Iron Leaders Academy develops county leaders in inaugural cohort

Susie Knudsen

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Southern Utah University is pleased to announce the graduation of the inaugural cohort of Iron Leaders Academy, a leadership development program for established and emerging leaders in Iron County. The program is offered through SUU's Community and Professional Development department and provides opportunities for personal and professional growth in an experiential, high impact, nine-month training schedule.

"Iron Leaders Academy is designed to support the development of emerging leaders by giving them access to important parts of a community, done in an educational and unifying model," said Stephen Lisonbee, Governor's senior advisor to rural affairs and assistant vice president for the SUU Office of Regional Services. "Through their time together in a cohort, participants gain access to high-level introductions and connections so they can support positive change and respond to community needs."

Iron Leaders Academy is currently accepting applications for its next cohort set to kick off in mid-September and run through May of next year. Participants are expected to commit to one full "Adventure Day" each month that is built around a different theme and includes retreats, behind-the-scenes tours and meetings, guest lunches and VIP dinners, a mid-legislative session excursion to Utah's Capitol Hill, and university-sponsored training for strengthening the leader within.

"The experience improved my ability to speak to issues, know the right questions to ask, and most importantly, understand how people feel about challenges in their industry,” said Tiffney Christiansen, vice president of marketing for Leavitt Group and Iron County School Board candidate. “I learned more about our community in those months than all my 20 years of living in Iron County.”

The Iron Leaders Academy aims to unite elected officials, economic developers and other civic-minded leaders to provide an understanding of current and complex issues critical to leading Iron County into the future. Due to the length of the program and immersive design, participants build relationships within their cohort and connections to the community.

“This exposure to passionate, creative and intelligent people doing great things has vastly broadened my perspective of our community,” said James Mullenau, vice president of student services at Southwest Technical College. “I now have connections and references that will enable me to better collaborate as well as assist others in need of local resources.”

These founding leaders include Eric Leavitt, Mark Hendrickson, Mindy Benson, Stephen Lisonbee, Jared Tippets, Kevin Callister, Kristie McMullin, Steve Nelson, Melinda Pfundstein, Michelle Tullis, David Westwood and Brennan Wood.

The culmination of the program results in a graduation ceremony and award of an SUU Institutional Certificate. Visit suu.edu/prodev/leadership/ila to learn more and apply for the upcoming cohort.

UDOT Long-Range Rural Transportation Plan - community input needed

Alyssa Apaza

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

There are only a few weeks left of the formal comment period for Utah's Long-Range Rural Transportation Plan. We have extended the comment period through August 5, to allow more time for community members to provide their input.

As a reminder, the Utah Department of Transportation (UDOT) updates the Long-Range Rural Transportation Plan every four years to plan and prioritize anticipated transportation system needs for the next 25-30 years.

The public is invited to share their ideas to solve transportation challenges on state roads in rural Utah. Some ideas may include adding travel or passing lanes, improving intersections, adding bike lanes or sidewalks, increasing signage, extending paved trails and more.

Comments and ideas on how to address transportation needs are most helpful by August 5, 2022, however, individuals can provide input at any time throughout the planning process.

The public is encouraged to provide feedback in the following ways:

- » Fill out the survey and comment on the map found at publicinput.com/udotplanning.
- » Email the planning team at planning@utah.gov
- » Call a team representative at 385-360-1900

SUU Board of Trustees elects new chair, vice chair

from David Bishop

SUU DIRECTOR OF PR

The Southern Utah University Board of Trustees made history last Wednesday when it elected Jodi Hart-Wilson as its chair. It marks the first time in university history that a woman has served as chair of SUU's Board of Trustees. Hart-Wilson, also a SUU alumna, was first appointed as a Trustee in 2017.

"I am absolutely humbled by the confidence my fellow trustees have placed in me," said SUU Trustee Chair Hart-Wilson. "As an SUU alumna, I remember hoping at my graduation that one day I would be able to give back to a university that has given me so much. Everything that I learned at SUU has been a springboard for my life. This is an exciting time at SUU and I'm thrilled to be in a position to make a difference for future generations of SUU T-Birds."

Since 2019, Hart-Wilson has served as vice chair of SUU's Board of Trustees. She replaces Chair Rich Christiansen, who leaves the board after being appointed by Governor Spencer Cox to the Utah Board of Higher Education.

"It's been a delightful time to serve on the SUU Board of Trustees and I'm

Modern-Day Pioneers

Albert Einstein called Galileo the “father of modern science.” Imagine if either one could see the out-of-this-world images from the James Webb telescope! It’s interesting, perhaps ironic, that the specialty of this astonishing piece of pioneering technology (with an astronomical price tag--$10 billion) is to not only see further than anyone ever has into the cosmos, but to peer deeper into its past...

potentially even to the beginning of the universe, or close to it. While one can learn a lot about our planet’s history by staring at the stars, what about our people’s future? While it is one of life’s conundrums and crosses to bear that it seems easier to peer into our pasts than look forward with faith to our futures, we each still have the responsibility and ability to become modern-day pioneers in our lives, homes, neighborhoods, communities and nations.

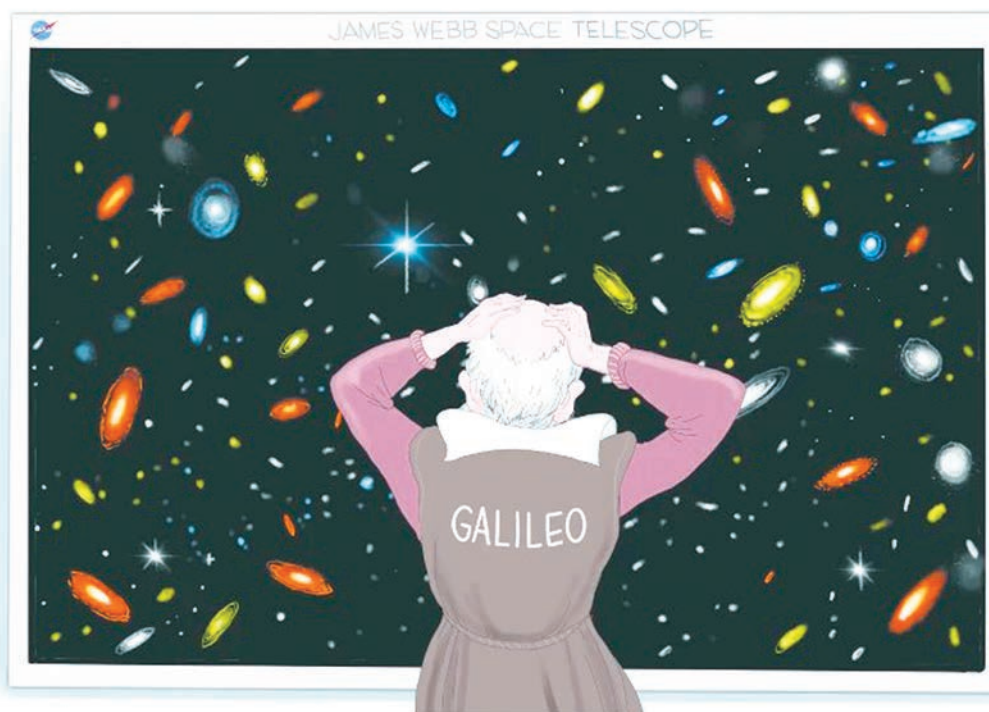

Whether you have a telescope or handcart, a voice, microphone, podium or podcast, a canvas, camera, pen or paintbrush, you can become a modern-day pioneer.

