the winner's bracket," Ence said. "This year we played pretty well all week and had plenty of pitching. Dixie is always a good team."

Dixie strung three singles together that produced three runs in the top of the fifth that broke the Snow Canyon shutout bid, and added a key defensive play where a runner was thrown out at the plate trying to score on a single to center field for the final out of the bottom of the inning.

The Snow Canyon major all-stars defeated Dixie, 8-4, on July 9 to win the Utah state title and Little League Mountain Regional berth.

"We felt well coming in through the winner's bracket. This year we played pretty well all week and had plenty of pitching."

Mark Ence, Snow Canyon head coach

Whitney came through with the clinching out that left two runners stranded and sent Snow Canyon to the West Regional in San Bernardino, Calif., that starts Aug. 7.

The field for the Little League World Series has been expanded to 20 teams, and Snow Canyon will play in the newly-formed, four-team Mountain Region. They open play against a team from Wyoming in a 12 p.m. start.

Big bats, strong pitching lift Enterprise Juniors

by Tom Zulewski

IRON COUNTY TODAY

The three-year wait was worth it for the Enterprise junior softball All-Star team, and they left little doubt as to how good they were. With the offense hitting the ball all over the field and Miley

Platt putting away opposing batters with power pitching, it didn't take long to secure the first West Regional berth since 2019.

Platt struck out nine and Enterprise scored at least three runs in every inning in a 13-1 rout over Cedar National in the championship game played July 6 at the Fields on the Hill softball complex.

Completing a dominating run through the tournament, Enterprise scored three runs in the first inning against National and repeated the feat in the second and fourth. Platt struck out the first seven batters in a row before the defense made a play in the field.

"We have a pretty solid pitcher who has great defense behind her," Enterprise head coach Curtis Rupp said. "We knew we could rely on her. She throws great heat, five pitches deep."

Cedar National didn't get its first hit until recording a triple with two out in the third, and broke through for its only run in the bottom of the fourth. Enterprise settled down and Platt shut the door with a strikeout for the final out that left two runners stranded on base.

With a trip to the Junior League West Regional in Tucson, Ariz. secured for the first time in three seasons, it only added to the special feeling for Rupp and Enterprise.

"We're really excited for the girls," Rupp said. "The experience down in Tucson, you're not going to get anything better than that. As long as we stay healthy, I think we can get all the way (to the World Series)."

Cedar National stayed alive and reached the final earlier in the day with a huge comeback from a 10-run deficit. National scored 14 runs in the top of the fourth inning and they held up for a 17-15 win over Washington in the elimination game.

The West Regional in Tucson starts July 22. A schedule has not been released as of this writing.

"The experience down in Tucson, you're not going to get anything better than that. As long as we stay healthy, I think we can get all the way (to the World Series)."

Curtis Rupp, Enterprise head coach

The Enterprise junior softball team beat Cedar National, 13-1 on July 6.

Sports on broadcast TV, we hardly know ye anymore

As someone who cut the cord from satellite TV years ago, being able to see sports on regular over-the-air broadcasts is always something worth noticing, especially if they originate from overseas. In the case of the 150th playing of The Open Championship, NBC will air the weekend rounds live from St. Andrews in Scotland.

With Wimbledon in the books, ESPN continues to be the viewing source to watch the gentlemen's and ladies singles final live. It bums me out that this is continuing to happen, but what makes this year especially depressing is they did a three-hour "encore" presentation shown on ABC (Channel 4 locally) each day from 1 to 4 p.m.

Talk about spoiler alert. When NBC aired Wimbledon back in the day, both of the singles finals were always aired live at 7 a.m., affectionately billed as "Breakfast at Wimbledon." Not only did non-cable/streaming service subscribers have to wait for the ABC showing, the final between Novak Djokovic and Nick Kyrgios went four sets and was decided in a tiebreaker.

I highly doubt the match fit into the broadcast window, but we digress. CBS had the Genesis Scottish Open and there was the WNBA All-Star Game prior to the tennis on ABC on Sunday. Such is the facts of life in sports television, but the money saved is far better than the alternative here.

Since we have live TV on the brain, it should be noted that The Open Championship will be shown for a combined 15 hours this weekend on NBC (Channel 5 locally), from 5 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday and 5 a.m. to Noon on Sunday. That is an excellent development.

On the NASCAR side of things, the next Cup Series race to be shown on NBC is happening in two weeks with the Verizon 200 on the road course at the Brickyard on July 31. After that, cable-free folks will have to wait until Aug. 27 for the Coke Zero Sugar 400 from Daytona.

Following Daytona, we'll have to wait for the final six races of the 2022 season to return to broadcast TV. The run starts with the YellaWood 500 at Talladega on Oct. 2, and the South Point 400 happens from Las Vegas Motor Speedway on Oct. 16. That race will be the first in the round of 8, and we could easily have the first ticket punched to the Championship 4 for the season finale at Phoenix Raceway on Nov. 6.

Also worth noting: NBC hits the air from Las Vegas that day at 12:30 p.m. (11:30 a.m. at the track). Here's hoping the weather will be tolerable by then.

RANDOM thoughts

Tom Zulewski
IRON COUNTY TODAY

» And finally: LVMS provided an excellent backdrop for Jeopardy's Jimmy McGuire in his final Clue Crew presentation that was shown

July 7. Appropriately, the category found in the Jeopardy round was "From The Speedway," and the players – more specifically Brian Ahern, who went on to win that game and $26,800 – didn't do too badly, answering three of the five clues correctly.

I knew Winston was the tobacco brand that served as the first title sponsor of NASCAR's top series, but got stumped on the $1,000 clue. It said, "The purpose of drafting, or following closely behind another car, is to create this between his tail and your nose so he pulls you along as your draft is reduced substantially." The right response: What is a vacuum?

Just remember to let this apply to race cars and not your wallet, and all will be well.

guys. They don't treat her any differently," Evans said of his daughter. "As far as being a player, she's definitely our most consistent pitcher. When we need strikes, we can count on her to throw strikes."

Washington's first opponent at the West Regional is still to be determined.

A. 140
B. 150
C. 160
D. 170

LAST WEEK'S ANSWERS

1. C: No. 11. The Bruins became the fifth school in NCAA Tournament history to get as far as the Final Four from that seed, joining LSU (1986), George Mason (2006), VCU (2011) and Loyola-Chicago (2018).

2. D: Dayton

3. B: 2000. The Bruins beat the Wolverines, 23-20, on Sept. 16, 2000, but Michigan leads the all-time series, 8-3.

4. A: Cotton Bowl.

5. A: Holiday Bowl.

6. A: Andy Enfield.

7. C: 11.

8. A: Michigan. Ironically, the Wolverines beat UCLA two games to one in the first year the best-of-3 championship series was introduced.

9. A: Alabama. UCLA was that year's runner-up.

10. B: 2001.

11. C: Cheryl Miller. Miller's brother is NBA legend and TNT analyst Reggie Miller.

12. C: Penn State. USC won that game over the Nittany Lions, 52-49, but it was played in 2017, not 2019. We regret the error.