May the trails you blaze today help guide, guard, instruct and inspire those whom you influence on your travels and all those who follow behind.

Bryan Gray is a syndicated contributor and not an employee. His opinions are solely his own and not those of the Editor or Iron County Today.

Of all topics, religion is one of the most feared by columnists. It will provoke both outrage or praise, sympathy or derision. This shouldn’t come as a surprise. For those who believe in an Afterlife, religious practice will get them there, whereas love of Kenny Chesney or the Green Bay Packers is irrelevant.

Ironically, strong beliefs in religion have different strains. Ronald Reagan, not necessarily religious, espoused the idea that Americans should “put God back in the classroom.” However, Jimmy Carter, the most practicing religious U.S. President in our lifetime, thought that schools and government “should stay out of the prayer business.”

Yes, religious belief is personal and varied, but one thing most Utahns can agree with is that religion is less of a factor in American life today that it was even 30 years ago. The polls and surveys show a dramatic drop in church attendance and membership. The fastest-growing “religion” in the U.S. is “none.” If churches are showing membership growth, most is coming from Third-World countries, not the 50 states. Young adults 35 and under are especially showing a lack

Jesus Christ.”

For some, the woman’s attitude was superficial and hollow. They see religion as the only true path to salvation. Others, however, would see a church as one of the many ways, but not a divine road. To them, it makes no difference whether you find salvation on a Vatican highway or Interstate 15.

Opinions vary, but one thing for sure is that an increasing number of Americans (and, yes, Utahns as well) are finding their identity apart from a particular religion or church attendance. One of the most interesting arguments on the subject came in a New York Times report on a “branding conference” in which an entrepreneur said, “The delta between religion and the Marvel universe is smaller than most people realize. Maybe your grandfather identifies as Protestant or Catholic, but as more people become attached to the media, it’s only natural that younger of interest. One recent survey of college students found that only 18% said membership in a church was important in their life.

This doesn’t mean, of course, that spirituality is dead. Just this morning (as I write this column) an obituary in a Utah newspaper explained that a woman from Malad, Idaho “had not been in a church for many years, but had a fervent belief in her Savior,

TO THE EDITOR

Constitutional rights

Several years ago I was trained as a Force Recon Marine and served in Vietnam. I brought to bear on the communist enemy any and all types of weaponry including mortars, heavy artillery, naval gunfire, air strikes and whatever else deemed necessary. I was 19 years old. On my last enlistment I became the most junior rank ever to hold the position of Chief Sniper Instructor (3rd. Marine Div.) At no time in my life have I, or any one I served with, perpetrated a mass shooting.

Although I am not an NRA member I know of none of them who ever shot up a group of people. FBI statistics show that approximately 50,000 or more times annually a good guy with a gun - not including cops - has prevented or foiled a violent crime. And yet, ask yourself why this rarely makes the news. You may think you have the "natural right" to be free from some real or imagined threat but by the same token I have an absolute Constitutional right to keep and bear arms whether it be for personal and family protection or (as originally conceived) defense against oppressive government.

So, how does an 80-year-old lady living alone defend herself against some violent subhuman? Take her cane and hit him on the elbow? The VA has classed me as a 100% disabled veteran. I can, and will, defend myself even if it requires deadly force. Every anti-gun individual my comrades and I discuss this with is woefully ignorant in every sense of the word regarding firearms. "Assault Rifle?" Take a moment and read up as to what such a thing really is.

Realistically, the solution to minimizing this problem has been proposed by responsible people for a very long time. That is, when a troubled individual fantasizes mayhem on the Internet or expresses such openly, that should raise red flags and be dealt with accordingly.

Note that in the last 15 years such twisted creatures have composed almost 100% of these types. If liberals were serious, they would be screaming for the appropriate steps to be taken. So why don't they? Because common sense does not fit their control agenda. Under the Constitution, one has the absolute right to keep and bear arms. Under the Constitution you do not have the right to murder an unborn or recently born baby. Period. That issue is left to individual states.

As for the COVID scamdemic: Just last week the Feds quietly admitted that the Moderna vaccine (which really isn't a vaccine) is 95% ineffective. So, for all the self-righteous, self-appointed "woke" and others who want to force the rest of us on how and what to eat, drink, drive, speak, act and think, mind your own business.

R.B. Warke

All of Utah is receding, not just the Lake

In Utah, we don't have water for our lawns, clean air for our lungs, housing for our working poor, affordable food and gas, a big lake like we used to have, printed newspapers, schools safe from racist bullying, payday and title loans sporting less than 100% interest, a two-party political system, good drivers, adequate per pupil spending, lasting marriages, sensible Senators, cops and prosecutors who treat minorities equally, non-judgmental people, a small gender pay gap, good college graduation rates for women, and that's just for starters.

However, in Utah we do have fry sauce, mountain snow, Mountain Dew, plentiful low-paying jobs, lots of entrepreneurs/scammers, high school football, college football, Netflix, video games ruling lives of children and adults, reams of ambulance chasers and bath remodelers, porn available for righteous and sinners alike, a university unsafe from sexual predators, plenty of street fentanyl, Jazz basketball, Days of '47, a humungous airport . . . and the list goes on.

It seems like Life Elevated now more closely resembles a cultural Peter's Sink than the best place to raise a family in America.

How Unite Us and partners advance health equity by connecting people to care

Unite Us

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

The United States spends more on healthcare than any other country, yet it has some of the unhealthiest people in the world. Now more than ever, people are turning to their communities in times of need. When an individual needs medical support, they go to a hospital; but where do they turn when the need for support is outside the hospital walls?

The first line of care often lies within their schools, churches, libraries, and community groups. Enter Unite Us, a technology company that builds coordinated care networks of health and social service providers. With Unite Us, providers across sectors can send and receive secure, electronic referrals and report on tangible outcomes across a full range of services in a centralized, cohesive, and collaborative ecosystem. Unite Us has the only end-to-end solution in the market.

The company was founded in 2013 by Dan Brillman, an Air Force Reserves combat pilot, and Taylor Justice, a U.S. Army veteran. After witnessing the difficulties veterans re-entering civilian life experienced navigating a fragmented system, they decided to do something about it. From that, Unite Us was born. Today across 44 states, Unite Us helps anyone get connected to care.

Unite Us is focused on elevating social care to the same priority level as clinical care. This is hard work and not a short-term fix; it requires a long-term vision. Once, the focus was sending a referral to social care providers. Today, it is so much more than that because health and social care providers can track data and ensure that people receive the services they need within a comprehensive social care ecosystem. And as investments in social determinants of health started, the shift toward value-based care resulted.

“We need standard data to monitor and track gaps in service and trends in outcomes, and we need tools that support care navigators enrolling clients in services,” said Leticia Goodman, Utah State Network Director at Unite Us. “Additionally, we also need to shift funding and investments into the community. Without that, we won’t be able to advance health for our communities. Our focus is continually innovating, finding new solutions, and bringing partners together to solve large and complex problems,” she added.

Today’s Unite Us is so much more than technology; the company empowers social and medical service providers to work together, integrating health and social care in the communities where people need it most. Unite Us understands that medical care alone does not equate to wellness: People don’t live in hospitals—they live in communities. In addition, local healthcare partners recognize the intricate link between health and social care. They partner with Unite Us to provide this platform at no cost to community-based organizations. Better care coordination will lead to better outcomes.

Unite Us is expanding into Iron, Beaver, Garfield, and Kane counties of Utah in partnership with Iron County Care & Share, a Unite Us Champion. Local organizations in this region of the state will receive access to the platform this August and be able to support their clients and communities in accessing community resources in a more streamlined and coordinated manner.

For more information on how to join the network, visit www.uniteus.com/contact and follow Unite Us on LinkedIn, Twitter, Instagram, and Facebook.

generations may instead identify as Marvel or DC Comic fans.”

I find this strange. I would suggest that a major reason young people have drifted from mainstream religion is they see churches lining up with political causes. This goes both ways. White Catholics voted for Trump despite his criticism of the Pope, yet polls show younger voters of all faiths seem skeptical of conservative church leaders who oppose gay rights or support strong anti-abortion measures.

Again, that’s my evaluation of why church membership is stagnant. But I never imagined that, as the entrepreneur thinks, Thor, Iron Man, or (gasp!) Pikachu could become more admired than Jesus or other Biblical characters.

And this is why most columnists stay away from religion.

Three visitors to my yard

by Mary Anne Andersen

CEDAR CITY ARTS COUNCIL

We first saw her as we pulled up in front of the house on our return from vacation. We looked at each other and said in unison, "Is that a chicken?!" Sure enough, a brown chicken was under the trees in our front yard, and she has been a frequent visitor ever since. She shows up any time of the day, but if pressed, I would say I see her the most in the morning. (But maybe that is when I am most likely to be outside myself).

She is often in the corner where the ivy grows up over a rock wall. One day we startled each other as I knelt down to do some weeding there. I heard her chuckling softly before I saw her within arm's length, so I spoke to her softly as I went about my work, but she didn't want me there. The scolding became louder and finally she swooped down over the wall to the driveway below. Other times she is in the little wild-space corner we have, or under the deck. I worried when I caught her wandering among the tomatoes, but apparently she was not interested in the fruit.

The funniest chicken event was the egg she left for us on our front sidewalk. I walked out one day to see a broken egg that had had time to thoroughly bake onto the pavement. (My husband had to really scrape at it with a shovel). The broken shell was a foot or two down the walk. That was the only time she has annoyed us.

Our second group of visitors has been invited, actually. We rescued a years-old bird feeder that had hung outside my mother-in-law's window and hung it in the front yard, outside my piano-room window. It didn't take long before there were a dozen or so small birds jostling for position on the feeder ledges. We were surprised to find that they could eat or spill ten cups of seed in four days' time. We have had to add an item to our food budget: wild bird seed. They knock the seed off the ledges onto the dirt below and then congregate there, picking up the spilled seeds off the ground. Some of them are starting to sprout up among the ground cover.

I worried that the bigger starlings, doves, or crows would chase them away but that is not the avian species that joins them there under the feeder. Yup. The chicken. She scratches there on occasion, flinging the wood chips about and requiring some cleaning up after. Sigh.

The third visitor is a beautiful, large yellow butterfly that can be seen flitting in and out among the trees or around the deck. Gendered? I don't know. Where does she go between visits? I don't know. She bothers none of our other guests, just blesses me with reminders that nature is more exquisite than anything we could create. Brilliant, independent, free of the earth, she is my favorite.

SUU alumna lives out childhood dream

by Liz Armstrong

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

For actor Anatasha Blakely, dreams really can—and do—come true.

Blakely is in this year's acting company at the Utah Shakespeare Festival, and for her it's not just a dream come true, but a full-circle moment (and a homecoming) in her life.

Blakely grew up in Orem, Utah, before attending Southern Utah University to study classical theatre. While here she fell in love with, not just acting, but with Shakespeare and the Festival. Twelve years later, she is back in her college town, and she said it feels like her teenage dreams have come true.

"When I was sixteen, I fell in love with Shakespeare at the Festival," Blakely said. "I was obsessed with Education Director Michael Bahr and thought he was the coolest person—I still do."

Blakely went on to play Helen in the Festival's educational touring production of A Midsummer Night's Dream (directed by Bahr) after she graduated from SUU in 2010.

As a college student, she performed with Off the Cuff, a comedy improvisation company in Cedar City and met some improv actors from Los Angeles.

"I was drawn to go do improv," Blakely said. "I went to iO West and Second City in Los Angeles and tried to get the equivalent of a master's degree in comedy, which I think really changed how I look at Shakespeare and how I approach acting."

Living and acting in L.A for ten years allowed Blakely to go out and find herself artistically away from home. "I'm trained in classical theatre, and that's really structured; and if I wanted to be the artist I thought I could, I needed to do the opposite of that, which was jumping on stage and doing improv," Blakely said.

In addition to changing her perspective as an actor, leaving her home state has made coming back that much more special. Blakely is extremely excited to have landed the role of E. Dumaine in All's Well That Ends Well because she has worked with director Melinda Pfundstein before.

"I think she's a genius, so being able to be in the room with her again is a privilege that I don't take lightly," Blakely said.

She also finds parallels between the two roles she's playing, although E. Dumaine, friend of Bertram, in All's Well That Ends Well, and Stephano's drunken character in The Tempest are very different. "Both of the plays are about grace which is beautiful at a time like this, and there's a mischievousness in both of my characters that'll be fun," she said.

From falling in love with Shakespeare for the first time as a teenager, to becoming a member of the Utah Shakespeare Festival acting company in the very same place, Blakely's story is the epitome of a happy ending—and a full-circle journey.

Music legend to perform in Beaver, Cedar City this weekend

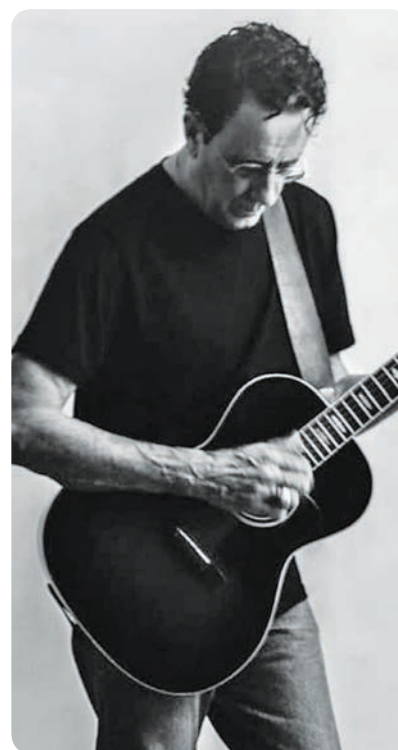

by George Loosley

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Larry John McNally's songs have been recorded by some of the greatest artists of all time, including The Eagles, Don Henley, Bonnie Raitt, Aaron Neville, Mavis Staples, Rod Stewart and more.

The Motown Song by Rod Stewart was a radio hit and added to dance mixes everywhere in 1991. In 2000 Don Henley recorded For My Wedding for his album Inside Job. One of the most memorable songs on the final Eagles album, Long road Out of Eden was I Love To Watch A Woman Dance, sung by the late Glenn Frey.

Larry John McNally's lyrics are literary yet conversational and his guitar playing has been described as "folk-Hendrix." The past few years he has been performing all over the world, Argentina, Japan, the UK, Portugal, Holland and more, both as a solo artist and as 1/2 of the duo McNally Waters, Bonnie Raitt says: "Nobody's Girl" is a masterpiece. Some of my favorite songs I've ever recorded are written by men—men who are highly conscious of such wonderful versions of what modern men could be. It has a complexity in the lyric that is so artful." She added, "Larry John McNally is one of my favorite writers ever. He's an undersung, underrated brilliant artist, and he's constantly putting out records and should be appreciated more than he is."

Come listen to this music legend on (July 29, 7:30pm) at the Beaver Opera House (55 E. Center St. Beaver, UT) and (July 30, 8pm) @ Off The Cuff Improv Theatre (913 S Main St, Cedar City). Tickets $20 per person (purchase @ otccomedy.com and at the door). Enjoy an evening with Larry John McNally. His songs have been recorded by Rod Stewart, Bonnie Raitt, The Eagles, and many others.

ENOCH COMMUNITY CELEBRATES Pioneer Day

It was a warm, but beautiful morning as the City of Enoch lined both sides of Midvalley Road to enjoy a parade to honor our pioneer past, present and future in southern Utah. Just as our courageous ancestors traveled "Forward With Faith" with their families, hearts and handcarts, we are each reminded and encouraged to keep moving forward as a modern-day pioneer wherever we are.

Local businesswoman creates interactive shopping experience

By Weslie Stratton

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Blooms and Arrows, home to children's clothing boutique and art studio, was created by local business woman Kellie Langeliers.

Located inside the Boomer's Building on Main Street, the shop features unique clothing items for girls and boys as well as opportunities for budding young artists to develop their skills.

"We carry girls [size] NB to 14 and boys NB to six in our boutique," Langeliers said. "The Makers Studio has plaster pieces and wood crafts to paint during open art hours and hosts a variety of fun classes."

The shop owner said that her favorite art classes are the Crafty Princess Summer Series where they have a different princess come for story time, a sing along and a craft.

"It's been such a fun series. Our tween/teen paint nights named Pizza and Painting or Cookies and Canvas are also a super fun event," she added. "I love watching these budding artists hard at work"

Langeliers prides herself in carrying reputable brands.

"Many owned by mamas like me or families like mine," she said. "Brands that are original in their designs that took the time to choose the best fabrics and the most gorgeous patterns."

The shop owner said that she first started the business for financial gain and to fulfill her passions.

"That's why I started but its definitely not why I continue," she said. "Now I work hard for my customers. For the grandma's looking to spoil their grandbabies, for the tweens looking for that 'it' outfit, and for the littles looking to celebrate their birthdays with friends.

"That's why I wanted the physical store. To get to know this town. To fill a hole that was missing on Main Street. A business geared towards our kids."

Langeliers explained that her favorite aspect of shop ownership is being out with the community.

"I love that the people who started as a customer are now friends. I love the feeling I get when the hand selected item I chose puts a smile on the purchasers face," she said, adding, "I love when a little girl choses a new outfit and leaves feeling beautiful and confident because of the experience she has had here."

Blooms and Arrows is located at 5 N Main Street #306 and is open Tues-Fri from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

Langeliers resides in New Harmony with her husband, Ben, and their two kids Cru (six) and Bennette (four). In her spare time she enjoys gardening and RZR rides with her family.

Blooms and Arrows owner Kellie Langeliers offers a unique shopping experience on Main Street for all ages.

Trail Of Faith – A new beginning

by May Hunter

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

It was a journey to a new promised land in the American West. Over one hundred fifty years ago, thousands of emigrants found themselves walking thirteen hundred miles, from Iowa to Utah, and some continuing on to California. Carting their meager possessions in hastily built two-wheeled wagons that looked much like shallow, oversized wheelbarrows, the travelers pulled and pushed their handcarts to their new homes.

The handcart pioneers began the trek in high spirits, even though it meant fourteen or fifteen weeks of walking—regardless of age or health.

In the mid-nineteenth century, tens of thousands of British, Welsh, and Scandinavians crowded the docks at Liverpool, England, to take a one-way ocean voyage to America. These emigrants also dreamed of a new life, a new beginning.

The settlement of the frontiers of the American West is a gripping history of hope and hardship. Explorers, trappers, miners, and settlers by the tens of thousands crossed the Great Plains and Rockies to realize their dreams. They came by horseback and wagon: yet many of them walked those thousands of miles. Among them was George Hunter, the seventh child of James and Mary Snadon Hunter. He was born March 30, 1828, in Devon Clackmannan, Scotland. At a very young age he worked in the coal mines near his home. He attended some school but was mostly self-taught, reading books and studying every chance he could. He was a strong believer in education and later in life, served four terms as school trustee.

On January 29, 1849, Hunter along with his parents, brothers and sisters set sail from Liverpool, England for America, arriving at New Orleans on April 2 of the same year. They spent over two months on the water. They did not stay in New Orleans, but went straight to St. Louis, where they lived until 1850. Leaving his parents in St. Louis, he left for Salt Lake City. Having no money with which to pay his expenses, Hunter did work for different members of the pioneer company while crossing the plains.

After arriving in Salt Lake City, Hunter was sent to Center Creek, (now Parowan) on January 13, 1851. He remained there until November of the same year to help settle the area. On November 11, 1851, he was called upon to go to Coal Creek (now Cedar City) for the purpose of manufacturing iron, as he had experience in this in his native land.

While working in the coal mine-shaft, Hunter began to experience liver trouble, a condition from which he suffered for the remaining 32 years of his life. At no time during this period did he know a well day. No matter his suffering, Hunter always had a smile and a kind word for everyone with never a complaint.

Hunter, as a businessman and a qualified bookkeeper, he helped start C.C. Herd Cattle Company, the Co-op Store, and the Cedar Sheep Store and was a bookkeeper for Bulloch Brothers, Homer Duncan and several other organizations. Hunter also operated the first butcher shop in Cedar City.

The Caring Clown

As the writer of this rut, I realize that there are some readers already cringing about this clown. Therefore, it is my duty to declare a disclaimer. I know that clowns have a bad rap and rep in today's world. I also know that many experience coulrophobia (Fear of someone on stilts, i.e. Clowns) when it comes to even the friendliest and most well-meaning of clowns. Clowns are actual people too, underneath their makeup and despite their often silly customs and costumes.

That being said, should you continue reading, I hope you'll keep in mind this is a caring, nice Norman Rockwell clown, not a scary, deceitfully charming, but harming clown as portrayed in so many horror movies. Above all,

I hope you'll forgive me if it did/does startle you.

My question about this apparently compassionate painting is, why is this boy running away? And what made him do so in such a hurry that he could not put on his shoes? Maybe he doesn't have shoes? As surroundings and even peer out of our own ruts once in a while to see where we can help.

Because in today's world there are a lot of hurting people. All we need to do is turn on the news, or open our phones, tablets or computers and we can see hurting people anywhere in the world. Even without the news, we can read books, watch movies, listen to music and play video games that each portrays and even provokes fears and commits crimes and horrors worse than any Hollywood clown could conjure.

And yet, I think we can get so caught up in the rotten ruts of seeing people hurting people that we can forget what it looks like (feels like) to see people helping people. In today's world, caring is often seen as interfering, intruding and it's easier to just walk on by than stop and take a moment to share a moment, or to care, or help carry one's burden, or at least help make it lighter.

True, some people are so busy clowning round they don't even notice the other people around them anyway. It's no wonder people think running away and staying away from people is a good idea—they're tired of getting ignored and/or hurt. But that doesn't mean they don't want to care or be cared about.

In life, we may not be a clown, or a runaway. And whether we're good at hiding from or seeing our hurts and those of others, Rockwell is reminding us to take a moment to not only see the needs around us, but lend a helping hand and caring heart where we can, no matter our daily customs (schedules) and costumes (uniforms).

Jacob Harris Froerer

Our beautiful boy, Jacob Harris Froerer, age 25, passed away in the early morning hours of Sunday, July 17, 2022, in St. George, Utah. He was born to David Eugene Froerer and Lacey Brooke (nee Froerer) Jensen on April 21, 1997, in Salt Lake City, Utah. Jake was raised in Cedar City and lived out his life in Utah and California.

On the day Jake was born, his heart stopped beating. Once resuscitated, he spent several days in the hospital under the watchful care of fine doctors and nurses. He was able to go home, though he was on a heart monitor for nearly 4 months.

The life Jake lived absolutely defied his precarious beginning. With big, bright eyes and a very expressive face, he was on the go from the moment he could roll over. He was extremely impatient and impulsive as an infant and toddler. If his mother did not get to his crib before the fifth cry of "Mom," Jake would begin stripping the sheets, throwing them and any blankets out of the crib. He was always so talkative and busy acting out his imagination to the point that if it became too quiet, it was cause for concern!

By age four, Jake tried to Tarzan off a set off wind-chimes...resulting in a swift drop to the ground, and the air getting knocked out of him—impulsive indeed! To say he was a handful would be a definite understatement. His aunt Falcity, who spent a great deal of time caring for him during those early years, adored him even so, and was very adept at wrangling this human cyclone.

Lucky for his parents, Jake had several grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins who were willing to engage with this boy and love him unconditionally. His cleverness and intelligence were on display throughout his childhood; he had a quick wit and a great sense of humor that was often riddled with cheeky sarcasm. . . a genetic trait to be sure. Physically, he had endless, endless amounts of energy coupled with pure athleticism that he poured into baseball and soccer. To watch him on the soccer field was to watch artistry and beauty in action. When not running at full speed, Jake was climbing something—trees, poles, and cliffs to name a few. He took great pleasure in climbing to the top of high mountain ridges; it is easy to remember his signature wave from the skyline and sun behind him.

Those who knew him best knew he possessed many natural gifts and talents, especially his love and gift of music. A self-taught guitar player, Jake seemed most at peace when he was singing and playing his beloved instrument. We loved the timbre of his voice, and took great pleasure in watching him become a talented musician.

His brothers knew that he truly cared about them; he would always be their brother in every circumstance. In turn, they saw him and loved him for who he was—tenacious, uncompromising, loyal, adventurous, and resilient. His grandpa Perkins surely saw himself in Jake as both were stubborn and unfiltered.

As an adult, Jake never lost that strong will and spirit he possessed at birth; it seemed his spirit was simply too big for his body. He lived a nomadic life...he went wherever his feet would take him, often with a guitar in tow. We will miss Jacob terribly, but we take comfort knowing that when his heart stopped beating, he was surely welcomed at the veil by his grandpa Perkins, who likely put him straight to work. We know that Heavenly Father assured him his struggle was over; he could be at peace; likewise, we know that he has met our Savior, Jesus Christ, his beloved brother, through whom all that is broken can be healed.

He is survived by the following: his brothers Alex Froerer, Matthew Froerer, Samuel Jensen, and Benjamin Jensen; included are Ryan Gute, Gregory Gute, and Christopher Gute: His parents Brian and Lacey Jensen and David Froerer: His grandparents Marsha Perkins, George (Gene) and Marilyn Froerer, and Bob and Becky Jensen. He is also survived by a generous host of loving aunts, uncles, and cousins.

He is preceded in death by his grandpa Daniel Harris Perkins, aunts Diane Perkins and Pamela Hernandez, and cousin Tanner Harris Kelsey.

Funeral services were held Saturday, July 23rd, 2022, at 11:00 AM in the chapel of Southern Utah Mortuary (190 N. 300 W., Cedar City, UT, 84720). The viewing was held prior to funeral from 9:30-10:30 AM also at Southern Utah Mortuary. Interment was in the Cedar City Cemetery, under the direction of Southern Utah Mortuary. Online condolences can be sent at www.mortuary.org.

Linley F Jefferson

Linley Jefferson passed away peacefully on July 20, 2022, at the Milford Valley Memorial Hospital. She was 87 years old. Linley was born on September 22, 1934, in Dunedin, New Zealand to George and Loretta Spears. She attended Otago Girls School in 1945, and completed her nursing training in 1958. Linley briefly lived in London and Italy before immigrating to the United States. Her move to the US was prompted by an advertisement she responded to in a local newspaper where registered nurses were needed in Milford, Utah.

Shortly after arriving, she met Richard Jefferson who became the love of her life. He was a dedicated, loyal and loving husband until the day he died in 2010, and they enjoyed many wonderful years together. Linley worked as a RN at Milford Valley Memorial hospital for 45 years retiring in 2007. She was deeply loved and respected among her peers, co-workers, patients and throughout all of Beaver County.

Aside from her lifelong career in nursing, her other interests included a love of reading, and she was a truly gifted gardener. Flowers were her passion and cooking warmed her soul. She joyfully served others by sharing some of her favorite dishes or preparing a friend's favorite meal. Some folks said she made the best banana bread in the county.

She had a quick wit and an impressive intellect until the very end. Her vibe and persona had an attraction and ability to draw in people of all ages, shapes, sizes and nationalities. You were always intrigued and entertained by her stories, conversations and life experiences. Linley had many friends and she was known as a dear friend to many. She loved and revered her New Zealand heritage. When asked why she never became an American citizen, she would explain that she would have to denounce her country. "Could you do that?" She would ask in horror! With vigor, her response in typical Linley fashion... "Well, I couldn't!" Until her death, she remained a proud and loyal British subject.

Linley is survived by her son, Thomas R. Jefferson of Powell, Wyoming, and a daughter, Elisabeth A. Hennagan of Killdeer, North Dakota. She is also survived by a step-daughter, Darla Frederick of Stockton, California and Janet Jefferson a daughter-in-law, who resides in London, California. She doted and fussed over her two grandchildren, Jackson Travis Redmond and Josie Rose Jefferson. She also has two great-granddaughters, Aubrey Rose Blount and Karlee Ann Redmond both of Powell, Wyoming. In New Zealand, she leaves behind a kind and attentive nephew, Christopher Spears, and two nieces, Katrina and Rogan Spears.

Linley was preceded in death by her husband, Richard Jefferson, her brother George Spears of New Zealand whom she dearly loved, and a baby sister, Elisabeth Copper of New Zealand. Also preceding her were her parents, George and Loretta Spears, and step-sons, George Todd Jefferson and Bradley Dean Jefferson.

The family would like to thank the staff at Milford Valley Memorial Hospital for their friendship and care of Linley over these last few years. An interment of Linley's ashes will take place at the Milford cemetery on September 24th at 11am.

Bernice Rember

Bernice Rember, age 93, passed away on July 17, 2022, at the Our House Assisted Living Center in Cedar City, UT. She was born on May 5, 1929, in Panguitch, UT, to Scott and Ada K. Owens Worthen. She grew up in Panguitch, Utah; the youngest of 5: Three boys and 2 girls: LaMar, Verd, Avis (Heidt) and James.

Bernice met Lawrence A. Rember, Jr. (Bud) in 1953 in Cedar City, UT. They were married on April 10, 1954, at the Wee Kirk o' the Heather Chapel in Las Vegas, NV and later sealed in the St. George Temple. Together they raised four daughters and a son. Bernice and Bud managed the Zion Lodge and Inn at Zion National Park the first few years after they were married...and loved it. They moved to Flagstaff, Arizona in 1960 where they spent 4 years while Bud was employed at the University. They then moved to Tempe, AZ, where Bud managed the food service for Arizona State University. In 1971, they moved back to Cedar City where they lived and raised their family in their home on Highland Drive. They bought Milt's Stage Stop up Cedar Canyon and operated that for a few years before deciding to "sell, go to work for the other guy and let them worry about taxes, etc." That's when Bernice went to work as a secretary at State Bank of Southern Utah. She worked there until she retired as the Executive Secretary.

Bernice loved writing and was thrilled to be invited to write a column for the local paper. She wrote columns for the Cedar City Spectrum and later the Iron County Record and Iron County Today for many years. She loved the opportunity to write about home-town news, people, and events.

Bernice was active in the communities in which she lived. She founded the PTA at her daughters' elementary school in Tempe, Arizona, and was a member of Beta Sigma Phi. In Cedar City, she was active in the Shakespearean Festival events for years... even chosen as the 1st Attendant to the first Festival Queen. She served as co-chair of the Iron County Parade, marched in numerous parades, and served in various roles for the American Institute of Banking (AIB). Bernice served on the Cedar City Library Board for years, served as a member of the Utah Foster Care Board serving the SW Region and was instrumental in the establishment and continued support of Women's Crisis Center in Cedar City, among other committees and projects—too numerous to mention. She was a life-long member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints serving in the Relief Society and as a teacher.

She is survived by her daughters, Patricia L. Chavez, Kanab, UT; Lori (Arlan) Fillerup, Cedar City, UT; Diane (Steve-deceased) Hafen, Camarillo, CA; and her son, Lawrence A. (Betty Ann) Rember III, Cedar City, UT; 15 grandchildren and 37 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Thursday, July 21, at noon, at Southern Utah Mortuary, 200 North 300 West, Cedar City, UT. An informal viewing was held at the mortuary one hour prior to the service. Interment was in the Cedar City Cemetery under the direction of Southern Utah Mortuary. Online condolences can be sent to www.sumortuary.org.

Ode to technology

As a thirtysomething housewife living a rural lifestyle with four little kids, I don't believe the old adage that things get better with time. I gave up social media years ago, and when I happen to Google national news it does nothing but rob me of valuable sleep.

My husband and I reminisce about calling someone on a landline and talking to their parents or a sibling before actually reaching a friend. I have priceless memories of collecting pennies from my dad's change drawer to buy treats at the gas station. I would happily go back and live the now controversial life of a 1950's housewife. Call me traditional, but I don't feel suppressed in my chosen roll of wife and mom!

That said, there are several advancements in technology that have simplified and improved my life as a mom that I would surely miss if I went back in time.

Here are a few:

Grocery pickup, oh how I love you!

Walmart made this option available at the tail end of my third pregnancy, right as I was starting to wonder how on earth I would manage the task of grocery shopping with three very little kids. These days I add my weeks' worth of menu items right to the app on my phone, drive to the pickup side of the store, check in and someone literally loads my groceries for me! I don't have to touch one single car seat buckle after leaving the house and I call that a modern miracle.

Camera phones.

I take so many pictures that I will probably never print off; but every single one of them is the preservation of a precious parenting moment for me. I spend many nights falling asleep while pouring over thousands of photos that may be nothing more than the facial expression of a delighted two-year-old who was just handed her very own ice cream cone. These are moments I probably wouldn't have captured if I had to use physical film that I would later pay to have printed at a local store.

Amazon and other online conveniences.

You mean I don't have to drive to St. George to shop for something that may not even be there? Sign me up! I shop online for pretty much everything and I'm very grateful for the time and money saved by this advancement!

Audio books.

At any given moment I have one or two audio books downloaded to my phone. I can vividly recall trying to read a physical book while holding my first baby and thinking, "I may never be able to read again!" after he crinkled and shredded a few pages with his flailing hands. Now I can listen to a story while making dinner, running errands or just praising the never ending trampoline tricks that my kids are always begging me to watch.

I still wish I could go back in time and live my life the way my grandparents, and even great-grandparents did, but since that is clearly not an option I will go ahead and enjoy these conveniences!

Local student represents Utah at American Legion Auxiliary Girls Nation

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Abigail Roundy, Cedar City, is one of 100 young women selected to attend the 75th American Legion Auxiliary (ALA) Girls Nation session July 23-30 in Washington, D.C. As part of the premier ALA program, two outstanding high school seniors are selected to represent their respective state as "senators" at ALA Girls Nation after participating in one of 50 ALA Girls State sessions held across the country. ALA Girls Nation is a seven-day leadership conference that provides aspiring young women leaders with practical insight into how the federal government operates, instills a sense of pride in our country, and promotes youth civic engagement. Many participants of the program go on to have careers in public service at the local, state, and national level.

Roundy, a rising senior at Cedar High School, was active in many ways during her week at ALA Utah Girls State. She also participates in many activities in her school and community including cross country, and track. She is also a member of the National Honor Society, Random Acts of Kindness Club, Model US Senate and Spanish Honor Society.

At ALA Girls Nation, Roundy will participate in mock senate sessions complete with caucuses and debating bills that range from personal to political interests. Other activities on the agenda include a visit to Arlington National Cemetery where they will place a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, a community service project, and a tour of the D.C. monuments.

"ALA Girls Nation is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for our nation's future leaders to learn about the inner workings of the federal government before they are of voting age," said Nancy Magginnis, ALA Girls Nation Committee chairman. "After attending their local ALA Girls State program and then ALA Girls Nation, the girls return home ready to be engaged citizens at all levels of government."

the early political life of Cedar City. He was elected Justice of the Peace in 1874, a position he held for a number of years. Hunter was used a great deal by the town and county officers because of his knowledge of the law. He even assisted the county court commissioners in securing the rights of way for roads and locations of roads.

Hunter rendered great assistance to the people of the community even assessing local doctors during medical calls. On one incident, Dr. George Middleton, then a small boy, was kicked in the face by a mule, breaking his jaw bone, and damaging his face. Dr. Wood was called upon to repair the fracture and sent for Hunter to go with him.

Hunter having just gone to bed and having had no sleep for several days and nights, left instructions with members of the family that they should not call him no matter how urgent the business. Family members relayed this message to the doctor, but Wood said he would not go unless Hunter went with him. Upon hearing of the nature of the injury, Hunter got out of bed and went with the doctor.

Hunter lived a fulfilling life, he was wise and full of integrity.

He was gifted in many aspects and helped so many people. He loved life and the community loved him for his many years of hard work and enduring dedication. He was a positive example to all those who knew him.

We are grateful for and honor the many pioneers who settled in Southern Utah. They were detrimental in planning and surveying the land and making our towns as we know them today. They were wise, intelligent, determined and ambitious and had hopes of fulfilling their dreams. And as such laid the foundations with faith, so we could also fulfill our dreams.

Did I Leave a Mark

by L. Brent Jones

As I've traversed my life's pathway,
Did I leave a mark,
Permanent and non-erasable,
That would illuminate the dark?

A mark that others recognized,
And attributed to me,
That was helpful on their journey,
For a clearer goal to see.

Perhaps I was a help to them,
In decisions they have made.
Or a friend just when they needed
one,
Their loneliness at stake.

Or, a warning of the pitfalls,
That I have stumbled into before.
So they'd avoid the same mistakes
And amount to even more.

Was I a beacon to their progress,
Or a weight that held them down?
Did I change a life to something good,
Or leave them with a frown?

That question has been haunting me,
As I look into my past.
And I wonder if I did enough,
But now, that lot is cast.

My opportunities are fading fast,
In the autumn of my years.
Where does my major focus lie,
As each dawning day appears?

I might never know whose life I've touched
As I am now looking back.
But they know what I've meant to them,
With the progress they could track.

It's then the whisper comes to me,
Resounding in my mind,
What is it I can do today,
So true happiness I will find?

My eternal joy is not in the past.
It's in those lives I can still touch.
With the example of His wondrous love,
That I rely on, oh so much!

"No One Else Knows" (Building 429)

In life, we all must sometimes pass through the valley of the shadow of death (Psalm 23:4-6), suffer our own dueling and grueling Gethsemanes (Luke 22:44) and endure our cruel crosses of the world. (Luke 9:23, Luke 14:27). And through Jesus' example, He reminds and empowers us that even though we will have tribulation in this world, He overcame it all (John 16:33) so He could help us overcome our crosses (1 Peter 5:7).

These tender mercies include the need for rest (Matthew 11:28-30) and resistance (and escape) when we're tempted (1 Corinthians 10:13). And with this renewed and reinforced spirit, we can then reach out and help bless others in their times of need (Galatians 6:2, 2 Corinthians 1:3-4).

No, we cannot know fully the depth of the pain and suffering of another person. Even the most endearing empath and compassionate companions cannot reach or rescue like the Savior of the world can. We know that He can not only see the depth of every discomfort in our hearts (1 Samuel 16:7), but with

His merciful hands (and heart) He can reach even the darkest part and remind us that we are still loved and that there is still hope in this sometimes seemingly hopeless world.

Nevertheless, just because we cannot care on such a divine depth doesn't mean that we cannot also be effective in bearing one another's ment) in helping others (John 14:12)?

Perhaps right now you can't see or imagine a place of peace, or how God could ever rescue and restore you (Romans 7:24) but that's why Jesus did all He did (Revelation 1:18)!

He is the One who doesn't need you to explain every pain before He begins to comfort you and console you before counselling you. He is One who will not only help restore your peace, but take the broken pieces of your past and present and create within you a new heart and new hope (Romans 21:5) and even a new future (Jeremiah 29:11) and solace for your soul.

Therefore, to anyone who feels you have to fake a smile to endure another mile; who have no hand to hold, or arms to hold you; to anyone who believes the world is deaf and yet are still silently crying out in pain for someone to hear you, help you and love you; may this song and these words remind you that when no one else knows, God knows and He is still (and always) One who hears, helps, holds, and loves you back to life (1 Peter 1:3-6).

burdens, or providing timely comfort and courage during the chaotic crucibles of another person's life. Isn't that how we become more caring, by doing—by practicing what we preach—when we reach out to others in need (John 15:17)?

Also, isn't this one of the Messiah's imploring messages to not only discard our distractions to "Come follow me," (Luke 18:22), but to become a partner (not a replace-

Exaltation of God

by Manuel Ybarra, Jr.

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

While the word "Exaltation" is not listed in the King James Version of the Holy Bible, the prime word "exalt" is clear, when it says, we are to exalt God, the Creator. Without Him nothing would exist, including our earthly home Earth, and the never-ending Universe.

Yet today, skeptical Americans, and the World, still deny the existence of their Creator. All the proof which God Almighty has provided through His word has been forgotten. Forgotten because of human failure to follow God's order that each generation are to teach each new generation God's Word.

Yes, we need to exalt God the Father, Jesus the Son of God, and God's Holy Ghost. But it is not because they have a need to be exalted by their creation. No, it is because they love us and want us to go to heaven and not Hell!

God has gone to great lengths in creating Earth, the Universe, and everything else that exists, including Humanity. He loves everything he created, but most of all he loves US!

Unfortunately, America and the World, refuses to believe and follow God's commands to believe in Him and seek God's plan for salvation through Jesus Christ blood sacrifice on the cross. One wonders how much longer God's patience is going to last. He might call "Time" any time, and then, His Judgment!

LOCAL RACER COMPETES FOR NATIONAL SPOTLIGHT IN MONSTER ENERGY AMA AMATEUR NATIONAL MOTOCROSS CHAMPIONSHIP

by Leslie Mower

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Enoch's Logan Mower just made his dream come true. The 9-year-old dirt bike racer has qualified for the largest amateur motocross race in the world, the 41st Annual Monster Energy AMA Amateur National Motocross Championship, to be held August 1 – August 6 at the historic Loretta Lynn Ranch.

"The Amateur National at Loretta Lynn's is the best of the best motocrossers in America and around the world," said Tim Cotter, Director of MX Sports. "Just being here makes you an elite racer and a top athlete. A solid finish at Loretta's would give you instant National recognition and a possible professional career."

Most of America's top professional motocross racers, including James Stewart, Ricky Carmichael, Travis Pastrana and Ryan Dungey, have won AMA Amateur National titles at Loretta Lynn's.

Mower, who attends Enoch

Elementary in the 3rd grade, has been riding dirt bikes since he was 5 years old.

With the help of sponsors such as Cedar Performance Transmission, Fasst Company, 891 Suspension, Asterisk, RJR Motorsports, ASV, Mika Metals and Slick Products who help pay his way to the races, Mower has had the opportunity to pursue his dreams. Since he began racing in 2019, he has competed in over 220 races, had 71 podium finishes and 26

1st place finishes.

The Utah RMX Summer and Winter Series keep Logan busy racing or practicing nearly every weekend, but he also competes for titles in AMA sanctioned state championships in Utah, Idaho, and Nevada. During Logan's first year of racing he won the RMX Triple Crown Championship, Idaho State Championship and Utah State Championship, where he earned a prestigious AMA #1 plate signed by Pro Supercross Garret Marchbanks.

Mower will make the long journey to Hurricane Mills, Tennessee along with his Father and Mother. The race runs August 1-6. Mower and his family will be camping onsite for the week-long event and will participate in many non-racing evening activities.

Racers may enter a wide variety of classes, from minicycle classes for children as young as four, all the way up to a senior division for riders over 50. There are also classes for women and classes for both stock and modi-

SUU Alumni sets Canadian National Record at World Track Championships

by Trevor Marbut

ASST. DIRECTOR, SUU ATHLETIC COMM.

EUGENE, Oregon — The World Track and Field Championships are a place where records are set and broken. Sunday morning (July 17, 2022) was no exception when SUU Alumni t ('12) crossed the finish line two minutes faster than his own personal best. His time of two hours, seven minutes, and nine seconds is not only a new record for Levins but it also became the new Canadian national record.

Levins who was disappointed by his times at the Tokyo Olympics has upped his training regime and this change has paid major dividends. He came into the race confident that running the distance of nearly seven marathons a week combined with an increase in strength training and speed work would allow him to stay with the lead pack.

Levins said of his performance "It felt so cool to be able to compete at an international level like that. I really haven't done that yet in my career, so I'm hoping this is a big step forward for me."

Levins' time was good enough for a 4th place finish in the event. Which is the highest ever finish for a Canadian male at the World Championships.

Things can escalate quickly, no matter the sport

So you think you can handle playing the game of golf, huh? You've got professional dreams and ambitions, plus the mental makeup to deal with all the ups and downs that always happen over the course of four days and 72 holes on the PGA Tour.

Well, may I present to you a bit of story time, courtesy of the final round of the 3M Open played at TPC Twin Cities in Blaine, Minn.

As the final round began Sunday, Scott Piercy started with a four-shot lead after carding a 5-under 66 in Round 3 in what could nicely be described as miserable conditions. The weather was better as the sun appeared for the final round, but wind was an issue.

Even with that going on, Piercy reached the tee at the par-3 8th hole Sunday with a five-shot lead. By the time he left the 14th green after a triple-bogey, his lead was gone and a Utahn who's pretty good at this golf thing took advantage. Tony Finau, the Salt Lake City native and West High grad, caught a few good breaks on the way to a 4-under 67, a 17-under 267 total, and his third PGA Tour victory.

While there was joy in the Finau camp for his second win in less than a calendar year, Piercy had to wonder what hit him after he shot a final-round 76 and finished tied for fourth. With two tournaments left until the top 125 are locked in for the FedEx Cup playoffs, Piercy went from an almost-sure lock at No. 48 to a projected position at No. 112 when the points are tabulated.

Piercy probably relates well to James Hahn, who shot a 65 on Sunday – the best round of the day – and moved up from No. 133 to 109 after finishing tied with him for fourth at 13-under, four behind Finau. Instead of worrying and wondering what might have been, the focus for players like Piercy and Hahn has to turn to doing well at the final two events – the Rocket Mortgage Classic and Wyndham Championship – to reach the playoffs and keep their PGA Tour cards for 2023.

When the mental game is strong, the physical game should follow whether or not Mother Nature tries to get in the way.

– Cedar American's entry at the Little League Softball West Regional at Al Houghton Stadium in San Bernardino, Calif., happened Saturday, and the team came out with an opening 16-1 loss in three innings to the team from Hilo, Hawaii.

Hawaii was able to hit the ball to open spaces often and seven errors from Cedar American only added to the team's offensive feast. They finished with 11 hits in the victory and scored 10 runs in the bottom of the second inning to grab control.

Hayden Bunnell broke up Hilo's no-hit bid with a single to start the top of the third and she came around to score CA's only run, but their opponents sealed the win with four more runs in the bottom of the inning to advance.

Cedar American faced an elimination game at the regional Monday afternoon against Cave Creek, Ariz., that was too late for press deadline.
